

French Demand Probe Of Fire Fatal to 144

ST. LAURENT DU PONT, France (AP) — French authorities from cabinet rank down pressed an investigation today to determine why 144 persons died in a weekend dance hall fire in this mountain town 24 miles northwest of Grenoble.

Firemen pulled 142 corpses from the ruins. Ten other persons were injured, and two of them died today.

From accounts of the 20-odd survivors of the Halloween night fire, it appeared that the young dancers panicked and piled up against the exit doors. There were some reports that the four exits from the one-story, steel-frame building were locked and even boarded up, but others contradicted this.

Young People

A throng of young people, mostly 18 to 25, had flocked to the Cinq-Sept Dance Hall from several villages in the region.

The hall was hung with plastic decorations, giving it the appearance of a cave. A five-piece orchestra, called the Storm, promised to create a "hurricane on the stage."

About 1:45 a.m., according to Joelle Dondey, the 21-year-old cashier, "some smoke started coming from the ceiling, then flames burst out." She was dragged out of the hall with her hair burning.

"The place went up like a matchbox," said one of 30 village firemen who were soon on the scene.

When the firemen broke into the building they found burned and twisted bodies piled up five or six feet high near the exits. "It was a horrible sight," said fireman Georges Rostan. "Bodies were stuck to the doors and it seemed they were still pushing to get out. There were bodies everywhere, unrecognizable, broken up."

Cause of Fire

Officials, including Secretary of State Jacques Baumel, heard reports that the blaze was caused either by a short circuit or by a cigarette butt tossed playfully onto someone's coat.

One survivor, Dominique Guette, 17, said the exit doors had been padlocked and planks nailed over them to keep out gatecrashers. Fireman Rostan said the doors were locked from the inside and the firemen had to break the locks to reach the victims.

However, Raymond Chaniel, 25, who had once helped manage the dance hall, said the metal-covered doors were not locked but were so swollen by the heat they would not open. Daniel Bellemain, 21, a cook from the hall's restaurant, said the doors "were simply locked from the inside with a knob and could have been opened easily without a key." He said a bartender and five customers escaped through one of the doors.

Turnstiles

Two turnstile entrances to the hall swung inward as customers presented their tickets, but a catch prevented them from turning outward.

The hall was furnished with leather-covered benches, drapes and plastic decorations which burned like straw. Gilles Planter, a fire inspector, told newsmen that regulations require all such establishments to be decorated with fireproof material.

Mayor Pierre Perrin said a construction license had been granted in February for the building just outside his town, but that he had not been personally advised that it would be a dance hall, and that he had not given authorization for such an establishment. The dance hall let, a necklace, or a partly burned shoe.

The name of the establishment, Five-Seven, came from a local bar which burned down after a cooking fire last February. It was run by the same men who managed the dance hall. There were no victims that time, but two of the partners perished in the dance hall.

The dead were placed in coffins in a public hall and a special identity service was set up. By late Sunday night, relatives had identified 78 of the victims, sometimes only by a bent bracelet, a necklace, or a partly burned shoe.

Most of the dead were French, but bodies of one Dane, one Algerian and two Portuguese were found. Some of the victims had Italian names.

It was the 28th fire in which 100 or more persons have died in the 99 years since the Chicago fire on Oct. 8, 1871. The toll in Chicago was 250 lives; the next day 180 miles to the north, 1,182 persons died in a forest fire around Peshtigo, Wis. It was the worst of the 28 fires.

Rugged Campaigning Ending Across Nation

Congressional, State Offices at Stake

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the century's hardest fought mid-term election campaigns

rumbles to a close today as President Nixon and candidates from coast-to-coast fill the final hours with multimedia appeals for support.

At stake in Tuesday's election — termed by Nixon "probably the most important and decisive" in the nation's history — are 35 Senate seats, 35 govern-norships and a new House of Representatives.

Many races were cliff-hangers, but it appeared virtually certain Democrats would retain control of Congress and pick up several governorships.

Nixon, who had joined Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in a concentrated 35-state campaign blitz, goes on nationwide television tonight to sound an election eve appeal for more Republicans in Congress.

Law and Order

In the prime time replay of weekend campaign speeches, Nixon will hit again at the GOP's law-and-order theme, calling on "the great silent majority" to speak out in the polling booth "against the appeasement of the rock throwers and the obscenity shouters in America."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, will follow Nixon on national television tonight to respond to what he called "the Republican tactics of fear and division that threaten to tear this country apart."

A spokesman for Muskie's Washington office said the three major networks have been asked to donate at least 15 minutes for the Muskie rebuttal speech but that money is being raised to pay for the time if the request fails.

Muskie has been mentioned as a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Most Democratic candidates have pitched their campaigns on the pocketbook issues of inflation and unemployment, and Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the election is "in a sense a referendum on the administration, its policy and its records—the President and the vice president."

Edge in Senate

As the rough-and-tumble campaign neared an end, politicians debated whether Republicans would succeed in slicing into the Democrats' 57-43 edge in the Senate and 243-187 margin in the House, and whether Democrats would cut down the GOP's 52-18 lead in governorships.

O'Brien said Democrats "will maintain our position in the House, will continue to have a majority in the Senate and will have a significant gain in governorships."

Republican Chairman Rogers

C. B. Morton countered: "We will have a victory ... if we hold our own or do well in the Senate, and break the tradition of losing in off-year elections in the House ..."

"If we break even, it would be pretty good," said Nixon's communications chief, Herb Klein, in a comment indicative of the steady lowering of election sights that have emanated from the White House in recent weeks.

Hope for Gain

Last Thursday, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the administration hoped for a net gain or one or two votes on crucial Senate issues.

The weekend brought other developments:

—Nixon issued a directive offering the assistance of the Justice Department to cities and states in cases involving assaults on police officers. "The availability of federal assistance will have a deterring effect" on such lawsuits, the chief executive said.

—After meeting with Nixon at the Western White House, Agnew accused Democrats of using "deplorable fear or scare tactics" to give the impression the nation is suffering from a "depression, recession or something worse."

Football Time

—Football fans got a dose of politics as Nixon and O'Brien split network television air time between halves of the Washington-Denver pro football game, Nixon appealed for the election of a Congress which will work with him, while the Democratic chairman rejected charges his party's candidates are soft on crime and violence.

—The executive director of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee said charges of dirty campaigning in Senate contests more than doubled this year. "It could reflect the importance the White House has attached to the Senate races," said Samuel J. Archibald, "and perhaps the greater interest in Senate races."

—Archibald also said two Republican senatorial candidates, Nelson Gross of New Jersey and Anderson Carter of New Mexico, have repudiated a series of newspaper advertisements linking their opponents and six other

Illicit Operation in Thailand

GIs Sell Drugs on Black Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army investigators have confirmed that GIs diverted drugs and PX goods into Thailand's black market as well as doctoring pay records and promotions, a House committee says.

According to the House military operations subcommittee, the investigators found the illegal activities occurred in Bangkok and at two U. S. bases in Thailand.

The inquiry was prompted by two Army enlisted men who told the Associated Press and the subcommittee they had been involved in thefts and illicit pay record changes before leaving Thailand a year ago.

"You could sell anything you wanted to," said one soldier. He stated he made about $500 a day over a three month period by diverting medical supplies into the Thai black market.

Records Falsified

He said shipments of drugs and other medical items intended for service hospitals were diverted to the black market by falsifying shipping records.

The second soldier said clerks in a finance detachment had devised a scheme under which they paid soldiers advances on their paychecks without noting the transactions in the official records. The men receiving the advances then split part of their advance pay with the clerks, the soldier said.

Although the Army investigators confirmed such happenings, the committee said, the people amount of money have not been determined.

Offending Parties

"The rumor-type information purveyed by enlisted men and other informants," the panel said, "make it extremely difficult to determine the quantities of illegal diversions and to identify offending parties."

The subcommittee quoted the Army as saying the partial pay operation involved a "small ring" of enlisted men at a finance detachment at the Korat Air Base.

The subcommittee also reported Army investigators said truckloads of Post Exchange merchandise were diverted into the black market, usually by Thai drivers sometimes but not always with the cooperation of GIs.

Extension Of Cease-Fire Being Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Efforts were under way today to arrange a compromise resolution to extend the Middle East cease-fire past Thursday and pressure Israel, Egypt and Jordan to return to peace negotiations at U.N. headquarters.

The United States on the one hand and 20 supporters of Egypt on the other were reported consulting other delegations, discussing ways to change the opposing resolutions they submitted last week.

Twenty-three Latin American delegations also scheduled a meeting today to discuss whether to submit a third resolution that might prove acceptable to the two sides.

Diplomatic sources predicted that the 127-nation General Assembly would vote Tuesday or Wednesday at the end of the debate it started a week ago at the request of Egypt.

Both pending resolutions call for implementation of the Security Council's resolution of Nov. 22, 1967. It provides for a political settlement in the Middle East — including Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory and Arab acknowledgment of Israel as a sovereign nation. But the resolutions disagree on how to get the indirect peace talks going again with Gunnar V. Jarving, the special U.N. representative, as go-between.

The resolution sponsored by Egypt's supporters urges Israel and the two Arab states to "re-establish contact" with Jarving quickly. It thus supports Egypt's demand for unconditional resumption of the talks that were suspended two months ago.

In one case, a PX truck with $18,000 worth of merchandise disappeared on a trip from Bangkok to Udorn, the subcommittee said. A Thai policeman accompanying the truck went for help when it broke down. When he returned the truck was gone.

"The driver abandoned his job, family and home for the proceeds gained from this larceny," the subcommittee said. The Army also reported some promotions were falsified in Thailand so the soldier involved could collect "money owed" at the higher pay grade when he returned to the United States, the subcommittee said.

The Army keeps central promotion records, the subcommittee said, but promotions to corporal and buck sergeant can be arranged within a battalion where false promotion orders can be mimeographed.

The subcommittee inquiry into the Thailand thefts at Bangkok, Korat and port installations at Sattahip is part of its investigation of military supply depot procedures against theft and pilferage in the United States as well as abroad.

The panel said the Army reports it has tightened its control over medical and Post Exchange shipments in Thailand, but said it is concerned about the payroll laxities "which permitted or invited" the partial pay scheme.

Hijacker Orders Jet to Havana

MIAMI (AP) — A gunman wearing the brown beret of the militant Mexican-American Chicano movement received a backslapping welcome to Communist Cuba today after forcing a United Airlines jet from California to Havana, passengers said.

Crewmen aboard United Airlines Flight 598 bound for Portland, Ore., said the leather-jacketed, mustachioed man placed a gun at the side of stewardess Nicki Leutar shortly after takeoff from San Diego.

Using the 21-year-old stewardess as a hostage, the gunman forced his way into the cabin and shouted to Capt. Joe Kolons: "Cuba! Cuba!"

Kolons diverted the aircraft and flew to Tijuana, Mexico, where more fuel was taken aboard the Boeing 727, and then set course for Havana's Jose Marti Airport. Seventy-five persons were aboard the jet, the second U.S. airliner hijacked by Cuba during the weekend.

New Policy in Vietnam

Servicemen Given Time for U.S. Visit

SAIGON (AP) — American servicemen in Vietnam will be given two weeks' leave to go to his departure. For the trip to the United States during their United States, he will be one-year tour of duty in the flow free on military transport country, it was learned today.

The new policy goes into effect Nov. 16 and will enable an undetermined number of men to leave waiting for a plane seat, spend Thanksgiving or Christmas at home.

The new two-week leave is in addition to the one week rest-and-recreation leaves that servicemen get to visit designated leave cities in Asia, Australia or Hawaii.

The U.S. Command will impose two limitations on the two-week leaves to the continental United States:

1. The man must have been in Vietnam at least four months and not longer than eight months to be eligible.

Jingo Does Round-Up On November Events

New Season Popping With Concerts, Plays, Entertainment for Everyone

BY JINGO
Now that the television season is underway and the frost is on the pumpkin heralding the entertainment season on the local scene, Jingo is amazed at all the things to do. Just a rundown of events sponsoring these fine musicians. Concert time is 8 p.m., Tuesday, again at Reeve. "A Whitman Sampler," presented by a four-actor Broadway cast, will have a single night at UW Fox Valley Campus Wednesday night. This is the hit play off-Broadway on the great American poet Walt Whitman. Curtain time at Fine Arts Theater in campus building on Midway Road is 8:15 p.m.

At Green Bay
Ivor Rogers at UW-Green Bay presents his thespians in "The Chinese Wall" by Max Frisch. Thursday and Friday nights of Trio performing in Harper Hall next week and the week after that. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. in the main campus-lecture room at UW-Green Bay.

Then there's the John Biggs Consort program on medieval, baroque and contemporary music Saturday night Nov. 7, in an 8 p.m. curtain. Joseph Green Bay (main lecture hall, again; at 8:15 p.m. This is a chance to hear such old-old instruments as a portable organ (portable), krumphorns-

(similar to present-day oboe), viola da gamba (ancestors of modern string instruments), recorders, harpsichord and a variety of small percussion instruments. All four performers started out with the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Saturday, Nov. 7, also is the big day for Fox Cities school-children (and the older young in heart) with Children's Theater presenting "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" at Madison Junior High School at 1 and 3 p.m. performances. The play will be repeated at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Anne O'Boyle is the director.

Symphony Concert
The Fox Valley Symphony, with Istvan Jaray again on the podium, opens its season Sunday, Nov. 8, at Lawrence Memorial Chapel. Concert time is 8 p.m.

Lawrence's Chamber Music Series opens Monday, Nov. 9, with the celebrated Moscow Thursday and Friday nights of Trio performing in Harper Hall next week and the week after that. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. in the main campus-lecture room at UW-Green Bay.

Then there's the John Biggs Consort program on medieval, baroque and contemporary music Saturday night Nov. 7, in an 8 p.m. curtain. Joseph Green Bay (main lecture hall, again; at 8:15 p.m. This is a chance to hear such old-old instruments as a portable organ (portable), krumphorns-are 31 actors in it, all with multiple roles representing more than 200 different characters. That in itself should make it fun to see.

The Mad Hatters barbershop quartet deals in deadpan with great comedy success. They are headliners in the SPEBSQSA Album of Harmony being sponsored by the Kaukauna - Little Chute Chapter Saturday night, Nov. 14, at the Kaukauna High School Auditorium. Left to right are bass Hans Beyer, lead Fred Meves, tenor Bart Kroll and baritone Mel Hoffmann.

Holiday on Ice, playing at the Green Bay arena, is described in Sunday's Showtime. There will be six performances in the run that stretches through Sunday, Nov. 8.

Artist Series
The Lawrence Artist Series opens Thursday, Nov. 12, with cellist Zara Nelsova and pianist Grant Johannesen giving the 8 p.m. concert in Memorial Chapel.

Green Bay Community Theatre opens its second show, "The Time of the Cuckoo" by Arthur Laurents that same Thursday (Nov. 12) at its 122 N. Chestnut St. Playhouse. This bittersweet comedy plays through Sunday that week, then starts again the next Thursday through Sunday, Nov. 19, through 22 Remember, showtime is 8:17 p.m. at this theater with no seating once the play's underway.

There's one more big musical night on Jingo's November calendar - it's Saturday night, Nov. 14. That's the night the Kaukauna-Little Chute SPEBSQSA chapter gives its annual Album of Harmony (8 p.m.) promptly in the auditorium at the Kaukauna High School. It's a program not to miss if you're a barbershop fan.

Ex-Addict's Woes Probed On 'Lawyers'

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 - The Young Lawyers, which may be TV's best new dramatic series, has an excellent episode dealing with both sides of the issue of strict parole restrictions. Pete Duel, who gives a moving performance, is a musician released on parole from his third prison term. Duel plays a former addict and his parole restrictions are so tough that he can't even associate with his wife.

6:30-7 - Michael Landon plays "the richest boy in town" on The Red Skelton Show, and he runs into San Fernando Red down by the yacht basin. Red, of course, decides to balk this rich young thing. The Silent Spot, which is the best of the evening's offerings, has Red as a man who hates kids - they're always breaking his windows.

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 - Gunsmoke has a plot that has been done many times before: a dying man wants to see the daughter he hasn't seen since she was a kid; but daughter has come to a bad end and dying man's friend, in order to make the old man happy in his last hours, pays a young saloon hostess to pretend to be the daughter. Morgan Woodward, Anthony Costello and Katherine Justice are guests.

7:30-8 Channels 11 - The Silent Force tackles crime in the dry cleaning business, but it's hard to get emotionally involved in a story which runs out of steam early - except for that in the cabinet in which the bad guys are going to place our heroine in order to get her to talk.

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 - Doris Day becomes a go-go dancer in one of the more contrived episodes of The Doris Day Show. But she's funny as the gum-chewing Peanuts Cluster of Brooklyn, and she's in that spot because Myrna (Rose Marie) has lost a manuscript for a story Ron (Paul Smith) has written which may be the first lead piece he has ever had in the magazine.

9 - Channels 11-9 - NFL Monday Night Football has the Pittsburgh Steelers at home in the new Three Rivers Stadium, meeting the Cincinnati Bengals. Keith Jackson, Howard Cosell and Don Meredith are the commentators, as usual.

Today in History

Today is Monday, Nov. 2, the 305th day of 1970. There are 59 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced that Soviet missile bases in Cuba were being dismantled.

On this date: In 1783, Gen. George Washington delivered his farewell address to the Army.

In 1889, North Dakota and South Dakota became the 39th and 40th states of the Union.

In 1920, Republican Warren G. Harding was elected president of the United States.

In 1930, Haile Selassie was crowned emperor of Ethiopia.

In 1948, Harry S. Truman upset all predictions and won reelection as president.

In 1941, the U.S. Coast Guard was placed under Navy orders.

Ten years ago—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced an agreement for the basing of U.S. nuclear-powered submarines at Holy Loch, Scotland.

Five years ago—John V. Lindsay was elected mayor of New York, vaulting him into front rank of the Republican party.

One year ago—Six Americans wanted for airplane hijackings left Cuba and turned themselves in to the FBI.

Retired Writer Dies in Appleton

A post-mortem examination Saturday night determined that a retired journalist died from severe head injuries suffered in a fall at her Appleton home.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said Grace M. Hannagan, 65, 218 E. Harris St., was found lying on a landing between floors of her home by her brother George, at about 4 p.m. when he returned home. She had been dead only minutes.

Kemps was told the woman retired about five years ago, after working for publications in Chicago and Florida. She was an Appleton native.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Ellenbecker-Anderson Funeral Home. Appleton police assisted in the investigation.

Riot Squad Funding Bid By Calumet County Denied

CHILTON — A Calumet on a 60-40 per cent funding New Holstein and Allan County application for funds to basis. Supervisors also approved a total of $158,455 in spending for form and equip a riot squad has been denied, county officials have learned. The funds were sought under the Omnibus Crime Bill.

A report on the application was given at the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors Friday. The rejection of the application came, the board was told, because the committee acting on it felt that the county did not demonstrate a need based on riot potential.

The report also suggested the possibility of a new application

TO STOP NEW SALES TAXES

Under the present leadership in Madison, the sales tax has been raised to 4 per cent. And it has been added to many necessities of life, such as clothing. Now they are promising still more sales taxes to pay for more spending programs of $400 million. Pat Lucey and Martin Schreiber believe that the sales tax is unfair because it taxes the things that people need to live.

Come in Today!

Quasar makes the standard type chassis as obsolete as the round picture tube!

Quasar saves you money at repair time!

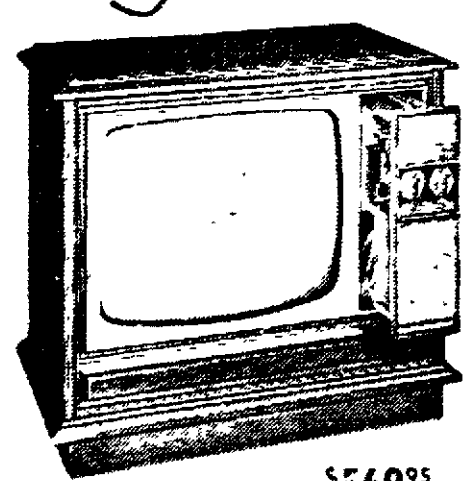

Because the works are in a drawer your television repairman can usually replace the defective part in minutes right in your home, if the need ever arises. If all the six-panels works in your Quasar II color TV would become defective at one time, which is one chance in a million, your cost of replacement would be less than $67.00 plus labor.

Quasar is so fool-proof it offers you —

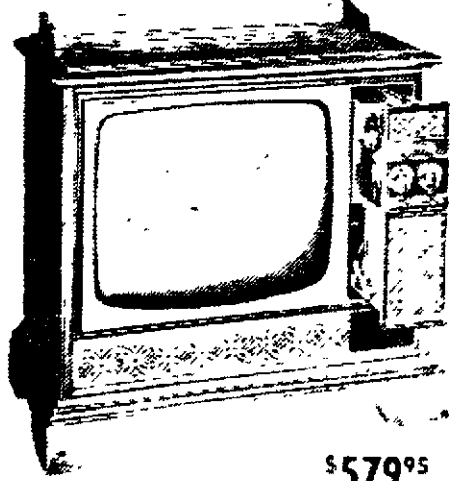

2 YEAR GUARANTEE ON PICTURE TUBE AND ALL OTHER COMPONENTS!

Quasar dependability follows through at the dealer level!

Lyndon Won't Trade Pasture For Politics, Says Lady Bird

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson says her husband has no intention of injecting himself into national politics and won't be "harnessed and bridled into anything demanding a schedule."

"He is concerned for a few personal friends he believes in," but that's the extent of his interest in the current election campaign, Mrs. Johnson said in an interview.

If asked his main occupation nowadays, Mrs. Johnson said, the ex-president is likely to reply: "I am trying to keep my grass green and keep my cattle fat."

"Vastly relieved" that her 783-page book, "A White House Diary," is now published, the former first lady said. "At the head of my docket now is learning to play golf."

Lyndon Writing Book

Johnson needs a steady partner for the sport which he took up again this summer at Lady Bird Johnson Municipal Park near Fredericksburg, Tex.

His own book is progressing well, Mrs. Johnson said. But she doesn't expect it to be out until sometime next year because the publishers "probably would give mine a play for a number of months."

The Johnsons of Johnson City, Tex., are "just loving retirement," Politics, Mrs. Johnson said, "is a heck of a long way from our whole life."

For the former president, she adds, that means just "being a member of the little community where we live."

Asked if Johnson might speak out in reply to President Nixon or Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the campaign, Mrs. Johnson said: "He doesn't want to inject himself into it. Except for being a very concerned citizen and voting for the people in our own area and being quite earnest about trying to improve our own area, I do not foresee any activity."

Did Some Campaigning

Johnson did a little campaigning in his home state for Lloyd Bentsen, the Democrat running for the Senate in Texas against Republican Rep. George Bush.

While here promoting her book, Mrs. Johnson went to Maryland campaign parties "for two good friends of mine for whom I have high hopes." Her candidates are congressional hopeful Tom Boggs, son of long-time Johnson friend Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., and a newcomer to politics running for the Maryland House of Delegates, Ruffin Maddox, whose wife, Marcia, was on Mrs. Johnson's White House staff.

Asked to assess the effectiveness of campaigning by a first lady, veteran campaigner Lady Bird said:

Next Best Thing

"I think she naturally can be helpful speaking for her husband. She's the next thing to him. He can't be everywhere and since people do want to understand the man who is their leader, I think they have a feeling of being closer to him and understanding him and knowing more about him when they meet his wife."

"And I'm sure some of that must rub off on other candidates too."

Mrs. Johnson emphatically declared there were no regrets at all over her husband's decision not to run in 1968. "We gave it all we had," and she feels "satisfied enough" about those presidential years.

Mrs. Johnson said "I don't think there's a chance" a president can become isolated and surrounded by yes-men as has been suggested by former Johnson press secretary George Reedy.

"Nobody has such a barrage of information flung at him. And quite truly it is not all plaudits and friendly and hurrahs. It's on the three faces of television (the three networks) and all that stack of papers lying on his bed that come in with his tea every morning."

"How can he fail to listen? He has his mail. A wise person, almost anybody, would feel it necessary to be attuned to that mail. I know Lyndon did. And then there are senators from both parties and loud voices proclaiming their views. No, I don't think there's a chance."

Shunning advice to future occupants of the White House, Mrs. Johnson called the mansion "an instrument, a tool—you can make use of that place. . . . If you think there is a need that ought to be pushed in the country, it's a pulpit from which to say your words."

Miss Dorice Loretta Dupuis, 30, former Canadian school teacher, pins wedding boutonniere on Green Bay multi-millionaire, and philanthropist, Victor McCormick, 72, prior to their marriage Saturday in a country Catholic church near Green Bay.

Green Bay Philanthropist Weds Canadian Saturday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Victor McCormick, a 72-year-old millionaire bachelor, financier and philanthropist, was married Saturday to Miss Dorice Loretta Dupuis, a 30-year-old former dressmaker and teacher, the daughter of a Canadian construction worker.

The Rev. Joseph Regan, the longtime friend of McCormick, performed the ceremony in St. Hubert Catholic Church.

The bride wore a yellow-gold formal pants suit of

The wedding party consisted of the Former Wisconsin Supreme Court Chief Justice Timothy Browne, U.S. District Court Judge Myron Gordon and Wisconsin Supreme Court Justice Bruce Bellfuss and their wives. Fourth of 13 Dupuis children, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dupuis of Quebec City.

McCormick is the son of John H. McCormick and Mary Minahan McCormick.

The newlyweds received their six guests at the St. Hubert rectory prior to the ceremony. They reportedly will live in a home in suburban De Pere McCormick bought last year.

The McCormick fortune came largely from the Char-min Paper Products Co., now owned by Proctor and Gamble. He inherited $1.25 million from an uncle, Dr. John Minahan, who hired young McCormick to look after his business interests shortly after the young lawyer graduated from Marquette University Law School in 1928.

Minahan invested in Hoberg Paper Co., which later became Charrin. When he died in 1941 he left the $1.25 million to McCormick, who continued to invest in Procter and Gamble and other interests, multiplying the money.

McCormick has been a major benefactor to Marquette University in Milwaukee, St. Norbert College in DePere and the National Railroad Museum in Green Bay.

Today's quiz covers problems involving responses to opening bids. Two questions will deal with the same topic. The first will be directed at the intermediate level; the second a bit more advanced.

QUESTION 1A. Intermediate. 11/2
The bidding has gone:
Opener 1♥ Responder 2
You hold:
♠ Q 10 3 ♣ J 7
As responder, what do you bid?

QUESTION 2A. Intermediate. 11/2
The bidding has gone:
Opener 1♥ Responder 2
You hold:
♠ K 4 ♣ Q 10 8 6 2
As responder, what do you bid?

QUESTION 1B. Advanced. 11/2
The bidding has gone:
Opener 1♥ Responder 2
You hold:
♠ Q 10 ♣ K Q 10 9
As responder, what do you bid?

QUESTION 2B. Advanced. 11/2
The bidding has gone:
Opener 1♥ Responder 2
You hold:
♠ K J 10 4 ♣ J 7
As responder, what do you bid?

ANSWER 1A.
Two clubs. This hand barely qualifies for a two-level change of suit. However, the good intermediate cards justify the aggressive course. A close second choice is one no-trump. If you can't bear to miss a game, bid two clubs. If you dislike going set, stay with one no-trump.

ANSWER 1B.
Two clubs. Possession of 19 high-card points does not, in itself, warrant a jump shift.

ANSWER 2A.
Two diamonds. As in choosing the suit in which to open the bidding, respond with the higher ranking of two five-card suits. Bid clubs at the next turn, allowing opener to show a preference at the lowest possible level.

ANSWER 2B.
One spade. Although you have a hand that qualifies for a response at the two level, this is a rare case when the shorter suit is bid first. A spade game is much more likely than a club game.

If you bid two clubs and opener rebids two diamonds, further bidding will be dangerous and the possibility exists that neither hand will bid a four-four fit in the spade suit.

Your Problems

Drug Users Only Escape Temporarily

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am getting fed up with your insulting remarks about drug users. You give your readers the impression that drug users are mentally ill. This is a Fascist lie. Drug users are the only sane people left in this crazy world.

I don't expect to see my letter in print because you have no answer. — Down With the Establishment.

Dear Down: I too am sick of war, conflict between black and white, shameful housing for the poor, phony politicians, filthy water and polluted air. But I'm hanging in there — without drugs, thank you — trying to keep it all together, attempting to cope with problems and looking for some possible solutions.

Unfortunately, the world you escape to is a private world — imaginary and temporary. It's only a place to visit. You can't live there. It takes guts to keep your head on straight — to fight ignorance, prejudice and injustice. But it's only chance the good guys have to win. President John F. Kennedy said, "The most valuable natural resources of any nation are its young people." If the youth of our country opts to cop out (and drugs are a copout no matter what you say), we are finished. The next ten years will be a period of crisis in world history and we can't meet the challenge with a whole generation of fried brains.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Friendship is a beautiful thing. Why do so many people kick it around and abuse it? I've just performed my last favor for a "friend." I am through being a sucker. I have cared for people's pets, loaned my apartment, my clothing, my car, picked up mail, watered lawns, sat in hospitals while relatives had surgery, signed notes at the bank, brought complete dinners to sick people — just name it and I've done it.

These are the phrases that wised me up, and I'm ashamed to tell you how long it took: "Sorry I spilled something on your dress. I didn't have time to take it to the cleaners. Send me the bill."

"Too bad about the broken ash-tray and the cigaret hole in the sofa. I have no idea who did it."

"Are you sure the stereo wasn't broken by one of your kids?"

"I wish you wouldn't remind me about the money I owe you. I'll pay you when I can."

"Gee, I didn't realize the gas tank was down so low. Sorry you got stranded. I guess I should have filled it."

Can you tell me why I was a fool for so long? It might help others. — Former Jack-ass.

Dear Jack: Some people enjoy doing favors for friends. But there's a whole of a difference between being thoughtful and running yourself ragged for clods. People who continue to do favors after they've been kicked in the teeth are pathetically insecure. They can't believe that anyone could love them for themselves, so they do favors to insure acceptance.

the BIG spenders?

Republican candidate Jack Olson is flooding television with claims that the Democrats are "big spenders" who will raise your taxes.

what are the facts?

- State spending jumped $926 million during six years of Republican government in Madison — but only $306 million during six years of Democratic government.
- State spending jumped 26 per cent a year during the Republican years — but only 15 per cent during the Democratic years.
- Republican budget makers are asking for $548 million in new spending during the next two years — an increase of more than 35 per cent.

Name of Game Is Bridge for Charity

The name of the game Thursday evening at the First Congregational United Church of Christ, was bridge. And the name of the dessert was smorgasbord as 27 different kinds ranging from pumpkin pie to feathery light chiffon cake made up the delicious array. Sponsored by the Genevieve Paulson Circle of The King's Daughters, the annual Dessert-Card Party attracted many women from the community to play cards for charity. Proceeds from the event will be used by the group to further its service work. Adding a touch of Halloween to the decor were pumpkin-head witches and jack-o-lantern faces.

Legion Auxiliary Will Sponsor Bazaar, Supper

FREMONT — Wolf River Unit 391, American Legion Auxiliary, is sponsoring a combination Christmas bazaar and chili supper from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday at the Legion Clubhouse. Tickets for the chili supper will be available at the door from auxiliary members. Incorporated in the bazaar will be a country store featuring Christmas cookies, candy and fruitcake and a variety of other edibles; attic treasures or the antique hunter; a stitchery booth and a booth of novelties and Christmas items. Refreshments will be served throughout the day.

Mrs. Otto Reichenbach has charge of the country store; Mrs. Harold Olson and Mrs. Duane Schmidt, attic treasures; Mrs. A. G. Mitchell and Mrs. Jack Abraham, stitchery; Mrs. Junior Smith, novelties and Christmas items; Mrs. Anna Looker, Mrs. Arden Reichman and Mrs. Louis Vetter, kitchen, and Mrs. Orville Aus, dining room. Proceeds from the event will be used to further the work of the American Legion Auxiliary and to assist the Legion in their special projects.

Charity Ball To be Dec. 19

Plans were finalized for the ec. 19 Charity Ball at a recent meeting of the Infant Welfare Circle of The King's daughters. The annual holiday event will take place at North Shore Golf Club. Co-chairmen are Mrs. William Zuelke Jr. and Mrs. L. Robert Graef. Committee members include Mrs. Peebles Meade, Mrs. Ben Schneider, Mrs. Harold Adams, Mrs. Robert Buchanan, Mrs. Fred Herbolzheimer, Mrs. F. S. Young, Mrs. Norman Olson and Mrs. Frederic Flom. The group plans to address invitations which will be mailed around Thanksgiving time.

The group met Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. Darwin Smith. Is Chicken Done? To test a roast chicken to see whether it is done, use paper toweling to protect your fingers and press the drumstick meat to make sure it is very soft.

Each Wednesday morning, a group of four-and-five-year-olds congregate at the Appleton Public Library to hear stories read by volunteers from the American Association of University Women. Last Wednesday, instead of arriving in regular play clothes, they came garbed for a Halloween costume party. Some even took time during the class period to fashion masks to add to their total look.

The preschoolers meet once each week but classes are scheduled at various times to accommodate more children. The next registration is slated in mid December.

Mrs. Bernard Hupperts will be in charge of selling rosettes Nov. 3 at local polling stations. The announcement was made at the Oct. 26 meeting of the Grace Circle of The King's Daughters as they met at the home of Mrs. Ken Roloff.

A report on the convention held at Riverview Country Club was given by Mrs. Dallas Werner. Mrs. Henry Dreschler commented on the success of the recent style show, adding that proceeds will be used to sponsor a Young Audience Concert this spring.

A donation was made to Drug Council, Inc., an Outagamie County organization. A fund was begun for a projector camera and screen for Silvercrest.

Mrs. Don Green will purchase Christmas gifts for the patients at Riverview Sanatorium and a donation also will be presented to Winnebago County Hospital.

Baked goods and articles will be sold at the silent auction at the November meeting which will be at the home of Mrs. Keith Siebers, 310 Plank Road, Kaukauna.

FOR PROPERTY TAX RELIEF
Under the present state administration property taxes have increased 64 per cent in 5 years. Home owners, small businessmen, and the elderly are losing their property because of new taxes. Plans for Area Growth to be Recommended

Mission 70 Group To Prepare Draft For Consideration

Northeastern Wisconsin's contributions to Gov. Warren P. Knowles' Mission 70 statewide growth and development plan are scheduled to be hammered out this month.

The regional committee headed by Dr. Raymond Vlasin, vice chancellor of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, plans to have the first draft of its report completed by Nov. 12 and the second draft by Nov. 23, when the regional committee will meet in Appleton to go over the product of its efforts.

The committee represents 17 counties in the Lake Winnebago and Lake Michigan districts. It already has sent to Madison a summary of comments gathered in early October at hearings in Green Bay and Oshkosh.

Committee members plan to interview persons who appeared at the hearings or filled in questionnaires seeking opinions on major problems of the region needing attention in planning and preparing for future growth.

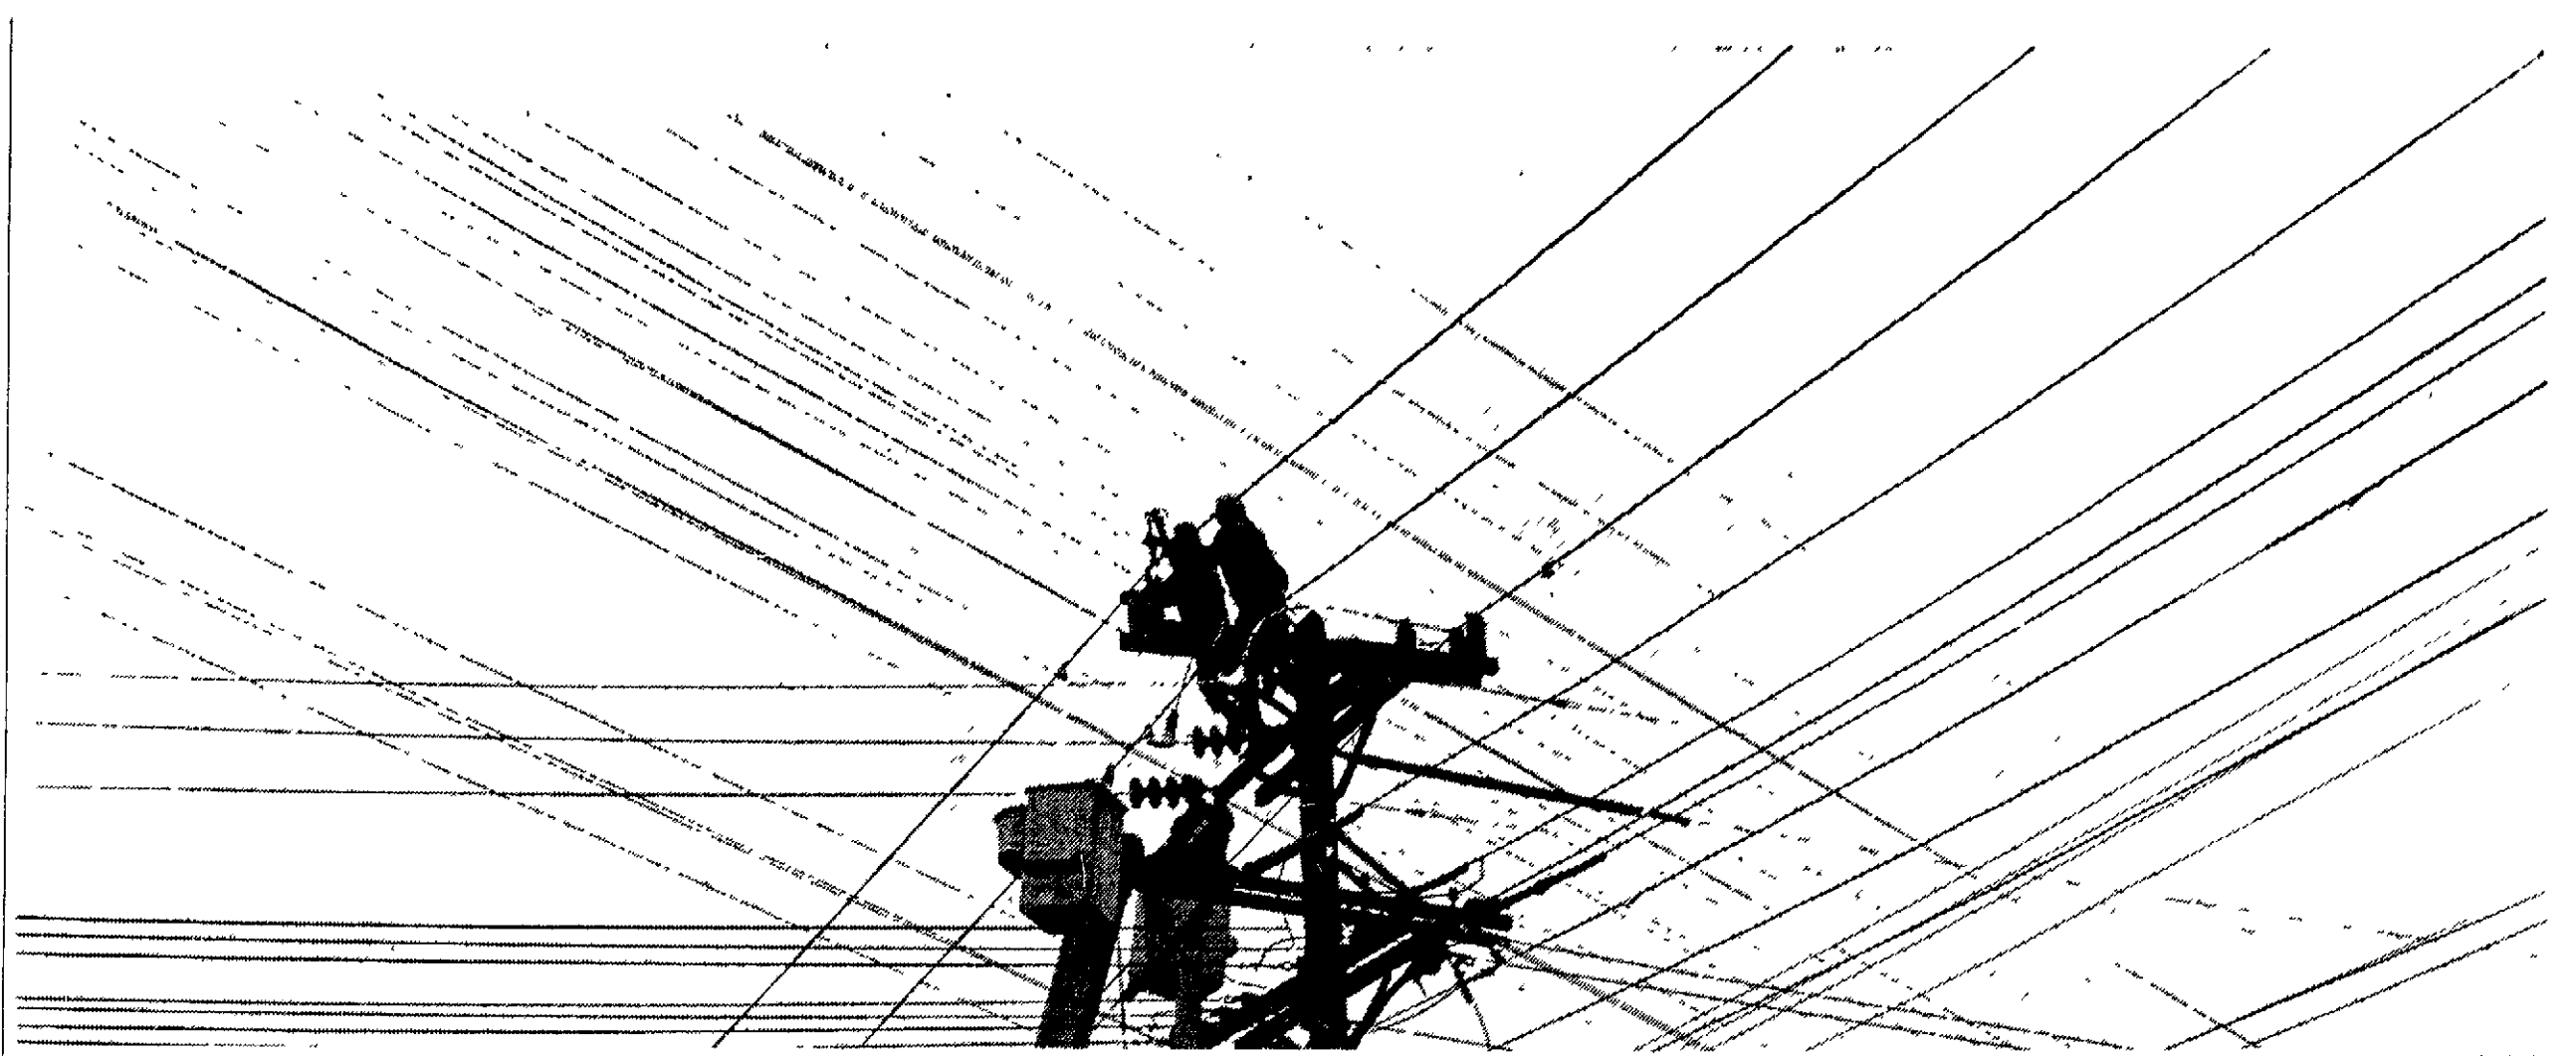

"Action Items"

Based on the information, which covers areas such as governmental operations, employment and housing, the committee will make recommendations and draw up a list of "action items."

Vlasin instructed the committee early in the process to attempt to produce recommendations that will be useful to the governor in preparing the statewide report, and in addition provide the groundwork for future regional programs and policies.

The action items are to be selected by a subcommittee scheduled to be appointed today. By Thursday, the first draft of chapters of the report are to be sent to persons in the region's 17 counties who helped collect information through the questionnaires and testified at the hearings. The county representatives are to review the draft with persons who answered the questionnaires by Nov. 10, with the first draft and suggested changes returned to committee officers by Nov. 12.

The second draft is to be prepared by Vlasin and Ernest Ehrbar, executive assistant to the regional committee, by Nov. 23 when the committee will meet at the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce office to discuss the second draft and the proposed action items.

Kaukauna Injunction Parnell Issues Order Banning Dump Burning

A Circuit Court order was issued today to stop immediately the burning of rubbish and garbage at the Kaukauna dump.

Judge Andrew Parnell, who granted the temporary injunction, said also that the law requiring the garbage to be covered daily by the owner of the site also must be complied with.

The injunction, which is in effect until the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) makes a ruling on another proposed city disposal site, was requested by the Attorney General's public intervenor.

The injunction specifically directed whoever is burning at the so-called Kaukauna dump site to stop immediately and James Lehrer, owner of the site, to be required to cover the garbage and rubbish deposited there by Kaukauna.

Lehrer's legal counsel protested, saying that his client "can't afford to do it for a short time." He noted it was impractical financially for Lehrer to buy equipment to operate the sanitary landfill for the short time until the DNR makes a decision.

Parnell said however, the law must be adhered to. He assured Lehrer's counsel that Lehrer would be able to "have his day in court" to resolve any adjustment in the contract with Kaukauna to cover the increased cost of handling the city's wastes.

Lehrer said after the hearing that he was undecided what to do about the judge's order.

The judge said his order and promise of a court action on compensation was "the only practical way and sensible way of doing it." He noted that there would be the proper time and proper procedure for the compensation action.

The question of continued open burning at the site past the Oct. 1 state deadline for stopping burning was raised recently by a group of Kaukauna residents who petitioned the DNR to order the burning stopped. The DNR hearing examiner heard testimony on the complaint last week but indicated he may not have a decision on the petition for weeks.

Miss Priscilla MacDougall, public intervenor, then sought the temporary injunction against the city and Lehrer because it isn't clear who's doing the burning. Lehrer last week denied that he was responsible and blamed the city.

Kellett Chosen For State Honors

William R. Kellett, former president of Kimberly-Clark Corp. and leader of two state study commissions, has been named Wisconsinite of the Year and resident of the new "Hall of Fame" of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce.

At the instigation of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, Kellett was nominated for the honor by the Neenah-Menasha unit, a move then supported by the Appleton, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac chambers. "The chambers of the valley are in apparent agreement here," according to Don Stone, manager of the Appleton chamber.

"It's a very well-deserved recognition of his work for the state," John Galloway, president of the Neenah-Menasha chamber said. "We're very proud to be with him."

"It means the Fox Valley reigns again!" Mary Margaret DeClerq, assistant executive secretary enthused. "I'm so thrilled," she added.

Kellett was asked in 1965 to head the Governor's Committee on Improved Expenditure Management which studied state efficiency and then headed the reorganization task force which reduced the number of state departments and agencies from 93 to 28.

In 1969, Gov. Warren P. Knowles asked Kellett to head his Commission on Education to investigate whether state educators and administrators were getting the greatest effectiveness for the money spent.

Kellett, a native of Neenah, graduated in 1922 from the University of Wisconsin with a degree in chemical engineering. He spent his summer vacations working for Kimberly-Clark, and continued with the company after graduation.

In 1937 he was named manager of the Kimberly-Clark mills in Neenah, and in 1951 became vice president of manufacturing. In 1953 he was named

Police Report Dangerous Treats

Isolated instances of treats that turned out to be tricks dulled what was otherwise a generally innocent Halloween night for most children and residents.

A north side father opened his child's goody bag and discovered two unidentified pills which he turned over to police for tests. Someone dropped an aspirin-size white tablet, and small, football-shaped yellow pill into his child's bag as he made the rounds in a four-block area on N. Mason Street.

A west side parent found a white pill in his daughter's bag, when she returned from the Wilson Junior High School area. A candy kiss, with what appeared to be a needle hole imbedded in it, was given to authorities by an east side mother who said her youngster went to south side homes.

And Now It's Up to the Voters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The politicians have had their collective say. It will now be the voters' duty Tuesday to determine Wisconsin's political image for the next decade.

Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Olson and Democratic nominee Patrick J. Lucey meet at the polls to determine which party will be represented in the governor's office for the next four years—the first time that a governor will serve a four-year term instead of two years.

Also Tuesday, voters will decide whether Democrats or Republicans are in charge of the 1971 legislature, which will have the important job of realigning Wisconsin's congressional districts for the 1970s in accord with population shifts under the 1970 census.

And for the first time in two decades, a minor party is playing major-league politics on a Wisconsin ballot. The American party has presented an unusually large slate of candidates.

Take Olson Votes

The American party "is not going to make any inroads on the two major political parties," Republican State Sen. Ernest Keppler said, but "it could take votes from Olson."

Democratic State Sen. Fred Risser said he doubts the third party will have an "appreciable effect" on the Democratic vote, although the American party's candidate for governor is a former Democratic county chairman.

An officer of the American party's statutory committee said his organization needs 15,000 votes in Tuesday's gubernatorial balloting "to qualify as a regular, full-fledged political organization."

Leo Fahey, state election supervisor, predicted 1.3 million Wisconsin voters may go to the polls. That is 400,000 less than the turnout for the 1968 presidential-year election. But it is 130,000 more than the turnout for the 1966 off-year election, and political observers figure the Olson-Lucey contest may provide extra interest for attracting voters.

Republicans Confident

Other statehouse constitutional offices are held by Republicans, and the incumbents are confident of victory. David Carley, one of Lucey's most influential supporters, said last week Lucey would need a victory margin of nearly 50,000 votes to assure Democratic candidates of a safe coast-tail ride into Capitol offices.

Olson, who lost to Lucey in 1964 in a lieutenant governor contest, began his campaign to succeed Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles by declaring campus peace cannot be achieved "without law and without order."

The Wisconsin campaign spotlight shifted rapidly to economic issues, with Democrats criticizing the 1969 Republican-controlled legislature for having increased sales tax rates.

Olson offered what he called a "zero budgeting" plan for critical review of agency budget requests in hope of avoiding tax increases next year. He accused Lucey of proposing programs that would require $500 million in new taxes in the 1971-73 biennium.

Only Existing Programs

Lucey replied he had been discussing only those programs which the legislature had enacted already. And indeed, Wisconsin government agencies have already announced intentions of asking about $500 million more for existing programs.

The two gubernatorial candidates also quarreled over who is best fit to handle campus unrest and environmental pollution. Knowles, not seeking a fourth term, got on the campaign train in anger, accusing Lucey of being insulting about the men Knowles had named to commissions to handle pollution abatement.

Knowles has called the 1970 campaign one of the dirtiest he has ever known.

"If Gov. Knowles feels he has been maligned or libeled," Lucey suggested at a Green Bay news conference during the weekend, "he could resort to the courts."

gubernatorial level, state legislative leaders quietly studied the uncertainty of the state's 1971 legislative picture.

Seventeen of the Senate's 33 seats are up for reelection and 11 are represented by Republicans.

That makes the GOP vulnerable. Risser said that with a major Lucey victory, "we could gain control of the Senate for the first time since 1892."

Republican Keppler said "a tight race for governor could determine the outcomes of several Senate races. As the governor's race goes, so probably goes many legislative races."

Robert H. Finch, a White House adviser, is one of several administration members which Nixon sent to Wisconsin to bolster GOP chances.

Finch told a Beloit audience, that the Olson-Lucey contest will determine to a large extent whether Republican John Erickson can overcome the re-election bid of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Too Late to Reprint Time Rules Out Ballot Changes

Fond du Lac County residents apparently will be the only Fox Valley voters to cast "legal" ballots Tuesday.

Federal Judge James Doyle ruled last week, after a hearing in a suit brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Boardman, that Wisconsin's ballots are illegal.

Doyle directed the secretary of state's office to tell county clerks to "investigate immediately" whether their ballots complied with state law and to "investigate immediately" whether corrected ballots can be prepared and delivered to polling places in time for the election.

Clerks in five Fox Valley counties told The Post-Crescent today that it was impossible to have their ballots reprinted at this late date.

Mrs. Boardman, Wisconsin Alliance candidate for the U. S. Senate, challenged a sample ballot because it listed her name and those of other minority and independent party candidates vertically on the paper ballot.

In her case, she contended, it appeared to the voters that she was running for county office. State law requires that "both candidates for the same office shall appear on or between the same horizontal lines on the ballot."

Doyle's decision does not affect voting machines.

No Instructions

Doyle, while ordering that county clerks be told to try to reprint the ballots, did not say they had to be redone.

Leo Fahey, state supervisor of elections, said today his office worked most of Saturday attempting to contact every county clerk in Wisconsin. He said they reached "50 some." Fahey said he has heard of no counties that have ordered their ballots reprinted since Doyle's decision was announced.

Fahey would not speculate on post election repercussions regarding the illegal ballots. "The attorney general's office is representing us," Fahey explained.

The ballot errors were caught in the Fond du Lac County clerk's office and changes were made before the ballots were printed.

"As far as we know, our ballots are now legal," a county official said today. Saying that "we weren't satisfied with them" the way the ballots were certified by the secretary of state's office, the Fond du Lac County official explained that the candidate categories now in dispute had been "balanced out." Copies of the revised ballots were sent to all candidates and there "have been no complaints."

County clerks or their aides in Brown, Calumet, Outagamie, Waupaca and Winnebago counties said the ballots would go to the voters Tuesday in the same form they were before Doyle made his ruling.

"We would need a minimum of nine days to change them, and even then we'd be hard pressed," said Brown County Clerk Harold Lemerond. "It would take four days just to order the paper," he said.

None of Brown County's townships have voting machines. About 32,000 ballots including sample ones, were printed. Only one printing firm in Brown County is equipped to produce the ballots in such large quantities, Lemerond explained.

Outagamie County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan said he had gotten calls from other county clerks who wanted to know what Outagamie was going to do.

"We'll have to go with them the way they are," Hoolihan said of the ballots. About 17,000 paper ballots were printed in Outagamie County, Appleton, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Town of Grand Chute having voting machines.

There are no voting machines in Calumet County. An aide in the county clerk's office there said the ballots would not be reprinted "... just because of the lateness..." of the notice.

An aide in the Waupaca County clerk's office explained "If we had them reprinted they would be illegal, too, because they would be different from those that were printed in the newspaper." There are no voting machines in Waupaca County.

"We don't have time to do anything," was the dilemma echoed by Winnebago County Clerk Dorothy Propp, who said her office could not change the ballots, anyway, because they had been certified by the secretary of state's office. "We have no right to change them," she explained.

Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, and the towns of Menasha and Oshkosh contain the only Winnebago County precincts using voting machines.

Truck-Car Crash Puts 6 in Hospital

Six persons injured in a head-on crash Saturday night north of Appleton are in satisfactory condition at Appleton Memorial Hospital, although further tests are being conducted.

Outagamie County police said that an automobile driven by Larry A. Leitzke, 18, of 318 W. Packard St., Appleton, crossed over the center line while heading north on County Trunk A, striking a pickup truck driven by Elmer R. Johnson, 44, Shiotoon, head-on as he traveled in the opposite direction. The accident occurred about 9:15 p.m., about two miles north of Appleton.

The most seriously injured were passengers in both vehicles. Johnson's wife, Audrey J. 45, received multiple cuts to her face and head, right leg and shoulder. Robert P. Braun, 15, of 712 N. Harriman St., who was riding in the Leitzke car, sustained a concussion, broken wrist, and multiple bumps and bruises.

Johnson received facial cuts, and bruises to the chest and left knee, while his 3-year-old son Todd had multiple cuts and bruises.

Leitzke suffered a broken left leg, and face cuts. His other passenger, Owen Hawkings, 19, of 617 N. Clark St., had a mild concussion, possible rib fracture, and face cuts.

Officials at the hospital said that further tests, such as x-rays and other observation, have been directed. Police said the truck Johnson was driving was demolished. There was $500 damage to the 1963 auto driven by Leitzke.

They were taken to the hospital by two ambulances from Gold Cross

Finance Unit OKs Buying Equipment

The Outagamie County Board's Finance Committee added its okay this morning to the recommendation of County Administrator Alvin Woehler that an additional $25,000 in data processing equipment be purchased for maintenance of support and alimony payment records in the clerk of courts office.

This endorsement, along with that of the executive committee last week, will be submitted to the county board during budget hearings next week to include that amount in the 1971 county budget.

Representatives of the Burroughs Corporation outlined the proposal, which involves adding two pieces of equipment to the present data processing system now used by the county.

The new equipment would enable the county to have a weekly print-out on the status of all support payment cases, according to representatives of the firm. At the present time, such records must be maintained manually.

Supv. Eugene Kloes had argued for leasing the equipment rather than purchasing it, but Woehler contended purchasing was the cheaper of the two methods.

In another meeting, members of the airport committee learned that water seepage into an electrical cable was chiefly responsible for the failure of runway lights on the northwest-southeast runway at the airport.

Up to 4,600 feet of cable, installed six years ago, may have to be replaced. Cost is estimated to be in excess of $3,500.

Electricians working on the repairs reported that in some instances it was found the cable had not been laid in sand and that some of the splices had not been properly taped, allowing water to enter the cable

'Business' Good at East High School

BY MALIA PENEKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There's a thriving business going on in one room of Appleton High School - East but the reward for the students involved is a knowledge of the secretarial-clerical angle of the business world, not money.

The "business" is known as Office Patriots, Inc. and is a simulated office which provides a learning situation for girls who have chosen to seek employment after graduation. It is a program tailored to the individual's needs and interests. It is a more comprehensive and realistic career guidance program. It is a head start in a chosen field.

Based on the premise that the world is filled with many different people with many different interests and career choices, the course helps the student attain a choice of careers not only in a realistic situation, but a fun way

Under the guidance of Mrs. Annette Sloboda, the girls work in a classroom set up to resemble an office.

It's a Business

Although there's a liberal sprinkling of general instruction and review work, the program concentrates on operating the class as a business office.

"Not everyone is qualified for every type of work and most of the girls prefer to prepare themselves for only three or four areas, so we give them a choice," explained Mrs. Sloboda.

They then concentrate on the four choices throughout the year, building on the basic interests and knowledge in these areas.

Sometimes it's speed, sometimes efficiency and accuracy, and sometimes knowledge of new products on the market. It's always attitudes, ideals, character traits, grooming and habits.

DNR Order To Menasha A Mistake?

Communication Gap Causes Confusion in Floodplain Rulings

MENASHA — Does Menasha have an official floodplain zoning ordinance or not?

It appears that it does, but a crossup in communications between the city and the Department of Natural Resources in Madison has created a few doubts.

About a week ago, the city received a letter from DNR telling them to enact an ordinance by March 1, 1971, or face still daily fines from the state.

But Menasha aldermen had already passed a floodplain ordinance last Sept. 15, in response to an original DNR deadline-for-passage on that date.

A call to DNR offices today, however, revealed that they have not received notification of the action. That was according to Ervin Meyer, of the floodplain management section of the department.

But City Clerk Hubert Nelson said today that he had mailed the DNR a copy of the floodplain ordinance after it had been passed by the city.

Anyway, the two government agencies are expected to get together soon. The order from DNR was a mistake.

The notice from the DNR is on tonight's committee of the whole agenda.

"It looks like it's just a problem with communication," Meyer said today, noting the DNR did not receive notification from Menasha that it had passed a floodplain ordinance.

Mayor James Adams, after receiving the DNR order last week, said the order was another of the "typical inefficiencies" of DNR.

He said, "The DNR is very good at issuing directives, but damn poor at getting things done," he said.

Adams will not be at the committee-of-the-whole meeting tonight. He is in Minneapolis, attending a training program for data processing in preparation for the use of such equipment at the police department later this year.

Dinner Meeting of Safety Council Set

The Greater Appleton Area Safety Council will hold a dinner meeting at the Darby Club at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Robert E. Ryan, director of Development of the St. Mary Hospital Burn Center, Milwaukee, will present a program on the burn center operation.

Hauser to Review Costs

Neenah Closes Budget Study

NEENAH — The finance committee is scheduled to wind up its review of 1971 budget requests tonight but how much of a tax increase will be needed for next year won't be known for probably another week.

Mayor Roman V. Hauser today said he planned to take the budgets back after the committee's review for a final look and "then we'll put them together and see what kind of a tax rate we come up with."

Public Works Scheduled for tonight are the public works and miscellaneous accounts. The public works

Hauser said he planned to have the final compilation ready in "a couple of days" but added that a meeting is scheduled with the board of education early next week and not much could be done until the fate of the school requests is determined.

The school budget has been set back to the board of education with instructions to hold all accounts at 1970 levels, except negotiated salaries, debt service with an allowance for a small inflationary factor.

After the fiscal control body has its final review of the school budget, then Hauser will bring a total city budget into the city council.

He explained, "We'll go through another general review at that time and the council can either accept the budget as it stands at that time or make additional cuts."

$13 Tax Hike As originally proposed, the raw budget requests would have meant a tax rate increase of about $13 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Although the proposal was termed "unacceptable" two weeks ago when it was first introduced, there have been very few cuts made so far in the budget.

The finance committee has taken a hard stand opposing the hiring of any new personnel, but cutting increased manpower requests from the fire department and suggesting cuts in the library and park-recreation budgets. The police department, however, was given an additional six new people and a seventh position authorized.

Hauser had recommended beefing up the police department because of the city's expanded boundaries and he also went along with a department request to hire four secretaries to handle the radio and telephone duties so the desk sergeants could be freed for field supervision and investigation.

NM Voters Face Referendum, Election

NEENAH-MENASHA — Twin from the 8,922 that registered for the April city elections, polls Tuesday to select a host of national, state and county officials and vote on an important bridge referendum.

City clerks in the two cities are split on their predictions of voter turnout. Neenah Director of Administration Joseph Kraus expects a good turnout of between 82 and 83 per cent of registered voters while Menasha Clerk Hubert Nelson expects a light one of about 65 per cent in that city, despite a critical addition to county taxes, on a bridge referendum there.

A total of 9,124 voters are registered in Neenah. That's up from the 8,922 that registered for the April city elections, when 50.5 per cent of the voters turned out.

Nelson said he didn't know the number of voters registered for Tuesday's election. In the April election, 6,742 were registered, and 69.5 per cent voted.

A few of the voter attractions Tuesday are: —A bridge referendum in the City of Menasha, where voters will be asked whether or not they want to spend $700,000 in that city, despite a critical addition to county taxes, on a bridge in the Ninth Street area.

—Town of Menasha voters registered in Neenah. That's up from the 8,922 that registered for the April city elections, when 50.5 per cent of the voters turned out.

—Election of a state senator and three state assemblymen from Winnebago County.

In Neenah-Menasha, voters will have the chance to decide between Democrat John Allen and Republican State Rep. Jack Steinhilber for the state senate seat and the Third assembly district race between Republican Michael G. Ellis, a Neenah alderman, and Democrat Kenneth Walstrom, pastor of St. Timothy Lutheran Church in Menasha.

Second District Town of Menasha voters will have a hand in the selection of a Second District assemblyman. The race between incumbent GOP Assemblyman Gordon Bradley and challenger Harry Lopas, a resident of the Town of Menasha and a Democrat.

Several state offices, headed by race for governor, will also be on the local ballot.

The race between Republican hopeful Lt. Gov. Jack B. Olson and Democratic candidate Patrick J. Lucey is the highlight of a state ticket which also includes races for secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general.

Congressman —Neenah-Menasha will have a major hand in selection of a Sixth District congressman. The selection is between incumbent Cong. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, who is to be facing a challenge from Democrat Frank R. Utech, Oshkosh, and Raul V. Davidson, running for the American party out of Thiensville.

Steiger is the favorite. —U.S. Senate candidates will also be on the ballot, including favored incumbent William Proxmire, a Democrat, and Republican John Erickson. The American Party and three other parties are also on the ballot.

Winnebago Terminal Cost Under $1 Million

OSHKOSH — The new terminal construction package the aviation committee will recommend to the county board buys a building for $999,608. That's just $392 under the $1 million ceiling put on the building by the board.

The recommendation will concern only the building. Other parts of the project are going to be reconsidered, airport manager Michael Brock said today. They include the aprons, parking lot and remodeling of the existing terminal. With all low bids tabulated, the total cost of the project was $1,536,000.

Ben B. Ganther Construction Co., Oshkosh, had the low general contract bid at $1,090,000. Seco Electric Co., Milwaukee, was lowest on the electric sub-contract with a bid of $134,652; Andrews Co., Milwaukee, low on plumbing and drainage work with a $73,480 bid and Tschank & Christensen, Appleton, was low on heating and air conditioning work with a bid of $237,800.

Alternates cut from the building to bring it below the $1-million top limit imposed by the board. Brock and the committee want approval so work can begin immediately.

Aprons costing $131,300 were also deleted. They are eligible for federal aid. Application has been made, but it will be months before a decision is in. Work on these parts of the project won't begin for six months. The committee has until then to make up its mind.

The total project, building and all, must not cost above $1,497,023. That's the top put on it by the board. Brock and the committee want approval so work can begin immediately.

General Telephone to Spend $8 Million

KIEL - General Telephone central office facilities, and Eastern division manager. The $2.1 million in the Eastern division, which is headquartered at Plymouth, includes 50 exchanges.

"During 1971," Engsborg indicated, "we're again planning to allocate a major share of our construction dollars to expand and improve our outside plant facilities. More than $3.5 million of outside plant service improvement projects are scheduled next year in the Eastern division," he said.

The division manager pointed out that the company will again be placing particular emphasis on underground cable placement in its outside plant service improvement programs. Buried cable, he explained, helps prevent service interruptions due to wind and storm damage, and, in addition, helps reduce "visual" pollution by eliminating aerial cables, poles and wires.

The company's statewide cable placement programs call for nearly 13 million feet of telephone cable during 1971. Underground cable will account for more than 90 per cent of the total.

"The $3.5 million we've scheduled for these projects represents another step in our program to provide all of our customers with urban grades of telephone service," Engsborg said.

"We're also planning to move ahead rapidly in adding new central office equipment in our Eastern division exchanges next year," the division manager said. "We've scheduled nearly $2.5 million of new central office switching equipment for installation in 1971. These improvements will help us provide advanced equipment for present telephone users and also allow for future expansion and growth," Engsborg pointed out.

"Many of the central office equipment dollars will be allocated to provide highly reliable testing facilities and procedures to insure that all of our customers will receive repair service in the event their telephone system is not working properly," the division manager said.

"In addition," he indicated, "we're moving ahead with our 'service center' concept throughout the Eastern division. The service center program makes it possible to speed new telephone installation and repair services through specialization of activities."

Additions and replacements of telephone instruments, cables, lines, poles, central office equipment, furniture, tools and vehicles — the majority for growth — are expected to total $2.1 million in the Eastern division, which is headquartered at Plymouth, includes 50 exchanges.

TO STOP NEW SALES TAXES

Under the present leadership in Madison, the sales tax has been raised to 4 per cent. And it has been added to many necessities of life, such as clothing. Now they are promising still more sales taxes to pay for more spending programs of $400 million. Pat Lucey and Martin Schreiber believe that the sales tax is unfair because it taxes the things that people need to live.

Two Appear In Court on Drug Charges

Two young Appleton men appeared in separate courts this morning for arraignment on drug charges, but the case of one was continued for the filing of written defense motions.

Richard Geborek, 21, of 121 N. Drew St., entered an innocent plea before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. Schaefer scheduled a jury trial for next Monday morning, before returning Geborek to the county jail under $1,500 bond.

Appleton police allege Geborek gave a bag of marijuana to an informer on Oct. 11, when the two met with a third party in an alley behind a downtown tavern. Geborek was bound over to County Court Branch 2 after a preliminary hearing on the felony charge Friday.

Russell Pennell, 26, of 319½ N. Appleton St., came before Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell but didn't enter a plea. His case was continued pending the filing of defense motions by his attorney.

Appleton authorities charge that he sold hashish, a marijuana derivative, to the informer on Oct. 17. They said the transaction occurred in Appleton. Pennell, who also has had a hearing on the selling count, is in the county jail on the same bond as Geborek.

Weekend Work Nets Burglars Goods and $800

Merchandise and about $800 is missing from three Appleton establishments hit by weekend burglaries, including two north side taverns two blocks apart.

At least $500 is gone from an office desk drawer at Gunderson Bakery, 532 N. Richmond St., where thieves pried a window panel to gain entry. Mrs. Ray Gunderson, wife of the owner, discovered the crime about 10 a.m. Sunday.

A break-in at the Ultimate Bar, 1101 W. Wisconsin Ave., netted burglars $290 from cigar boxes kept on a back bar. Two portable radios also were taken. Intruders got in by prying a side door. Police said the crime occurred after 2 a.m. Sunday.

Making their way to a cash register after crawling through a smashed restroom window brought burglars $13 at the Little Alibi tavern, 906 W. Wisconsin Ave., after closing time Sunday. Some glasses also were taken there, the owner told authorities.

have been defined, all of the students "apply" for positions via a letter to Mrs. Sloboda, who also interviews each applicant.

Here, no one gets turned down for a position and everyone is able to progress individually — an important part of the program, since not everyone works at the same rate.

With the preliminaries out of the way, the work flow begins as it would in any office. Most of the work comes from various departments or teachers in the building, who can always use a hand in typing and mimeographing.

So the nice part through this service to the school, is that one hand washes the other, but only one gets dirty — the hands of the girl who works with the machines.

Typical Order

Last week Frank Albrecht, assistant principal at East, needed 200 envelopes addressed and stuffed for a school function. He called and explained the situation to the receptionist.

She wrote a work order, passed it on to the typist who completed it and turned it over to the billing clerk. She, in turn, made out the bill, and sent it to Albrecht for the proper amount.

The whole thing came to an imaginary $5, which Albrecht paid with a sample check, and sent to the company office where it was properly recorded in triplicate.

All the people involved kept track of the time they spent on the job, gave an account of it to the payroll clerk at the end of the payroll period and received their "pay," complete with the proper insurance and tax deductions.

It's almost like a game, but the goals are high and the stakes may be a job.

Watching the office in action is like watching education in progress and seeing results of innovative concepts.

Here the program is confined to four walls, and walls aren't expandable.

But obviously ideas are.

ing a strong bid to unseat the 1st Congressional District's representative, Republican Henry C. Schadeberg, and that could be the state's closest congressional race.

In the state Assembly, the GOP opened the 1969 session with a 52-48 advantage. But a Republican representative became an independent, and other shifts in the Assembly makeup could produce an unprecedented 50-50 tie Tuesday.

Again, the ballot strength of the Olson-Lucey contest could influence the Assembly image. And while both Olson and Lucey predict victory, the view from the sidelines are going along with Olson's earlier observation that the contest is going to be a "cliffhanger."

The cliffhanger victory margins of 1962 and 1964, prior to the Knowles era, were 20,000 votes or less.

Polls open at various times Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. All close by 8 p.m.

Lucey and his running mate, State Sen. Martin J. Schreiber Jr. of Milwaukee, are counting on heavy support from predominantly Democratic Milwaukee to overcome Republican rural strength.

But Milwaukee County voter registration is at a 16-year low. Registration is approximately 454,000.

Olson's running mate for lieutenant governor is State Rep. David Martin of Neenah.

There are four minor party candidates running for governor. There are four candidates beside Erickson and Proxmire running for the U.S. Senate.

Fight Set for Three Posts in Calumet Race

CHILTON — Competition will center on three county offices in Tuesday's election race.

Incumbent State Rep. Gervase Hephner will be opposed by Republican James Struening of Brillion. Hephner seeks his third term.

In the county treasurer race, Lorna Schoen, a Republican who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Merlin Zahn seeks her first full term. She will be opposed by Democrat Mrs. Lorraine E. Ammerman.

Bidding for the sheriff spot are Republican Theodore (Ted) Pagel, a New Holstein businessman and former city police chief, who will be opposed by Chilton policeman Garnett (Pete) Petersen, a Democrat.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Bankers' Aid Is Denied By Irate Congressmen

Contributions Listed But Not Received

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angry congressmen vowed today to return any campaign contributions from a bankers' political fund accused of trying to sway a pending bill on bank regulation.

More than $40,000 in campaign donations for members of both the House and Senate banking committees have been listed by the Bankers Political Action Committee fund in a sworn report to Congress. The Justice Department has launched an investigation.

Many of the lawmakers named in the report said today they have not received the money and will turn it away if it arrives. "I don't have five cents from any bank or banker," said one congressman.

The heated reaction raised the possibility the bank fund might backfire when Congress returns two weeks after election day to act on a bill to ban one-bank holding companies from branching out into other business areas.

A 1956 law already bars holding companies that control two or more banks from buying into other unrelated business enterprises. The pending bill would extend this ban to conglomerates that control only a single bank.

The contributions listed by the Bankers Political Action Committee included:

- $5,000 for Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., member of a Senate-House conference group set to meet in mid-November to decide between stronger and a weaker version of the regulatory bill.
- $2,500 each to three House Republicans on the same conference committee, Reps. William B. Widnall of New Jersey, Albert W. Johnson of Pennsylvania, and J. William Stanton of Ohio.
- a total of $27,500 to 18 other congressmen, every one a member of the House Banking Committee.

Both Reps. Johnson and Stanton said no such checks had come in and would be rejected if they do. Stanton said, "If I am offered money, I do not intend to accept it."

Most of the contributions were dated over the last few days. One congressman's aide quoted a fund official as saying the donation was in the mail and was being sent through a banker in the lawmaker's home state.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, charged the contributions were an obvious effort by the bankers to influence action on the regulatory bill.

Patman asserted: "They are trying to weaken the holding bill. Now is the time to spread the money around if they want to influence it."

TV Networks to Carry Nixon's Phoenix Talk

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon will climax his strenuous role in the 1970 campaign by appearing on major television networks tonight in filmed segments of a speech decrying violent dissent.

The Western White House announced late Sunday that the Republican National Committee had purchased time on ABC, CBS and NBC for broadcasts featuring excerpts from Nixon's speech Saturday in Phoenix in which he called for a "tough-minded approach to violence."

WLUC-TV, Channel 11, will telecast the special message starting at 7:30 p.m., with a 15-minute reply by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, to follow immediately. The time of the program on stations WBAY-TV and WFRV-TV had not yet been determined at noon today.

Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Republican candidates across the land have worked hard to make "law and order" a prime issue. The President carried the effort forward Sunday after a two-hour meeting here with Agnew.

In a directive that ostensibly had no connection with Tuesday's election, Nixon expressed deep concern about "the growing problem of assaults on police officers," and ordered the Justice Department to extend "all appropriate investigative resources" to state and local authorities in such cases.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, often mentioned as a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, will follow President Nixon on national television tonight to respond to what he called "the Republican tactics of fear and division that threaten to tear this country apart."

A spokesman for Muskie's Washington office said the three major networks have been asked to donate at least 15 minutes for the Muskie rebuttal speech but that money is being raised to pay for the time if the request fails.

Muskie is to respond to recent speeches of both Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Two parachute hobbists died Sunday in separate sky-diving accidents in Wisconsin.

Robert Jusza, a La Crosse State University student, was killed when his chute failed to open while he was competing near Sparta in what was billed as the state collegiate parachute jumping contest.

Monroe County authorities said a small crowd of spectators saw Jusza jump from a height of 2,500 feet. His main chute did not open properly, and an auxiliary chute became entangled with the first, they said.

Jusza, 22, had listed Hicksville, N.Y., and West Allis as home addresses.

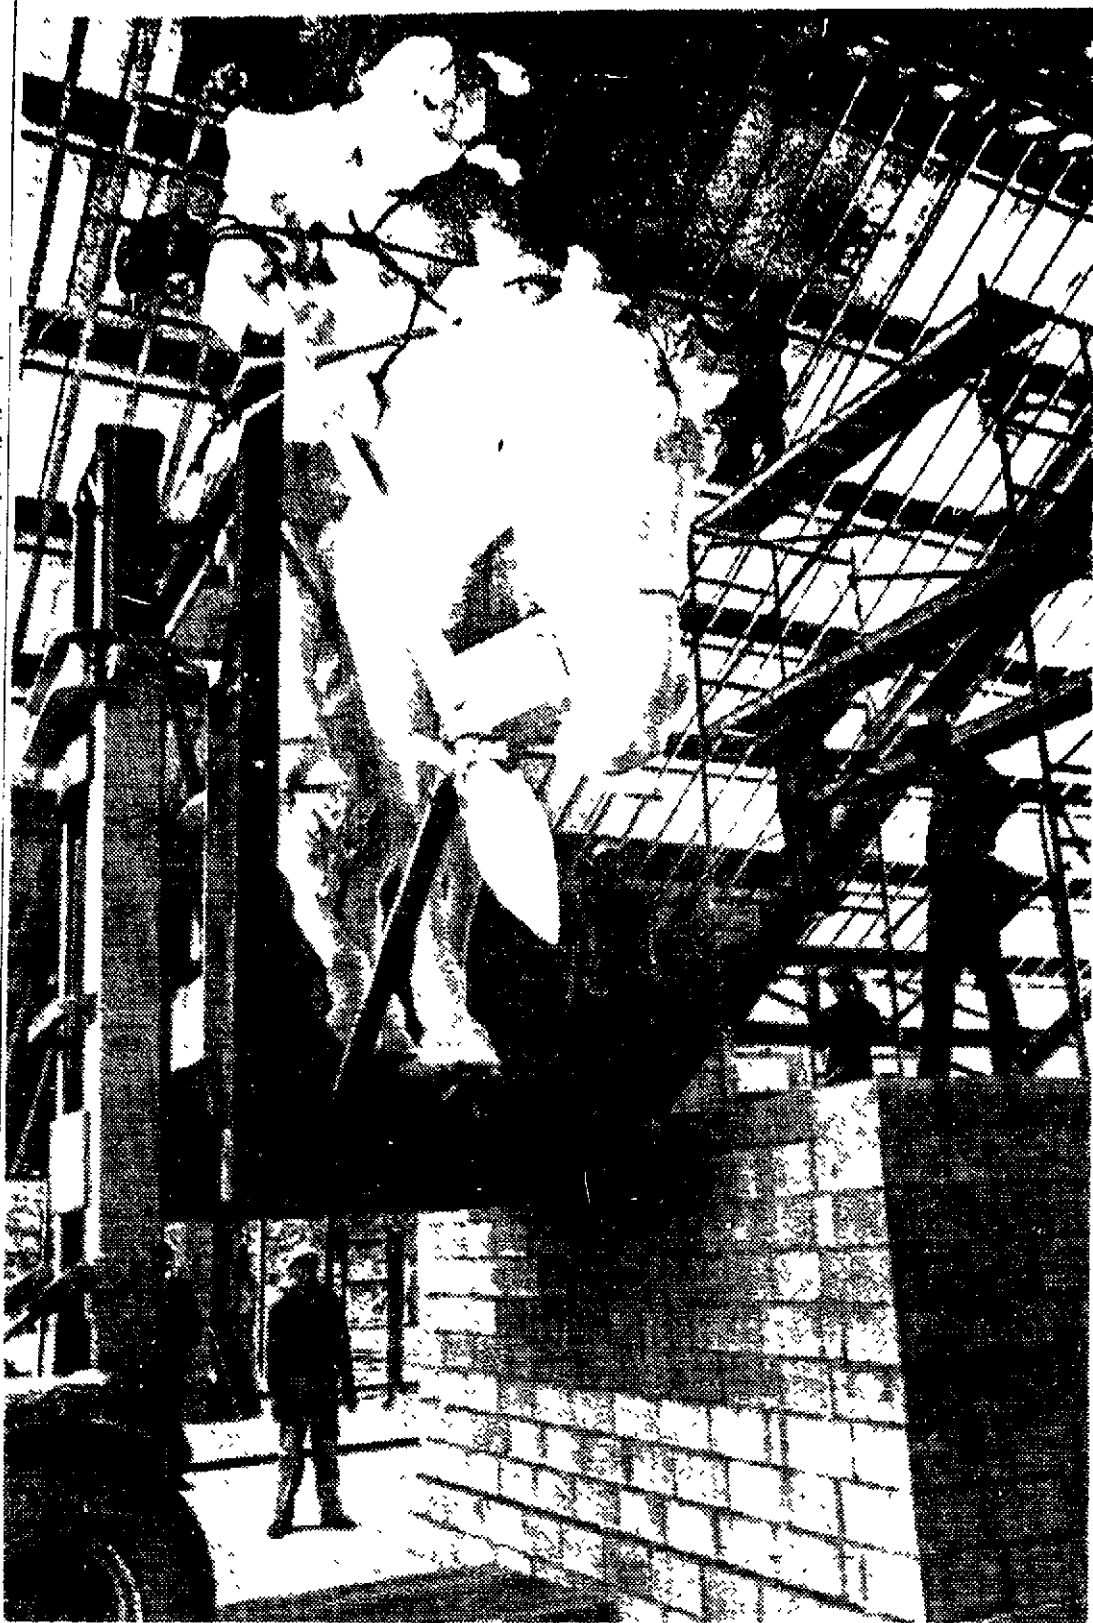

Charles Morito, 23, of Evanston, Ill., died Sunday evening in Frankton, a Milwaukee suburb, during his first parachute jump.

Morito was a student chutist. Instructors said he rolled as he fell, and that his chute lines became entangled.

Rep. Cramer Reports Sub Base Work Halted

MIAMI (AP) — Rep. William C. Cramer says President Nixon told him the Soviet Union has stopped building a submarine base in Cuba and has recalled its ships.

"The President assured me that following a strong warning from this nation, construction has been halted," Cramer, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate, said at a Sunday news conference. "The Soviet vessels have been removed."

One of The Nation's more famous statues, a 55-year-old sculpture done by James Earle Fraser, took a 75-foot journey that could be its last. The work is owned by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City, Okla. It has been kept in a temporary shelter and now is to be enshrined with other Fraser works. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says Russia now has 1,400 land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles ready for use under construction.

The figure is 100 higher than Laird's most recent assessment for Congress given a few weeks ago, and it puts the Soviets 350 missiles ahead of the United States.

Laird released the new figures just before the opening of the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) in Helsinki. He had included them in a report to defense chiefs of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization who met in Ottawa last week.

Also listed were 30 Soviet missile-launching nuclear submarines that are either operational or being built. His previous public figure on Russian missile subs was 28.

The United States has 41 Polaris submarines and Laird has said the Soviets could catch up with the U.S. fleet by 1974.

Laird expressed a view in last week's talks that the Soviet Union can be prevented from creating a large nuclear capability gap by a united NATO effort.

A communique issued after the two days of talks between eight defense leaders said they had reached agreement "on political guidelines to cover the possible use" of atomic land mines to meet a Communist move into Western Europe.

The president of the United States would have final say on when the mines could be put to use.

Sources said Laird indicated to German, British and other defense leaders that the United States would like to see larger troop contributions in NATO defense, rather than just contributions of support.

European defense leaders are expected to meet on the suggestion in mid-November, then tell Laird their ideas in Brussels early in December, when a full ministerial-level NATO conference is planned.

Al Capp and Martha To Toast Spiro Agnew

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cartoonist Al Capp and Martha Mitchell, wife of the attorney general, will serve as toastmasters at a "salute to the vice president dinner."

The affair, honoring Spiro T. Agnew's campaign efforts, will be held at the Sheraton Park Hotel Nov. 12 under auspices of the Republican National Committee.

Government's Failure To Ban Toys Blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James G. O'Hara said today the government has not ordered a single dangerous toy—including a superheating toy oven and a blowgun dart that can be sucked into children's lungs—off the market despite a new act of Congress.

The Michigan Democrat, co-sponsor of the Child Protection and Toy Safety Act of 1969, urged Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson to act before the Christmas toy-buying season.

"It is shocking to discover that nearly 10 months after the act took effect that the very toys we hoped to keep out of children's hands are still being offered for sale," O'Hara said.

"And unless the secretary takes swift action, unknowing parents will purchase these toys for their children this Christmas."

O'Hara said toys still on the market include the hot oven, the blowgun dart and a large steel-tipped dart used in a lawn game. All were cited in a House report as the kind of toys that should be banned.

The act directs the HEW secretary to establish procedures for removal of dangerous toys from the market, and authorizes him to order them out of the stores immediately in cases of "imminent hazard."

HEW's Food and Drug Administration acknowledged no toys have been ordered off the market but said it has taken action for voluntary removal of 21 products for children, ranging from toys to furniture.

An FDA spokesman had no comment on the three toys mentioned by O'Hara.

The congressman said the toys also were called dangerous by the National Commission on Product Safety more than a year ago.

Antiwar Rally Draws Only 500

MADISON (AP)—The antiwar movement at the University of Wisconsin tested its strength Sunday, and attracted about 500 persons to a windy, chilly rally on a library lawn.

John Barzman, a sponsor of the rally, said it was "successful because it has been peaceful."

An estimated 50 policemen watched the gathering. There were no incidents.

Similar demonstrations at UW drew upwards of 10,000 participants a year ago. But some led to vandalism last spring, and that record tended to dissuade Sunday's turnout.

Moving the Red Handle To The Right

If You Change Your Mind, Turn UP a Voting Pointer and Turn DOWN Another for the Same Office.

As no votes are registered until the Red Handle is moved to open the curtain, you can make as many changes as you desire while the Red Handle is at the right side. The machine is so arranged that you can turn down only the proper number of voting pointers for each office; you cannot spoil your ballot by voting for too many candidates. Each candidate's voting pointer is located just above the name; a voting pointer must be turned down over the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote. LEAVE VOTING POINTERS DOWN. No one will know how you have voted because the movement of the Red Handle to the left returns the voting pointers to the original position before the curtain begins to open.

Young Hobby Club Study the Stars With White Imitation Gems

BY CAPPY DICK

Charts showing the constellations are fun to make from black paper and white imitation gems. Displayed on the wall of your room, the charts provide a good way to study the stars.

Two typical charts are shown in figures 1 and 2. However, they are shown with white backgrounds, whereas the actual charts are intended to be shown in white on black construction paper or black poster board.

Use a pencil to outline the shape of a constellation on this black paper. Glue the imitation gems at the proper places. Use white crayon to draw thin lines connecting the gems.

Make a chart for each of the major constellations. Use the white crayon to print the name of the constellation on its chart.

Place the charts along the back of your desk, resting against the wall, or thumbtack them to the wall.

You will find that when a bright light strikes the imitation gems, representing the stars, they will glisten. Tomorrow: Directions for playing mirror jackstraws!

City Asked to Match Funds

Federal Government To Give $10,900 for Traffic Improvement

Appleton has been asked to submit $11,000 to be matched with $10,900 in federal funds for traffic lights and other improvements at the Memorial Drive-Seymour Street intersection and for traffic signals at Meade Street and Northland Avenue.

The state Department of Transportation notified City Clerk Elden Broehm Friday that as soon as the city makes its share of the funds available the state will award contracts for the two projects.

Lester J. Feldhack, Inc., Milwaukee, is the low bidder among contractors submitting bids opened Oct. 13, according to the department.

The Memorial Drive project is expected to cost $15,700, with the city paying $7,870 and the federal TOPICS aid program providing $1,830.

The Meade-Northland signals are expected to cost $6,200 to install. The city will pay $3,130 and the TOPICS program, $3,070.

The projects are the first approved for Appleton under the TOPICS program, which is aimed at helping communities improve conditions on local streets.

The city has been promised $71,200 this year and an identical sum next year if it submits plans for projects acceptable to state and federal officials.

A series of projects are in various stages of planning or review.

How to Cut Expense Of Car Breakdowns

WASHINGTON — One of the best ways to avoid the high cost of repairing a car is to avoid the necessity of calling a repairman.

This necessity is not easy to avoid when a part wears out or breaks because of a defect or collision. But records show that many calls for repair trucks could have been avoided if the driver had checked a few simple things first.

The same thing is true with appliances. Repairmen report that a surprisingly large number of calls come in from people who haven't even looked to see if the plug was in the socket.

With automobiles, few breakdowns are as simple to fix as putting a plug into a wall socket. And expert mechanics do not recommend tinkering with engines unless you know what you are doing.

Simple Solutions

But there are numerous ways to find out why your car has suddenly died in traffic if the problem is simple. The Automobile Association of America has listed the most common causes of breakdowns and suggested some simple solutions that might avoid the delay and cost of a repair truck.

The most common cause of trouble is failure of the battery or electrical system. This accounts for 44 per cent of all breakdowns. First, turn the starter and see if the headlights go on. If they don't, the battery is either weak or dead.

If the lights go on, then off, the battery is probably all right and the trouble is somewhere else. If the headlights dim while driving, it's probably a dying generator. In this case, try to

Elderly Appleton Man Collapses, Dies While Working at His Home

An 83-year-old Appleton man, Raymond S. All, 602 N. Center St., died Saturday morning of a heart attack suffered while working at his house.

All collapsed at about 9:30 a.m. while putting up a ladder to clean eavespouts on the house. A neighbor, who was aiding All, called the Appleton Fire Rescue Squad and administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to All.

The rescue unit rushed All to Appleton Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival. Death was caused by a heart attack, according to C. J. Schink, Outagamie County deputy coroner.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete and pending at the Wichmann Funeral Home.

26-10 Defeat Dims Packer Title Hopes

BY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — The Packers' lead bus, a scant block from Kezar Stadium and airport bound, was creeping through heavy postgame traffic as dusk fell here Sunday.

Jerring fans, streaming down the streets, taunted the players and struck the side of the bus with the shafts of the pennants they brandished like weapons.

One militant, employing his right fist in sledgehammer fashion, cracked the glass in a window.

Although no occupant was injured, it was an irksome climax to a long afternoon for the Packers, who had just seen their Central Division title hopes absorb an even more damaging blow at the hands of San Francisco's ambitious 49ers.

Second-half Misfortunes
Equally as painful as a 26-10 defeat, largely traceable to a staggering series of second-half misfortunes, was the knowledge the result might easily have been reversed.

Dead even with the Gold Diggers at the intermission despite the loss of quarterback Bart Starr early in the second quarter, the Packers did not lack for opportunity in those last 30 minutes. But three interceptions, the most critical in the San Francisco end zone with six minutes remaining, sealed their fate.

Thus, instead of being 5-2 at the National Football League season's midpoint and in a position to challenge for the lead, they find themselves two games behind the Vikings with seven to play.

The Packers also remain a length to the rear of the Detroit Lions, 30-17 Viking victims Sunday, and only a game ahead of the victorious Bears.

Shadowed, too, in defeat was another sterling effort by Phil Bengtson's injury-ridden athletes, who were playing without five starters following Bart Starr's early exit. Also missing were injured center Ken Bowman, running back Travis Williams, defensive tackle Rich Moore and linebacker Dave Robinson.

There were no shadows, of course, for the 49ers. Now 5-1-1 and a half ahead of the Rams in the NFL West, they are in a fair way to capture the first division title in their 25-year existence.

Their long suffering faithful rewarded their arduous Sunday by producing the first Kezar sellout (59,335) since 1959. In fact, they have so taken these 49ers to heart that 8,500 customers had to be turned away. Despite the imposing casualty

We Had Pretty Good Chance

Too Many Injuries Affect Play, Morale, Declares Phil

Post-Crescent News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Phil Bengtson is, above all things, a realist. He knew that the odds were against his injury-plagued Packers here Sunday afternoon in competition with the fast-starting San Francisco 49ers, leaders of the National Football League's Western Division.

But this knowledge did little to ease the pain as he reviewed the Pack's 26-10 defeat at 49er hands while relaxing in his temporary Kezar Stadium "office."

"It would have taken a great effort to win," the Packer strategist said quietly in analysis of a development which had damaged the Bays' title hopes. "But we had a pretty good chance."

"If we score after that interference penalty with seven minutes to go, instead of throwing an interception, we cut their lead to 23-17," he pointed out. "Then, if we score again, it's 24-23, Packers."

Injuries a Factor

The injury situation had to be something of a factor, both physically and psychologically, he admitted.

"You lose a couple of people and you can replace them, but if you get too much beyond that, not only do you get down in manpower, but the morale of our team is affected."

Commenting on the performance of Don Horn, who went nearly three quarters at quarterback after Bart Starr retired with a sore arm, Bengtson said softly, "I would have hoped that he would not have thrown as many interceptions."

The 49er rush, one scribe interposed, had been formidable.

Bengtson nodded agreement but appended, "The rush really is not an excuse for interceptions... Of course, Don has not had much experience, although he did play quite a bit last season and some the year before."

Sore Arm

Bart Starr, who left the game early in the second quarter, "Just has a sore arm," Bengtson said. "He doesn't have any strength in the arm—he can't put any steam on his passes."

"We didn't know before the game that he was having any particular trouble, but we knew Bart has had a sore arm for several weeks."

Discussing the "fumbled" punt which the 49ers recovered in the second quarter, Bengtson said, "Clarence Williams was just back to block on that one—he was on the ground and the ball hit him. He didn't know where the ball was. He probably should have, but he didn't."

He said he had no particular fault to find with the defense, asserting, "I thought they played pretty well overall... I couldn't really fault Ken Ellis on that long pass to Jim Thomas in the third quarter. The ball was thrown perfectly and it was outside of him Ellis didn't have much of a chance on that one."

The Packer headmaster also said he was not surprised the 49ers had run as much to the outside as they had.

"We expected that they would try quite a bit of that sort of thing off what we had seen in the films."

Asked what his reasoning had been in calling for a punt with the ball at San Francisco's 40-yard line in the third quarter, Bengtson, "I felt 47 yards was out of Dale Livingston's range... That's a pretty long field goal."

A San Francisco writer suggested the 49ers' defense was much improved over a year ago but Bengtson did not concur in his appraisal.

"I thought it looked about the same as it did a year ago," he said. "How many field goals did Gossett get?"

Bengtson, once defense coach for the San Franciscans, was highly complimentary to the 49ers, however.

"They played awfully well," he said. "How many field goals did Gossett get?"

Krause Had One Man to Beat on Run

Post-Crescent News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — "I wish I could have got by him," Larry Krause said, a little wistfully. "He was the last man."

"He" is Jim Johnson, the 49er cornerback who forced the pride of St. Norbert out of bounds after an electrifying 62-yard kickoff return in the fourth quarter of the Packers' 26-10 loss here Sunday.

"I broke off the right side and there was a lot of daylight that way," said Krause, who was knocked off balance as he fed Johnson a bristling stiffarm, the careened out of bounds. "By that time, everybody was past me."

Krause, who was kayoed while recovering a first quarter fumble which set up the Packers' field goal, ruefully reported, "I couldn't see after that until some time in the second quarter. I could see white and red, but I couldn't make out the teams."

"I was a little worried there for a while," he confessed. "I think somebody hit me on the left side of the head on that play. I can feel a bump there."

Cuozzo's Passing Triggers Win

Vikings Trim Lions, 30-17

DETROIT (AP) — The Lions' first place with a 6-1 record, primary problem at Sunday's both teams were 5-1 at game pro football showdown in Detroit was that the Minnesota Vikings showed up.

It was the "pressure game" of the season for the two Central Division teams of the National Football Conference. But by Detroit Coach Joe Schmidt's own admission—the Lions couldn't take the pressure.

Quarterback Gary Cuozzo took advantage of the absence of injured Lion defensive cornerback Lem Barney to nail three plays after Cuozzo hit Henderson on a 40-yarder that beat Williams.

It was the long one that burned him. When Bill Brown took a six-yard scoring pass from Cuozzo up the middle in the first half—and fired a pair of touchdown passes. Second string Lion's cornerback Bobby Williams was the principal vic-

Munson, who seemed pass-shy after the Bryant interception, was intercepted twice in the second half. But in the first half, he hit on a 13-yard second quarter touchdown pass to Larry Walton. Erroll Mann booted an 11-yard field goal in the second period for Detroit's other score.

Taylor Ignites Brawl Blanda's Field Goal With 3 Seconds Left Brings Oakland Tie

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Old man George Blanda chuckled all the way home. Nobody would blame Otis Taylor if he didn't go home.

Ben Davidson was sort of caught in the middle. Len Dawson was an innocent bystander even if he was flat on his back.

These were the principal figures in perhaps the most bizarre drama in pro football's long history.

Blanda, at 43 the game's oldest player, kicked a 48-yard field goal with three seconds left Sunday to give Oakland a 17-17 tie with Kansas City. It boosted the Raiders into first place in the American Conference's West Division and left the Chiefs in third.

Taylor, the Chiefs' wide receiver, started a brawl with a minute left by punching Davidson. Oakland defensive end, after the latter had jumped on Dawson, the Chiefs' quarterback. Players from both benches spilled onto the field, and the game was delayed several minutes before order was restored.

Gained 19 Yards
Dawson had just gained 19 yards on a naked rollout that put the ball on the Raiders' 29. Referee Bob Finley stepped off 15 yards because Davidson had piled on Dawson, who already had been well tackled and was ready to struggle to his feet.

Then Taylor was ejected and the Chiefs had to be penalized 15 yards. The two penalties offset each other, the play was nullified. The Chiefs got the ball on the original scrimmage line, all the way home. Nobody would blame Otis Taylor if he didn't go home.

Raider quarterback Daryle Lamonica went to the air from his 20 to try to overhaul the Chiefs, who had moved out front 17-14 moments before the fistcuffs on Dawson's 13-yard end zone flip to Taylor.

Lamonica completed four of five successive passes, and the Raiders wound up with the ball on the Chiefs' 41 with the clock showing eight seconds left.

Enter Mr. Blanda.
"I knew the kick was good when I hit it," Blanda said. "They get a stupid penalty, and all of a sudden we get a tie, and we're in first place. How does it feel? It feels fantastic."

Taylor said he didn't know why he was thrown out of the

Falcon Errors Aid Bears to 23-14 Victory

Van Brocklin Puts Blame on Offensive Unit in Setback

ATLANTA (AP) — "The offense blew the game," Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin stated bluntly Sunday after he watched the Chicago Bears use two fumble recoveries for 10 points and return a kickoff for a touchdown in a 23-14 conquest of the Falcons.

"You can't expect to win when you play like that," the Dutchman added. "It was a comedy of errors, mostly errors of offensive fundamentals. That wraps it up in a nutshell. That's how it is. It's a shame, but it's the way we played."

Atlanta had entered the game as an eight-point favorite against a Chicago team whose offense had been depleted by Bill injuries to its top running backs.

The Bears' offense was ineffective Sunday, needing a pass interference call in the end zone to score on Don Shy's one-yard run after defensive tackle George Seals had recovered a Bob Berry fumble at the Atlanta four.

Turner Goes 94 Yards
Chicago also picked up a field goal after recovering a Berry fumble at the Atlanta 33 and the other touchdown came on Cecil Turner's 94-yard kickoff return. Mac Percival booted three field goals.

Seals forced the fumble that he scooped up at the Falcon nine, but he temporarily forgot where he was and started running the wrong way. After some shouts from teammates Seals reversed his field and reached the Atlanta four before he was knocked out of bounds.

"Aw, man, I wanted that touchdown," Seals said. "That's what's so bad."

Bear Coach Jim Dooley said, "I thought he was running over to Abe (Gibson, Bear assistant

Giants Post 22-10 Victory Over Jets

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants, stimulated by a third quarter fist fight, retaliated by punching out a safety and two quick touchdowns on Fran Tarkenton passes and rolled to a 22-10 victory over the New York Jets Sunday in their historic first meeting.

The teams never before had met in regular season play during their 11 years of co-existence that included a bitter war between the American and National football leagues, and this 24 passes for 138 yards, had only three of those completions in the second half.

Cornerback Ed Sharockman intercepted one of his passes at the Vikings' five and linebacker Roy Winston grabbed another which set up a Cox field goal.

52nd Interception

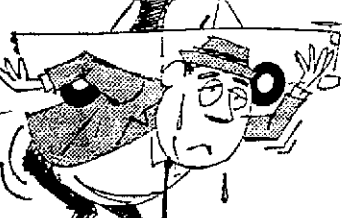

Detroit got interceptions from Dick LeBeau and Mike Weger. LeBeau's being the 52nd of his career to put him fourth on the all-time National Football League list.

Detroit's specialty squad set up Mann's field goal which came with 18 seconds left in the first half. Bob Kowalkowski recovered Charlie West's dropped punt on the Viking 10 after a necktie by Craig Cotton.

Kowalkowski actually scored on the play, but it was ruled that the ball couldn't be advanced since West didn't have full possession.

Cannon Mishap Injures 4 During Halftime Show

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Part of a man's hand was blown off and three other persons were injured when a cannon fired prematurely during halftime ceremonies at the Saints-Rams football game.

Injured were David Widdicombe, 22, and Leslie Germain, 24, both of Memphis, Tenn; William Bagley, 32, and Betty High, 21, both of Metairie, La.

Widdicombe and Germain, members of a ceremonial drill team, were leading the cannon when the charge fired. The shaft used to push the charge into the barrel splintered and sailed into the east section of the stadium, striking Bagley and Miss High.

She and Bagley were treated for cuts. Germain was hospitalized with severe lacerations. Widdicombe underwent surgery. He lost three fingers of his right hand and part of the hand below the fingers.

Sonny Paves Way Skins Throttle Broncos

DENVER (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen threw two touchdown passes as the Washington Redskins scored a 19-3 decision over the Denver Broncos in the National Football League Sunday.

Curt Knight contributed two field goals to the Redskins' scoring as Washington effectively throttled the Bronco offense.

Denver crossed the midfield stripe only once in the first half and its longest drive, 63 yards in the third period, sputtered out on the Washington 17.

Denver was unable to score until Bobby Howfield kicked a 37-yard field goal early in the last quarter.

After Knight kicked field goals of 37 and 44 yards, the Redskins put together their longest sustained march, 62 yards late in the first half. Jurgensen passed 17 yards to Jerry Smith for the score.

Washington got its second touchdown after Bruce Anderson, Redskin defensive end, nailed Bronco quarterback Pete Liske's fumble on the Denver 11. On the next play, Smith caught Jurgensen's pass in the end zone.

Neither of the Denver quarterbacks, Liske nor Steve Tensi, could get Denver's attack rolling with any consistency. In the last minute of play, Mike Bass killed the Broncos' final hope for a score by intercepting Tensi's long Pass.

Overcome 14-0 Deficit

Rams Defeat Saints, 30-17

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was the New Orleans Saints' fourth birthday Sunday and for about five minutes it looked as if Los Angeles would make them a present of the game.

But trailing 14-0 less than four minutes into the contest, the Rams sobered up and went on to a 30-17 victory. It gave the Rams a 5-2 record and dropped the Saints to 1-5-1.

The Rams dominated the game offensively, but were unable to ice it until a freak play set up a touchdown late in the fourth period.

"We had field position all day and couldn't put them away," said Coach George Allen of the Rams. Los Angeles lost fumbles at the New Orleans 16 and two-yard lines and had a pass intercepted in the end zone on a play that started at the Saint 12.

3 Field Goals

On three other occasions the Rams probed deep into New Orleans territory but had to settle for field goals of 43, 14 and 23 yards by David Ray.

The Ram touchdowns were on Roman Gabriel passes of 22 yards to Jack Snow and 15 yards to Bob Long and a nine-yard run by Les Josephson with 4:25 left in the game.

New Orleans struck just over two minutes deep in the game when rookie Doug Wyatt intercepted a Gabriel pass and returned it nine yards to the Ram 35. Quarterback Edd Hargett found tight end Ray Poage in the end zone with a 35-yard scoring strike three plays later.

The Rams got off two plays after the ensuing kickoff before Gabriel had the ball swatted out of his hand attempting to pass and linebacker Mike Morgan scooped it up and rambled 28 yards for a touchdown.

Despite the Ram domination, it took an improvised 23-yard run by punter Pat Studstill to insure the victory.

If Studstill had not made first down yardage, the Saints would have had it in good field position, trailing only six points, with six minutes to play.

Insurance Touchdown

Instead, the Rams had a first down at the Saint 39 and four plays later Josephson took it in for the insurance touchdown.

After a high snap, Studstill took a few hesitant steps as if to punt, but took off. "I figured I'd run it another five yards and see what happens," he said. "If they stop me I'll kick the ball."

"I went ahead and ran it five yards and I see Bob Klein make a good block and so I figured, 'What the hell, I'll go for it,' Studstil continued.

"I saw the marker on the right side of the field to see how far I've got to go. I see I've got my wall of protection there so I said, 'Oh hell, go ahead and get it."

He did — with six yards to spare.

"Somebody should have got him," said coach Tom Fears of the Saints. "We weren't trying to block (the punt) or anything, we were just holding up people. We're not opportunists."

Quarterback John Brodie (12) of the San Francisco 49ers, with Green Bay Packer end Bob Brown's (78) hand on his jersey, loses the ball to linebacker Jim Carter, on the ground at the right. The action took place in the second period of Sunday's game at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. list, the Packers won the day statistically, primarily by dint of a slashing ground attack. They rolled up 308 yards, including 173 rushing and 105 of the latter by the runaway Donny Anderson.

It was the third 100-yard performance of his career for the "Golden Palomino", who averaged seven yards per carry with the aid of a 54-yard burst in the second quarter.

The defense also had its moments, recovering three fumbles along the way. Aside from one long, third quarter drive, the 49ers' scoreboard success could be traced to fumbles and interceptions.

Unhappily, the 49ers prevailed in the most vital statistic — by way of four Bruce Gossett field goals, a 5-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Brodie to tight end Bob Windsor and a 6-yard draw by halfback Dick Cunningham for a third quarter TD.

The day had begun auspiciously when rookie Larry Krause recovered a fumbled punt at the Packer 47, a development which led to a 9-yard field goal by Dale Livingston and an early 3-0 lead.

Life looked even brighter when Anderson shot into the open over right tackle and legged it to the San Francisco 40-yard-line before being run out of bounds.

Packer jubilation was short-lived, however. Rookie defender Bruce Taylor layd a Starr pass and, zigzagging through a wave of Packer pursuers, cantered all the way to the Grech Bay 4-yard-line before Carroll Dale, the intended receiver on the play, ran him out.

Windsor Lonely

On third down, Brodie waited a pass to a lonely Windsor in the right corner of the end zone to complete an unsettling turnabout.

Starr conceded to a chronic sore arm at this point and voluntarily took himself out of the game with the accompaniment of a healthy Don Horn could boot the Bays home.

Horn made a good beginning. On the exchange following the Windsor touchdown, Bruce Taylor fumbled Anderson's punt and Malcolm Walker burrowed through a mass of humanity to recover it at the 49er 29.

Horn had the Packers in the end zone three plays later. A delay-of-game penalty moved them back to the 34 but the former San Diego State star shortly recouped that, and all the rest, with a picture bomb to split end Jack Clancy.

49er safeties Mel Phillips and Roosevelt Taylor arrived much too late to waylay the former Michigan great, who gathered in the ball at the 2 and stepped across the goal unhindered.

Livingston's conversion padded the Packers' lead — their last of the afternoon — to 10-7. That, alas, was their final point. From then on, it was largely uphill for our heroes, despite the subsequent assistance of a Brodie fumble precipitated by the tender mercies of Bob Brown, which Jim Carter recovered at the San Francisco 23.

A 29-yard Livingston field goal attempt, perhaps affected by a high pass from center, was blocked by rookie end Cedric Hardman, depriving the Pack of a potential 6-point lead at that second quarter juncture.

And that was only the beginning. A Steve Spurrier punt shortly bounced off the prone frame of Packer Clarence Williams and the 49ers' Bill Tucker recovered, a break which the Prospectors converted into a 12-yard Gossett field goal with only 28 seconds remaining in the half to create a 10-10 tie going into the dressing room.

Things did not perceptibly improve in the third quarter. The Packers drove to the San Francisco 31 with the second half kickoff but Horn was felled for a 9-yard, third down loss by the charge of Hardman and Tommy Hart, forcing a punt.

The 49ers then flew 87 yards in six plays to mount a 17-10 bulge.

Cunningham, popping untouched on a draw, took it the final six yards.

Another misadventure followed when Ken Ellis fumbled the kickoff and Elmer Collett recovered at the Packer 24. That bloomed into a 24-yard Gossett field goal and 20-10 San Francisco bulge.

The Packers appeared to have something going as Horn collaborated with Anderson on a 19-yard pitch which brought them to the 49ers' 33, early in the fourth period, but a holding penalty on Dick Humes set them back to their own 31.

Frank Nunley, the Gold Digger's ubiquitous middle linebacker, picked off a Horn pass on third down and returned it to the Packer 41. This time, the home forces settled for a 34-yard Gossett field goal.

On the Move

Once again, the Packers were on the move, sweeping to the San Francisco 10 with the help of a 39-yard pass to Dale and an interference penalty on the 49ers who were too vigilant in shadowing John Spils.

But, with second and six, a 49er jostled Horn's arm as he fired and Al Randolph, falling backward near the end line, intercepted in the end zone with 7:27 to play.

If that were not the clincher, the 49ers quickly provided it with a surprise maneuver. Tight end Ted Kwalick, an infrequent performer, rambled 45 yards to the Packer 35 on an end-around.

The Packer defense regrouped, however, and the Niners were forced to be content with a 34-yard Gossett field goal.

But the 49er faithful sent up a boisterous cheer. It was now 26-10 with only 5:28 remaining and they knew it was all over.

Starr's Arm Was Ailing Before Game

'My Fault That We Lost,' Says Don Horn

Post-Crescent News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Normally smiling and ever confident, Don Horn was a somber study as the Packers' United Airlines 727 jetted homeward Sunday night.

The strong-armed quarterback, unhappy with his performance, took full responsibility for the Pack's 26-10 loss to the San Francisco 49ers in Kezar Stadium.

Horn, who played nearly three quarters after relieving injured Bart Starr, said solemnly, "I feel it was my fault that we lost today. I let coach E. B. King and coach Schmelker and coach Wietecha down ... and my teammates."

"That," he said, "was the extent of it."

Horn, intercepted three times by the Prospectors said, "Somebody but my arm as I threw the ball on Al Randolph's interception in the fourth quarter."

"I thought I had enough on it to get it over the end zone. Somebody must have made a big play ... On one of the others, I didn't see the middle linebacker (Frank Nunley, the interceptor)."

Not Surprised by Rush

Although he conceded he had been under a heavy siege in the fourth quarter, when the 49ers knew the Packers would have to put the ball in the air if they hoped to come from behind, Horn pointed out, "Every team has a strong rush — especially when they are ahead."

Starr, who retired to the bench early in the second quarter, revealed that he had not re-injured his passing arm.

"It was bothering me during the week and while I was warming up before the game," he said, "but we thought we'd try and see if I could get by."

Blocked Field Goal

Placekicker Dale Livingston, who had a 29-yard effort blocked after finding the range from the nine in the first quarter, said, "I don't know if the snap was high or not on that one. That really doesn't bother you too much. The only time it bothers is when the snap is bobbled. Bart got the ball down right away, so I should have made it."

"I thought I hit it well," he said, "but Coach Wietecha said it was low."

Rookie cornerback Ken Ellis, the victor of a 52-yard John Brodie bomb which set up the 49ers' last touchdown, was equally forthright.

"It was a perfectly thrown pass," he said. "There was nothing I could do about it. Jim Thomas just came off the line and flew on that one."

49ers Waited

He said he had had no illusions about going the distance on a third quarter kickoff return, which he ran back 48 yards. "They were waiting on me," Ken confided. "They had two or three guys back there."

Defensive end Clarence Williams, accidentally struck by a punt which the 49ers recovered in the second quarter, was somewhat in the dark about what had happened.

"I was in the process of making a block and I don't know where the ball hit me," he explained, adding, "I'll have to see the films myself to really know."

Buffalo Explosion Destroys Hapless Boston Patriots

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — O.J. Simpson took off on a 56-yard scoring jaunt and linebacker Edgar Chandler returned a pass interception 58 yards for another touchdown Sunday, helping the Buffalo Bills to a 45-10 National Football League victory over the hapless Boston Patriots.

The Bills piled up a 31-0 halftime lead and breezed to their third victory in seven starts while handing the puncheonless Patriots a sixth consecutive defeat.

Simpson ripped Boston defenses, carrying 17 times for 123 yards. He exploded on his long scoring run after taking a quick pitchout early in the second period.

Chandler, a husky 235-pounder, scored a few minutes later when he grabbed a pass which bounced off receiver Carl Garrett's fingers at the Buffalo 42.

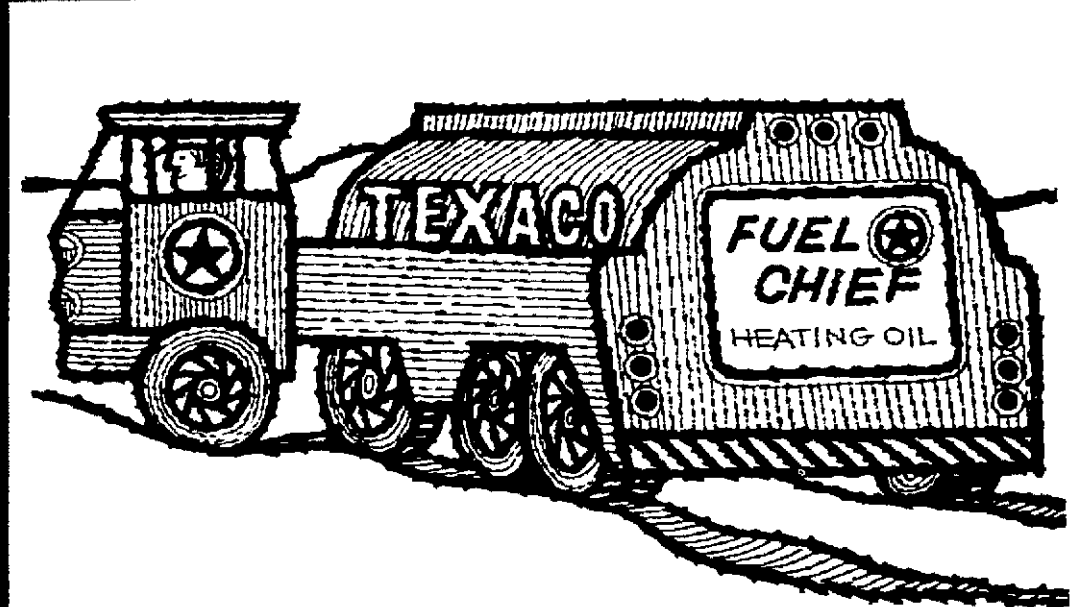

The Patriots started the game without Coach Clive Rush, who was stricken with a fast heart-beat and had to leave Harvard Stadium. After resting at a nearby motel, he joined the club third period.

Boston, which had gone 11 consecutive quarters without a touchdown, finally found the end zone, Nance bulging 19 yards with 3:55 remaining.

The Patriots then attempted an onside kick, but Jones picked up the ball and returned it 53 yards for another Buffalo score.

Joe Kapp failed to move the Patriots in starting for the third straight week at quarterback and finally gave way to Mike Taliaferro midway through the place in the second period of Sunday's game at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco. The 49ers kept their first place standing in the Western Division by scoring a 26-10 win over the Packers. (AP Wirephoto) list, the Packers won the day statistically, primarily by dint of a slashing ground attack. They rolled up 308 yards, including 173 rushing and 105 of the latter by the runaway Donny Anderson.

It was the third 100-yard performance of his career for the "Golden Palomino," who averaged seven yards per carry with the aid of a 54-yard burst in the second quarter.

The defense also had its moments, recovering three fumbles along the way. Aside from one long, third quarter drive, the 49ers' scoreboard success could be traced to fumbles and interceptions.

Unhappily, the 49ers prevailed in the most vital statistic — by way of four Bruce Gossett field goals, a 5-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Brodie to tight end Bob Windsor and a 6-yard draw by halfback Dick Cunningham for a third quarter TD.

The day had begun auspiciously when rookie Larry Krause recovered a fumbled punt at the Packer 47, a development which led to a 9-yard field goal by Dale Livingston and an early 3-0 lead.

Life looked even brighter when Anderson shot into the open over right tackle and legged it to the San Francisco 40-yard-line before being run out of bounds.

Packer jubilation was short-lived, however. Rookie defender Bruce Taylor laylaid a Starr pass and, zigzagging through a wave of Packer pursuers, cantered all the way to the Green Bay 4-yard-line before Carroll Dale, the intended receiver on the play, ran him out.

Windsor Lonely On third down, Brodie waited a pass to a lonely Windsor in the right corner of the end zone to complete an unsettling turnaround.

Starr conceded to a chronic sore arm at this point and voluntarily took himself out of the game with the accompanying hope that a healthy Don Horn could boot the Bays home.

Horn made a good beginning. On the exchange following the Windsor touchdown, Bruce Taylor fumbled Anderson's punt and Malcolm Walker burrowed through a mass of humanity to recover it at the 49er 29.

Horn had the Packers in the end zone three plays later. A delay-of-game penalty moved them back to the 34 but the former San Diego State star shortly recouped that, and all the rest, with a picture bomb to split end Jack Clancy.

49er safeties Mel Phillips and Roosevelt Taylor arrived much too late to waylay the former Michigan great, who gathered in the ball at the 2 and stepped across the goal unhindered.

Livingston's conversion padded the Packers' lead — their last of the afternoon — to 10-7. That, alas, was their final point. From then on it was largely uphill for our heroes.

despite the subsequent assistance of a Brodie fumble precipitated by the tender mercies of Bob Brown, which Jim Carter recovered at the San Francisco 23.

A 29-yard Livingston field goal attempt, perhaps affected by a high pass from center, was blocked by rookie end Cedric Hardman, depriving the Pack of a potential 6-point lead at that second quarter juncture.

28 Seconds Left And that was only the beginning. A Steve Spurrier punt shortly bounced off the prone frame of Packer Clarence Williams and the 49ers' Bill Tucker recovered, a break which the Prospectors converted into a 12-yard Gossett field goal with only 28 seconds remaining in the half to create a 10-10 tie going into the dressing room.

Things did not perceptibly improve in the third quarter. The Packers drove to the San Francisco 31 with the second half kickoff but Horn was felled for a 3-yard, third down loss by the charge of Hardman and Tommy Hart, forcing a punt.

The 49ers then flew 80 yards in six plays to mount a 17-10 bulge. Cunningham, popping untouched on a draw, took it the final six yards.

Another misadventure followed when Ken Ellis fumbled the kickoff and Elmer Collett recovered at the Packer 24. That bloomed into a 24-yard Gossett field goal and 20-10 San Francisco bulge.

The Packers appeared to have something going as Horn collaborated with Anderson on a 19-yard pitch which brought them to the 49ers' 33, early in the fourth period, but a holding penalty on Dick Himes set them back to their own 31.

Frank Nunley, the Gold Diggers' ubiquitous middle linebacker, picked off a Horn pass on third down and returned it to the Packer 41. This time, the home forces settled for a 34-yard Gossett field goal.

On the Move Once again, the Packers were on the move, sweeping to the San Francisco 10 with the help of a 39-yard pass to Dale and an interference penalty on the 49ers who were too vigilant in shadowing John Spils.

But, with second and six, a 49er jostled Horn's arm as he fired and Al Randolph, falling backward near the end line, intercepted in the end zone with 7:27 to play.

If that were not the clincher, the 49ers quickly provided it with a surprise maneuver. Tight end Ted Kwalick, an infrequent performer, rambled 45 yards to the Packer 35 on an end-around.

The Packer defense regrouped, however, and the Niners were forced to be content with a 34-yard Gossett field goal.

But the 49er faithful sent up a boisterous cheer. It was now 26-10 with only 5:26 remaining and they knew it was all over.

Referee Finley described the incident as "a continuing action foul. Play was not over until both penalties had been cleared."

Hank Stram, the Kansas City coach, said he had talked with the official and "he didn't explain anything. No one seems to know what happened."

John Madden, the Oakland coach, said "There's nothing like a win but when you're down with a few seconds to play, you have to feel a little related to get a tie."

Starr's Arm Was Ailing Before Game

'My Fault That We Lost,' Says Don Horn

Post-Crescent News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — Normally smiling and ever confident, Don Horn was a somber study as the Packers' United Airlines 727 jetted homeward Sunday night.

The strong-armed quarterback, unhappy with his performance, took full responsibility for the Pack's 26-10 loss to the San Francisco 49ers in Kezar Stadium.

Horn, who played nearly three quarters after relieving injured Bart Starr, said solemnly, "I feel it was my fault that we lost today. I let coach E. Bngtson and coach Schmelker and coach Wietecha down ... and my teammates."

"That," he said, "was the extent of it." Horn, intercepted three times by the Prospectors said, "Somebody hit my arm as I threw the ball on Al Randolph's interception in the fourth quarter."

"I thought I had enough on it to get it over the end zone. Somebody must have made a big play ... On one of the others, I didn't see the middle linebacker (Frank Nunley, the interceptor)."

Not Surprised by Rush Although he conceded he had been under a heavy siege in the fourth quarter, when the 49ers knew the Packers would have to put the ball in the air if they hoped to come from behind, Horn pointed out. "Every team has a strong rush — especially when they are ahead."

Starr, who retired to the bench early in the second quarter, revealed that he had not re-injured his passing arm.

"It was bothering me during the week and while I was warming up before the game," he said, "but we thought we'd try and see if I could get by."

Blocked Field Goal Placekicker Dale Livingston, who had a 29-yard effort blocked after finding the range from the nine in the first quarter, said, "I don't know if the snap was high or not on that one. That really doesn't bother you too much. The only time it bothers is when the snap is bobbled. Bart got the ball down right away, so I should have made it."

"I thought I hit it well," he said, "but Coach Wietecha said it was low."

Rookie cornerback Ken Ellis, the victor of a 52-yard John Brodie bomb which set up the 49ers' last touchdown, was equally forthright.

"It was a perfectly thrown pass," he said. "There was nothing I could do about it. Jim Thomas just came off the line and flew on that one."

49ers Waited

He said he had had no illusions about going the distance on a third quarter kickoff return, which he ran back 48 yards. "They were waiting on me," Ken confided. "They had two or three guys back there."

Defensive end Clarence Williams, accidentally struck by a punt which the 49ers recovered in the second quarter, was somewhat in the dark about what had happened.

"I was in the process of making a block and I don't know where the ball hit me," he explained, adding, "I'll have to see the films myself to really know."

Green Bay Activates Mike Carter, Harden

Post-Crescent News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — The Packers activated flanker Mike Carter and defensive back Leon Harden prior to Sunday's game with the 49ers, thus restoring their roster to full, 40-man strength.

They replace defensive tackle Rich Moore, out for the season following surgery to repair a torn Achilles tendon, and defensive back Ervin Hunt, placed on the taxi squad last week.

99ers Defense Starred Spurrier's Surprise Pass Was Planned

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — The 49ers' profitable fourth down pass from punt formation was not an impromptu maneuver, Coach Dick Nolan reports.

"Doug Scoville, who coaches our kicking game, thought all week we could do it," Nolan said. "So we told Steve (Spurrier) to go ahead and do it."

Faced with a fourth-and-21 situation, Spurrier faked a punt and fired down the south side lines to running back Bill Tucker, who was not felled until he reached the Packer 27 — and a first down. It produced a 25-yard gain and, eventually, a 12-yard, game-tying field goal by Bruce Gossett.

"We spread punt today," Nolan further explained, "and the Packers hadn't seen it. We had done it once before Spurrier threw that pass. We've been getting a lot of rush on our punts, so we thought we'd try the spread."

No Interference

"The first time we tried it today, our two wide men were not interfered with, so we thought we'd try the pass when we got into that fourth down situation."

"Our defense had been playing very well and our field position was pretty good, so we weren't too concerned if we didn't make it."

Turning to another long gainer, Ted Kwalick's 45-yard end around in the fourth quarter, the wavy-haired 49er mentor explained, "The reason that one went so well is that the Packers were putting a lot of great pursuit on our end runs."

Commenting on Donny Anderson's 54-yard run in the second quarter, Nolan said, "That was just a long trap. He stepped over the trap and made a good move out of it. A couple of guys should have picked him up, but they didn't."

The Gold Diggers' head man was pleased with the performance of Jim Thomas, the injured Gene Washington's replacement, who caught a 52-yard pass to set up San Francisco's second touchdown the third quarter.

Speedy Receiver

"He has great speed," Nolan said, "so we had to get him out there at wide receiver where he could use it. Of course, he played there in college. He's been a running back with us, but he caught on fast when we moved him to wide receiver last week."

Nolan also was highly complimentary to his quarterback, John Brodie.

"Brodie is just playing good football," he said. "He's picking and choosing, and that's what you've got to do. He has a good head on his shoulders... plus a lot of ability."

Brodie, who had been tendered a standing ovation by the fickle 49er fans (they have booed him roundly on other occasions), sat contentedly in front of his locker, holding court for newsmen.

"I didn't notice the people were standing up," he said, "but it was nice."

Brodie, in turn, paid tribute to understudy Steve Spurrier.

Spurrier's Suggestion

"Spurrier suggested the play on which we threw to Bob Windsor for our first touchdown," the 14-year veteran reported. "In fact, he designed it. It's a play where Windsor pinched won and sneaked on through."

"Steve also made a helluva throw on that fake punt formation play to Bill Tucker," he added.

Brodie said his call of Ted Kwalick's highly successful end around in the fourth quarter had been a matter of instinct. "You play by feel," he said. "I just felt an end-around was a good play at that time... We talked about it on the sidelines before I called it."

Frank Nunley, the 49ers' defensive hero, also was in the dressing room, limelight.

The blond, fourth-year middle linebacker said, "On my first interception, we were in a zone defense. We got a good pass rush from the defensive line, which made it for me."

Makes Shift

"On the second one, I drifted from the strong side to the weak side and just happened to be in the right place... Don Horn couldn't see me sitting in there."

Discussing the 49ers' defensive approach, he explained, "We were giving Horn a zone look because an inexperienced quarterback seems to have more trouble with a zone. 'In a man-to-man you can isolate one receiver, but in a zone you can't.'"

In an answer to a San Francisco writer's query, Nunley said, "Most definitely, I was happy to see Horn playing rather than Bart Starr... Bart Starr is a great, great quarterback. 'Horn is going to be a great quarterback, too. He's a quarterback right now, but he obviously doesn't have the great experience Starr has.'"

Cards Romp Over Houston

St. Louis Records
1st Shutout in 9
NFL Seasons, 44-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jim Hart battled back with 15 pass completions and Cid Edwards and MacArthur Lane slammed for 132 yards rushing in leading the St. Louis Cardinals to a 44-0 National Football League triumph Sunday over the out-manned Houston Oilers.

Hart, who had completed but 40.7 per cent of 187 passes entering the game, made connections on 15 of 25, one a 46-yard touchdown heave, in igniting the Cardinal rout.

While his passes pierced the Oilers for 223 yards, Edwards bammed 72 yards on 11 rushing attempts and Lane, the NFL's second leading rusher, totaled 60 on 15 carries.

John Gilliam received Hart's scoring pass as the Cardinals opened a 20-0 lead in the first half and converted the contest into a runaway in the final quarter.

Stepped In

Alternate quarterback Pete Beathard stepped in for Hart in the fourth period and pitched a 58-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Dave Williams.

Two minutes later rookie Don Parish intercepted a Jerry Rhyme pass deflected by tackle Bob Rowe and raced 41 yards to the final Cardinal score.

A tough Cardinal defense headed by Rowe and linebacker Jamie Rivers kept heavy pressure on Rhyme and Bob Naponic, who were spilled six times attempting to pass.

An early interception by veteran safety Larry Wilson set up the first of three Jim Bakken field goals for the afternoon, and Lane and John Roland plunged two yards each for other Cardinal touchdowns.

The shutout was the first recorded by the Cardinals in nine NFL seasons.

Cleveland Loses, 27-10 Chargers Capitalize On Browns' Mistakes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — San Diego capitalized on two Cleveland mistakes for two touchdowns in the second period Sunday, one a 25-yard fumble return by Chuck Detwiler, and went on to beat the Browns 27-10 in an American Conference football game.

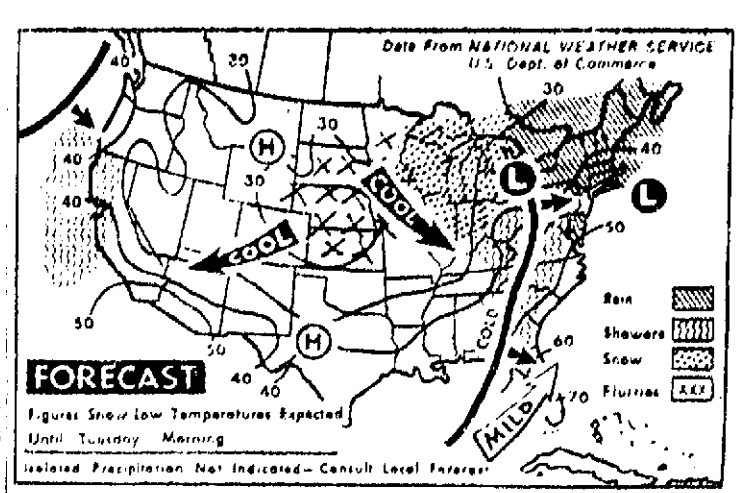

The scores came within four minutes of each other and gave the Chargers a 14-10 lead in a first half dominated statistically by the Browns.

The Chargers scored on a short Browns punt and stopped a drive with a pass interception as they held Cleveland scoreless in the second half.

The Browns were ahead 3-0 and driving for an apparent score in the second quarter when Pete Barnes forced Bob Scott to fumble on the Chargers' four and San Diego's Jeff Stagg recovered the ball in the game without a first down overland, refused to fold. Quarterback John Hadl then struck for a 19-yard field goal led the Chargers to touchdown in six plays, covering the final again on a 13-yard pass from Snead to tight end Gary Ball-man with 50 seconds to play. A San Diego punt later in the

The Pacific Coast and the Southeast are expected to have showers tonight. Snow is expected in the Great Lakes area and snow flurries are predicted in the Midwest. Rain is expected in the Northeast. Kahler Reports

Revenues Drop, Earnings Gains

The Kahler Corp., Rochester, Minn.-based parent firm of Kahler's Inn Towne, Appleton, has reported a decrease in revenues for the nine month period but an increase in earnings after taxes.

For the nine months ending Sept. 30, 1970, total revenues were $11,638,751 compared with $12,489,215 a year ago while earnings were $687,388 and $587,276 last year. This represents a per share earning of $1.18 last year and a $1.42 this year.

In addition, a 45 cents per share capital gain after taxes was realized on sale of Minneapolis and Owatonna, Minn., properties. It was reported.

Roy Watson, president and general manager, said the reasons for the 20 per cent increase in earnings include the fact that sales in almost all areas have shown general improvement; real estate accruals have been larger than necessary, and gross sales have declined in impact.

Post Corp. Ann Third Quarter E

Post Corporation last week reported third quarter earnings 14 per cent ahead of the same quarter a year ago, or about the same improvement that was shown in the second quarter. Nine month earnings were 6 per cent ahead of last year, or 69 cents a share, compared with 65 cents a year ago.

Third quarter earnings were $137,366, or 18 cents a share, compared with $120,331, or 16 cents, last year. Nine month earnings were $516,439 compared with $483,342.

Revenues for the third quarter were $3,040,194 compared with $2,656,067 for the same period last year. Revenues for the nine months were $8,905,200 compared with $7,890,733 last year.

Post board of directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 4 cents a share, payable Nov. 20, to shareholders of record at the close of business on Nov. 9, 1970.

V. I. Minahan president, said an improvement in the company's third quarter sales continued at about the same pace as the second quarter. Early reports on fourth quarter business indicate the improvement should continue, perhaps at a slightly stronger pace, he added.

A small percentage change, up or down, in fourth quarter earnings could have a substantial effect on results for the year, Minahan said. The fourth quarter more than the company year. "I said, is volume broadening during the quarter? Expenditures increased for new buildings and subsidiaries. Post newspaper, insurance, financial states.

To every cigarette smoker who enjoys good taste but who's concerned about 'tar'

Until now a full flavor cigarette was a high 'tar' cigarette.

Until now any cigarette that held back on 'tar' copped out on taste.

But now there is Vantage, an all-new filter cigarette that's not just a lot of hot air.

If you like the authentic tobacco taste of a full flavor cigarette then you owe it to yourself to smoke Vantage.

Only Vantage has the ingenious Vantage filter geometrically shaped to increase filtration.

It lets you give up those high 'tar' cigarettes without asking you to cop out on flavor.

The cigarette that doesn't cop out on flavor.

NOTICE . . .

Designations as to sex in our Help Wanted columns are made only (1) to indicate bona fide occupational qualifications for employment which an employer regards as reasonably necessary to the normal operation of his business or enterprise, or (2) as a convenience to our readers to let them know which positions the advertiser believes would be of more interest to one sex than the other because of the nature of the work involved. Such designations shall not be taken to indicate that any advertiser intends or practically enforces any unlawful preference, limitation, specification or discrimination in employment practices.

Shifting Income to 1971 May Help Save on Your '70 Return

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

The legislative monstrosity which goes by the name of "The Tax Reform Law of 1969" has been on our statute books throughout 1970 — which means that now is when you must do your vitally important year-end tax planning.

You have only 59 days left in which to take all the tax steps which can — and will — slash your taxes both for 1970 and 1971. After Dec. 31, it will be two late; then you can only fill out your '70 return as wisely as possible.

The "tax reform" law which President Nixon signed last Dec. 27 is an incredibly complicated, unbelievable muddled, enormous measure which contains vast changes. Some of the provisions apply in 1970, some in 1971; some touch the tax rates, some the contribution rules, some capital gains and losses, etc., etc. As a result, strategic timing of your income and deductions has never been more essential than now.

In this 10-part series, starting today, I will give you tax hints which I guarantee will help you save on your taxes. Clip, save and use them! They are worth money to you.

Cut Due in 1971

To begin with, all of us will get at least a small tax cut in 1971 and millions of you will get some spectacularly large tax reductions. Thus, it will be sound strategy for millions of you to try to shift income from this year to next to cash in on '71's lower rates.

Following is a short summary of the changes which will create tax savings in 1971. Check all those which apply to you so you can decide whether you should shift income from 1970 to 1971 in the next 59 days.

—The 2½ per cent surcharge is on top of all 1970 taxes but it will not apply in 1971. If your 1970 tax is $200, for example, you must add a $5 surcharge for a total tax of $205. If your 1971 tax is also $200, you won't have to pay the extra $5.

—If you are single or head of a household, your tax rates will go down sharply in 1971 and beyond. See the figures below.

—The standard deduction will rise from 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income and a $1,000 ceiling this year to 13 per cent of your adjusted gross income and a $1,500 ceiling in 1971. Even if your income is listed below:

First Taxable Income Bracket above...	Single taxpayers		Heads of Households
	1970	1971-on	1970	1971-on
	Percent	Percent	Percent	Percent
$4,000	22	21	20	19

Cancer in Children To Be Major Topic at Nurses' Conference

MADISON — "Cancer in Children — A Family Crisis" is the central theme for the 1970 Regional Cancer Conferences for Nurses co-sponsored by the American Cancer Society, Wisconsin Division; the University of Wisconsin, University Extension, Department of Nursing; and the Wisconsin Regional Medical Programs, Inc.

The Conferences this year will be held Nov. 10 at the Barron County Campus of Stout State University, Rice Lake, and on Nov. 12 at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside, Kenosha.

"A Talk With Linda," a televised interview with a youthful cancer patient, will provide the impetus for the Conference discussions.

Agnew of No Interest To Beatle Harrison

NEW YORK (AP) — George Harrison of the Beatles says Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's criticism of rock music lyrics, including some used by the British group, is of no interest to him.

"I don't know the man. I don't care what he thinks," Harrison told newsmen at Kennedy Airport Wednesday.

Harrison, accompanied by his wife, Patti, flew from London on a business trip.

State Highways Claim Nine Weekend Victims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A student pilot who survived a plane crash a few weeks ago died Sunday in an auto accident, raising Wisconsin's 1970 highway fatality toll to 956 today compared with 968 on the same date last year.

Weekend accidents claimed nine lives.

Phillip Lee Davis, 19, of Union Grove died Sunday when his car crashed at a Highway 45 curve west of Kenosha.

Davis had been discharged recently from a Racine hospital after recovering from injuries received when his airplane crashed on his family's farm.

A Waukesha woman, Joanne M. Kutschenreuter, 23, was fatally injured Sunday when the car in which she was riding struck a tree beside a road near Pewaukee.

A rural Union Grove woman, Linda J. Beguhl, 24, died Sunday in a two-car collision near Racine.

Myrtle Slaney, 67, of Veran died Sunday of injuries. Mrs. Slaney was injured Saturday in a three-car crash at a Richland County intersection.

Mrs. David Rathkamp, 21, of St. Francis died Saturday when her car struck an expressway post in Milwaukee.

Gregory N. Bendlin, 23, of Brookfield died Saturday when his car struck a sign post beside a Milwaukee County expressway.

Friday night accidents claimed lives of Charles Dye, 16, Middleton; Vilas Piper, 66, Wisconsin Rapids; John Piechl, 17, Sheboygan.

Miss Carol Sullivan, 21, a Platteville State student from Dubuque, Iowa, died Sunday of injuries received Friday morning when her car collided with another car in Green County. The other driver, Francis Keyes, 39, of Shullsburg, was killed in the accident.

A MESSAGE FROM JOHN BYRNES

I believe in America and its future because I have faith in a society based on strong, self-reliant families - the great majority of American men and women who work hard every day in our factories, farms, offices and homes, striving to build a better nation for their children. These people are the heart of America and they are the ones who suffer - from high prices, high taxes, disrupted schools and unsafe streets - when more attention is paid to problem-makers than to problem-solvers.

Congress must respond to the decent aspirations of these quiet Americans rather than to the outlandish demands of the noisy radicals. Without the strength of our productive citizens, we will be unable to meet the needs of the nation's unfortunate. We can solve our national problems only by keeping our families strong and providing an environment in which they can thrive and prosper - by making this country safe, by keeping its economy sound and by reforming our government so as to make it truly effective. This has been, and will continue to be, my objective in Congress.

French Demand Probe Of Fire Fatal to 143

ST. LAURENT DU POINT, France (AP) — French authorities from cabinet rank down pressed an investigation today to determine why 143 persons died in a weekend dance hall fire in this mountain town 24 miles northwest of Grenoble.

Firemen pulled 142 corpses from the ruins. Ten other persons were injured, and one of them died today.

From accounts of the 20-odd survivors of the Halloween night fire, it appeared that the young dancers panicked and piled up against the exit doors. There were some reports that the four exits from the one-story, steel-frame building were locked and even boarded up, but others contradicted this.

Young People

A throng of young people, mostly 18 to 25, had flocked to the Cinq-Sept Dance Hall from several villages in the region.

The hall was hung with plastic decorations, giving it the appearance of a cave. A five-piece orchestra, called the Storm, promised to create a "hurricane on the stage."

About 1:45 a.m., according to Joelle Dondey, the 21-year-old cashier, "some smoke started coming from the ceiling, then flames burst out." She was dragged out of the hall with her hair burning.

"The place went up like a matchbox," said one of 30 village firemen who were soon on the scene.

When the firemen broke into the building they found burned and twisted bodies piled up five or six feet high near the exits. "It was a horrible sight," said fireman Georges Rostan. "Bodies were stuck to the doors and it seemed they were still pushing to get out. There were bodies everywhere, unrecognizable, broken up."

Cause of Fire

Officials, including Secretary of State Jacques Baumel, heard reports that the blaze was caused either by a short circuit or by a cigarette butt tossed playfully onto someone's coat.

One survivor, Dominique Guette, 17, said the exit doors had been padlocked and planks nailed over them to keep out gaterashers. Fireman Rostan said the doors were locked from the inside and the firemen had to break the locks to reach the victims.

However, Raymond Chaniel, 25, who had once helped manage the dance hall, said the metal-covered doors were not locked but were so swollen by the heat they would not open. Daniel Bellemir, 21, a cook from the hall's restaurant, said the doors "were simply locked from the inside with a knob and could have been opened easily without a key." He said a bartender and five customers escaped through one of the doors.

Turnstiles

Two turnstile entrances to the hall swung inward as customers presented their tickets, but a catch prevented them from turning outward.

The hall was furnished with leather-covered benches, drapes and plastic decorations which burned like straw. Gilles Plantier, a fire inspector, told newsmen that regulations require all such establishments to be decorated with fireproof material.

Mayor Pierre Perrin said a construction license had been granted in February for the building just outside his town, but that he had not been personally advised that it would be a dance hall, and that he had not given authorization for such an establishment. The dance hall opened in April.

The name of the establishment, Five-Seven, came from a local bar which burned down after a cooking fire last February. It was run by the same men who managed the dance hall. There were no victims that time, but two of the partners perished in the dance hall.

The dead were placed in coffins in a public hall and a special identity service was set up. By late Sunday night, relatives had identified 76 of the victims, sometimes only by a bent bracelet, a necklace, or a partly burned shoe.

Most of the dead were French, but bodies of one Dane, one Algerian and two Portuguese were found. Some of the victims had Italian names.

It was the 28th fire in which 100 or more persons have died in the 99 years since the Chicago fire on Oct. 8, 1871. The toll in Chicago was 250 lives; the next day 180 miles to the north, 1,182 persons died in a forest fire around Peshtigo, Wis. It was the worst of the 28 fires.

French Families whose children have been missing since fire swept a dance hall at Saint Laurent du Pont Saturday night inspect coffins at a morgue set up in the St. Laurent gymnasium in Gre-noble. Affixed to each coffin is a sheet of paper describing the body within and personal effects found nearby by those conducting recovery operations. (AP Wirephoto)

Rugged Campaigning Ending Across Nation

Congressional, State Offices at Stake

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the century's hardest fought mid-term election campaigns

rumbles to a close today as President Nixon and candidates from coast-to-coast fill the final hours with multimedia appeals for support.

At stake in Tuesday's election — termed by Nixon "probably the most important and decisive" in the nation's history — are 35 Senate seats, 35 govern-norships and a new House of Representatives.

Many races were cliff-hangers, but it appeared virtually certain Democrats would retain control of Congress and pick up several governorships.

Nixon, who had joined Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in a concentrated 35-state campaign blitz, goes on nationwide television tonight to sound an election eve appeal for more Republicans in Congress.

Law and Order

In the prime time replay of weekend campaign speeches, Nixon will hit again at the GOP's law-and-order theme, calling on "the great silent majority" to speak out in the polling booth "against the appeasement of the rock throwers and the obscenity shouters in America."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, will follow Nixon on national television tonight to respond to what he called "the Republican tactics of fear and division that threaten to tear this country apart."

A spokesman for Muskie's Washington office said the three major networks have been asked to donate at least 15 minutes for the Muskie rebuttal speech but that money is being raised to pay for the time if the request fails.

Muskie has been mentioned as a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972. Most Democratic candidates have pitched their campaigns on the pocketbook issues of inflation and unemployment, and Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the election is "in a sense a referendum on the administration, its policy and its records—the President and the vice president."

Edge in Senate

As the rough-and-tumble campaign neared an end, politicians debated whether Republicans would succeed in slicing into the Democrats' 57-43 edge in the Senate and 243-187 margin in the House, and whether Democrats would cut down the GOP's 32-18 lead in governorships.

O'Brien said Democrats "will maintain our position in the House, will continue to have a majority in the Senate and will have a significant gain in governorships."

Republican Chairman Rogers

C. B. Morton countered: "We will have a victory... if we hold our own or do well in the Senate, and break the tradition of losing in off-year elections in the House...."

"If we break even, it would be pretty good," said Nixon's communications chief, Herb Klein, in a comment indicative of the steady lowering of election sights that have emanated from the White House in recent weeks.

Hope for Gain

Last Thursday, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the administration hoped for a net gain or one or two votes on crucial Senate issues.

The weekend brought other developments:

—Nixon issued a directive offering the assistance of the Justice Department to cities and states in cases involving assaults on police officers. "The availability of federal assistance will have a deterring effect" on such lawsuits, the chief executive said.

—After meeting with Nixon at the Western White House, Agnew accused Democrats of using "deplorable fear or scare tactics" to give the impression the nation is suffering from a "depression, recession or something worse."

Football Time

—Football fans got a dose of politics as Nixon and O'Brien split network television air time between halves of the Washington-Denver pro football game, Nixon appealed for the election of a Congress which will work with him, while the Democratic chairman rejected charges his party's candidates are soft on crime and violence.

—The executive director of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee said charges of dirty campaigning in Senate contests more than doubled this year. "It could reflect the importance the White House has attached to the Senate races," said Samuel J. Archibald, "and perhaps the greater interest in Senate races."

—Archibald also said two Republican senatorial candidates, Nelson Gross of New Jersey and Anderson Carter of New Mexico, have repudiated a series of newspaper advertisements linking their opponents and six other

Illicit Operation in Thailand

GI's Sell Drugs on Black Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army investigators have confirmed that GI's diverted drugs and PX goods into Thailand's black market as well as doctoring pay records and promotions, a House committee says.

According to the House military operations subcommittee, the investigators found the illegal activities occurred in Bangkok and at two U. S. bases in Thailand.

The inquiry was prompted by two Army enlisted men who told the Associated Press and the subcommittee they had been involved in thefts and illicit pay record changes before leaving Thailand a year ago.

"You could sell anything you wanted to," said one soldier. He stated he made about $500 a day over a three month period by diverting medical supplies into the Thai black market.

Records Falsified

He said shipments of drugs and other medical items intended for service hospitals were diverted to the black market by falsifying shipping records.

The second soldier said clerks in a finance detachment had devised a scheme under which they paid soldiers advances on their paychecks without noting the transactions in the official records. The men receiving the advances then split part of their advance pay with the clerks, the soldier said.

Although the Army investigators confirmed such happenings, the committee said, the people, amount of money have not been determined.

Offending Parties

"The rumor-type information purveyed by enlisted men and other informants," the panel said, "make it extremely difficult to determine the quantities of illegal diversions and to identify offending parties."

The subcommittee quoted the Army as saying the partial pay operation involved a "small ring" of enlisted men at a finance detachment at the Korat Air Base.

The subcommittee also reported Army investigators said truckloads of Post Exchange merchandise were diverted into the black market, usually by Thai drivers sometimes but not always with the cooperation of GIs.

Extension Of Cease-Fire Being Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Efforts were under way today to arrange a compromise resolution to extend the Middle East cease-fire past Thursday and pressure Israel, Egypt and Jordan to return to peace negotiations at U.N. headquarters.

The United States on the one hand and 20 supporters of Egypt on the other were reported consulting other delegations, discussing ways to change the opposing resolutions they submitted last week.

Twenty-three Latin American delegations also scheduled a meeting today to discuss whether to submit a third resolution that might prove acceptable to the two sides.

Diplomatic sources predicted that the 127-nation General Assembly would vote Tuesday or Wednesday at the end of the debate it started a week ago at the request of Egypt.

Both pending resolutions call for implementation of the Security Council's resolution of Nov. 22, 1967. It provides for a political settlement in the Middle East—including Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory and Arab acknowledgment of Israel as a sovereign nation. But the resolutions disagree on how to get the indirect peace talks going again with Gunnar V. Jarring, the special U.N. representative, as go-between.

The resolution sponsored by Egypt's supporters urges Israel and the two Arab states to "resume contact" with Jarring quickly. It thus supports Egypt's demand for unconditional resumption of the talks that were suspended two months ago.

In one case, a PX truck with $18,000 worth of merchandise disappeared on a trip from Bangkok to Udorn, the subcommittee said. A Thai policeman accompanying the truck went for help when it broke down.

When he returned the truck was gone.

"The driver abandoned his job, family and home for the proceeds gained from this larceny," the subcommittee said.

The Army also reported some promotions were falsified in Thailand so the soldier involved could collect "money owed" at the higher pay grade when he returned to the United States, the subcommittee said.

The Army keeps central promotion records, the subcommittee said, but promotions to corporal and buck sergeant can be arranged within a battalion where false promotion orders can be mimeographed.

The subcommittee inquiry into the Thailand thefts at Bangkok, Korat and port installations at Sattahip is part of its investigation of military supply depot procedures against theft and pilferage in the United States as well as abroad.

The panel said the Army reports it has tightened its control over medical and Post Exchange shipments in Thailand, but said it is concerned about the payroll laxities "which permitted or invited" the partial pay scheme.

Hijacker Orders Jet to Havana

MIAMI (AP)—A gunman wearing the brown beret of the militant Mexican-American Chicano movement received a backslapping welcome to Communist Cuba today after forcing a United Airlines jet from California to Havana, passengers said.

Crewmen aboard United Airlines Flight 598 bound for Portland, Ore., said the leather-jacketed, mustachioed man placed a gun at the side of stewardess Nicki Leutar shortly after takeoff from San Diego.

Using the 21-year-old stewardess as a hostage, the gunman forced his way into the cabin and shouted to Capt. Joe Kolons: "Cuba! Cuba!"

Kolons diverted the aircraft and flew to Tijuana, Mexico, where more fuel was taken aboard the Boeing 727, and then set course for Havana's Jose Marti Airport. Seventy-five persons were aboard the jet, the second U.S. airliner hijacked to Cuba during the weekend.

New Police in Vietnam

Servicemen Given Time for U.S. Visit

SAIGON (AP) — American servicemen in Vietnam will be given two weeks' leave to go to the United States during their one-year tour of duty in this country, it was learned today.

The new policy goes into effect Nov. 16 and will enable an undetermined number of men to spend Thanksgiving or Christmas at home.

The new two-week leave is in addition to the one week rest-and-recreation leaves that servicemen get to visit designated leave cities in Asia, Australia or Hawaii.

The U.S. Command will impose two limitations on the two-week leaves to the continental United States:

1. The man must have been in Vietnam at least four months and not longer than eight months to be eligible.

Rural Development Council Organized

Laymen Tackle Planning Problems

Laymen were tossed the job of combating helter-skelter planning Friday with the start of an Outagamie Rural-Urban Development Council.

A nucleus of eight members was appointed to organize the unit which will include citizens, technical advisers, and government representatives.

The members of the steering committee are, Joe Kasperek, route 1, Black Creek, chairman; Stephen Jonland, Appleton; Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce; Leonard Warner, Appleton, Fox Valley Technical Institute; Alice L. Schultz, Appleton, Outagamie County home economist; Russell Luckow, Appleton, Outagamie County agricultural agent; Vernon Geiger, Appleton, Outagamie County soil conservationist; George Berger, Appleton, Farmers Home Administration administrator; and Joe Rickert, Appleton, office manager of the Outagamie County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

County Problems

Knotty county problems such as urban development, highway planning, zoning and park and resource guidance may be tackled by the organization.

"Life in the Country," a Nixon Administration task force report, has spurred the start of similar councils throughout the state. A committee started Thursday in Oshkosh to organize the Winnebago County Rural-Urban Development Council. V. W. Peroutky, county agricultural agent, is guiding its development.

Technical representatives were invited to aid in formation of the Outagamie unit by Russell Luckow, Outagamie County agricultural agent, acting for the University of Wisconsin extension service.

"We see great support developing for this type of thing from planning groups," said R. J. Schuster, community resource and development leader of the University of Wisconsin extension service.

New Zoning

"This is not a program that is handed down from above," he emphasized. Council size and make-up can vary. Councils often have aided adjoining counties to solve common problems.

"I can see, in this county, a tremendous need for new zoning," said Vernon Geiger, Outagamie County soil conservationist.

He said ill-planned urbanization could cause severe problems. "We need some tremendous help out there."

Highways become clogged because of poor planning, according to Clarence Brownson, Out-

Politicking Ends—Now It's Up to Voters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The politicians have had their collective say. It will now be the voters' duty Tuesday to determine Wisconsin's political image for the next decade.

Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Olson and Democratic nominee Patrick J. Lucey meet at the polls to determine which party will be represented in the governor's office for the next four years—the first time that a governor will serve a four-year term instead of two years.

Also Tuesday, voters will decide whether Democrats or Republicans are in charge of the 1971 legislature, which will have the important job of realigning Wisconsin's congressional districts for the 1970s in accord with population shifts under the 1970 census.

And for the first time in two decades, a minor party is playing major-league politics on a Wisconsin ballot. The American party has presented an unusually large slate of candidates.

Take Olson Votes

The American party "is not going to make any inroads on the two major political parties," Republican State Sen. Ernest Keppler said, but "it could take votes from Olson."

Democratic State Sen. Fred Rissler said he doubts the third party will have an "appreciable effect" on the Democratic vote, although the American party's candidate for governor is a former Democratic county chairman.

An officer of the American party's statutory committee said his organization needs 15,000 votes in Tuesday's gubernatorial balloting "to qualify as a regular, full-fledged political organization."

Leo Fahey, state election supervisor, predicted 1.3 million Wisconsin voters may go to the polls. That is 400,000 less than the turnout for the 1968 presidential election. But it is 130,000 more than the turnout for the 1966 off-year election, and political observers figure the Olson-Lucey contest may provide extra interest for attracting voters.

Republicans Confident

Other statewide constitutional offices are held by Republicans, and the incumbents are confident of victory. David Carley, one of Lucey's most influential supporters, said last week Lucey would need a victory margin of nearly 50,000 votes to assure Democratic candidates of a safe coast-land ride into Capitol offices.

Olson, who lost to Lucey in 1964 in a lieutenant governor contest, began his campaign to succeed Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles by declaring campus peace cannot be achieved "without law and without order."

The Wisconsin campaign spotlight shifted rapidly to economic issues, with Democrats criticizing the 1969 Republican-controlled legislature for having increased sales tax rates.

Olson offered what he called a "zero budgeting" plan for critical review of agency budget requests in hope of avoiding tax increases next year. He accused Lucey of proposing programs that would require $500 million in new taxes in the 1971-73 biennium.

Only Existing Programs

Lucey replied he had been discussing only those programs which the legislature had enacted already. And indeed, Wisconsin government agencies have already announced intentions of asking about $500 million more for existing programs.

The two gubernatorial candidates also quarreled over who is best fit to handle campus unrest and environmental pollution. Knowles, not seeking a fourth term, got on the campaign train in anger, accusing Lucey of being insulting about the men Knowles had named to commissions to handle pollution abatement.

Knowles has called the 1970 campaign one of the dirtiest he has ever known.

"If Gov. Knowles feels he has been maligned or libeled," Lucey suggested at a Green Bay news conference during the weekend, "he could resort to the courts."

Implied Consent Law State Seeks Stiffer Drunkenness Test

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Drug Abuse Control Commission voted Friday to recommend that the state implied consent law be strengthened in the 1971 legislature.

The group recommended that the blood alcohol level which may be used as prima facie evidence of drunkenness be reduced from the present .15 to .10 to conform to national standards.

That level was recommended in previous legislative proposals but was lost in a compromise in order to get an implied consent law in effect.

Atty. Gen. Robert Warren told the commission that there is some evidence drug raids, such as those in which 50 persons have been arrested in nine counties during the past two weeks, do not have the desired effect.

Warren pointed out to the commission that one person arrested in Oshkosh was free on bail pending a trial on charges of selling a dangerous drug last July.

"They don't seem to stay out of business," Warren suggested. He said that about $1,000 worth of marijuana was confiscated Friday during a second arrest of the man.

Warren rejected an implication that bond should be denied if it did not serve a deterrent effect against repeated offenses. He said he would like time to think about denying bond to such defendants for the second arrest. He said he may make a recommendation later.

Denying bond to second offenders would be similar to the provision for preventive detention approved for implementation in Washington.

Fight Set for Three Posts

CHILTON — Competition will center on three county offices in Tuesday's election race.

Incumbent State Rep. Ger-vase Hepner will be opposed by Republican James Strubbing of Brillion. Hepner seeks his third term.

In the county treasurer race, Lorna Schoen, a Republican who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Merlin Zahn seeks her first full term. She will be opposed by Democrat Mrs. Lorraine E. Ammerman.

Bidding for the sheriff spot are Republican Theodore (Ted) Pagel, a New Holstein businessman and former city police chief, who will be opposed by Chilton policeman Garnett (Pete) Petersen, a Democrat.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Appleton Pastor Will Talk at Youth Renewal

LEBANON — The Rev. Michael Hoffman, pastor of St. Therese Church, Appleton, will be the guest speaker at a Youth Renewal Day discussion at St. Patrick Church.

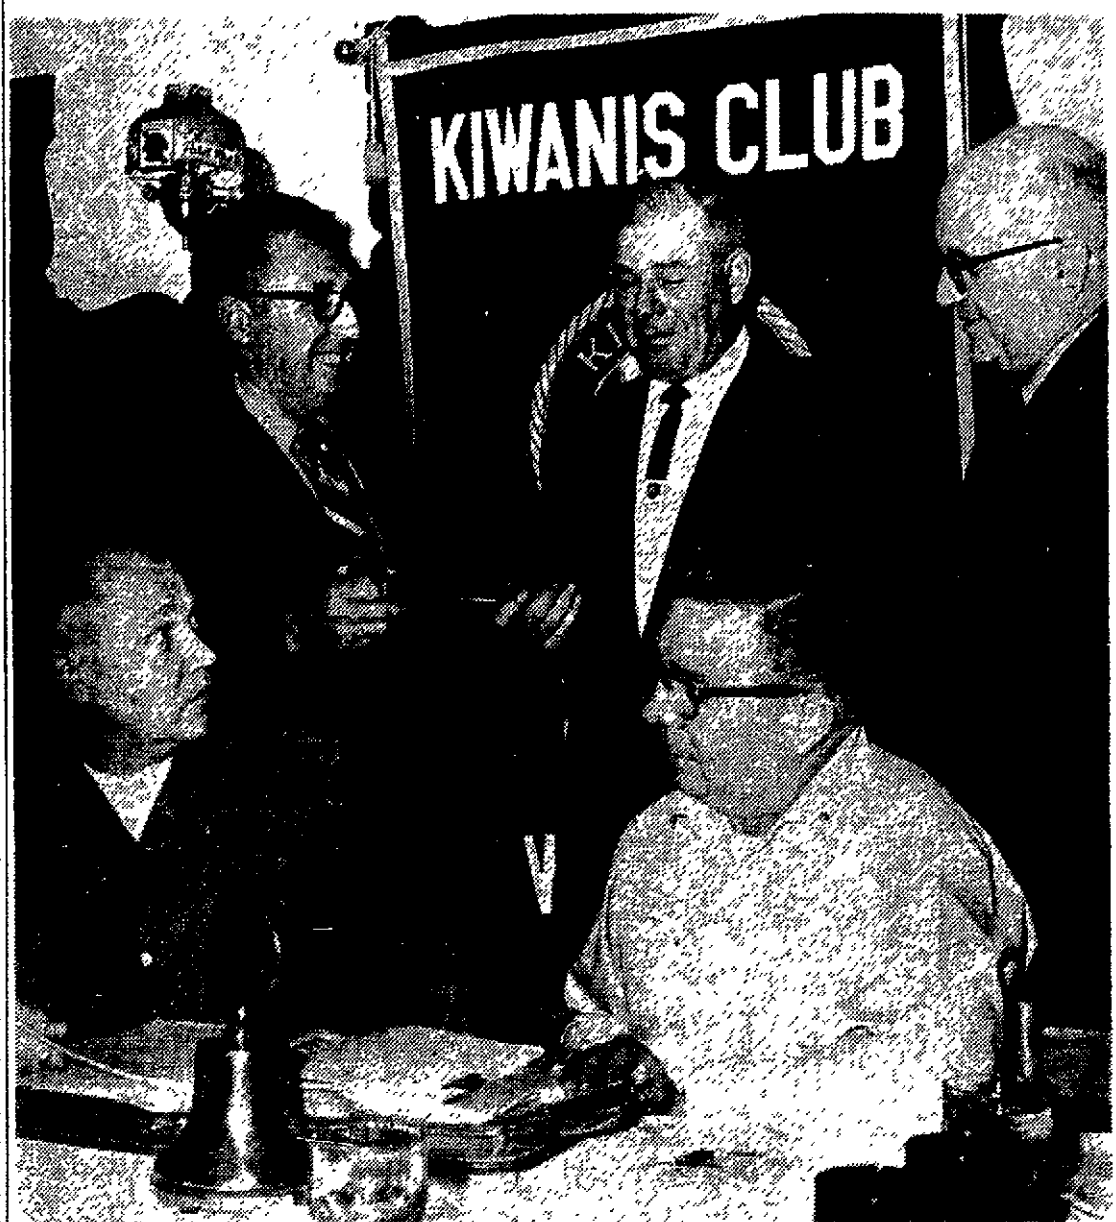

The meeting, for high school sophomores, juniors and seniors, will be from 12:30 to 5 p.m., Friday.

Wednesday Meeting Set In Waupaca

WAUPACA — The City Council, scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Mayor Edward Kramer announced Sunday that he would comply with a city ordinance which does not permit the City Council to meet on an election day.

The major matter to be discussed by the council is letting contracts for the construction of the pump-house, the electrical controls and the pump for well No. 5. Bids submitted on Oct. 23 were considerably higher than the original estimates because of larger equipment and higher voltage is necessary to handle the increased volume of water the new well will provide.

Willard Franz, outgoing president of the Hilbert Kiwanis Club, turns the gavel over to the new president, Stanley Mask, center, as Lt. Gov. Andrew Pendl, Chilton, the installing officer looks on. Seated are, from the left, H. D. McWilliams, treasurer, and Lyle Hein, vice president. Franz will serve as secretary this term.

Eastern Division Improvements

General Telephone to Spend $8 Million

KIEL — General Telephone Co. of Wisconsin, which services much of rural northeastern Wisconsin, is planning an $8 million construction program in its Eastern Division exchanges during 1971, it was announced last week.

Included in this area $429,500 in Calumet County communities and $219,700 in Outagamie County communities. Herbert W. Frahm, president, said the division program is part of a $38.9 million one planned by the utility in Wisconsin next year.

The improvements planned are Brillion, $32,000 for additional central office facilities; Chilton, $125,700, expanded outside plant facilities; Kiel, $216,200, central office equipment and outside plant facilities; Hilbert, $34,700, outside plant facilities; New Holstein, $20,900, outside plant facilities; Nichols, $4,000, central office building expansion; Seymour, $39,000, local and long distance central office facilities, and Shiocton, local and long distance facilities.

General Telephone is the second largest telephone company in the state, serving more than 300,000 telephones in 195 exchanges. The company provides a full range of communications services to customers within its 17,000 square mile operating territory.

"Our current plans call for the expenditure of nearly $165 million during 1971-74," Frahm said. "These dollars will be spent over the next four years to provide expanded communications services and improved telephone facilities for our customers throughout the state," he indicated.

The Eastern division's $8 million construction budget for 1971 represents a planned expenditure of more than $125 for each of the 64,000 telephones in the division, according to Conrad R. Engsborg, the company's Eastern division manager. The division, which is headquartered at Plymouth, includes 50 exchanges.

"During 1971," Engsborg indicated, "we're again planning to allocate a major share of our construction dollars to expand and improve our outside plant facilities. More than $3.5 million of outside plant service improvement projects are scheduled next year in the Eastern division," he said.

The division manager pointed out that the company will again be placing particular emphasis on underground cable placement in its outside plant service improvement programs. Buried cable, he explained, helps prevent service interruptions due to wind and storm damage, and, in addition, helps reduce "visual" pollution by eliminating aerial cables, poles and wires.

The company's statewide cable placement programs call for nearly 13 million feet of telephone cable during 1971. Underground cable will account for more than 90 per cent of the total.

"The $3.5 million we've scheduled for these projects represents another step in our program to provide all of our customers with urban grades of telephone service," Engsborg said.

"We're also planning to move ahead rapidly in adding new central office equipment in our Eastern division exchanges next year," the division manager said. "We've scheduled nearly $2.5 million of new central office switching equipment for installation in 1971. These improvements will help us provide advanced equipment for present telephone users and also allow for future expansion and growth," Engsborg pointed out.

"Many of the central office equipment dollars will be allocated to provide highly reliable testing facilities and procedures to insure that all of our customers will receive repair service in the event their telephone system is not working properly." In addition, he indicated, "we're moving ahead with our 'service center' concept throughout the Eastern division. The service center program makes it possible to speed new telephone installation and repair services through specialization of activities."

Additions and replacements of telephone instruments, cables, lines, poles, central office equipment, furniture, tools and vehicles — the majority for growth — are expected to total $2.1 million in the Eastern division in 1971.

"These dollars cover the day-to-day construction activities of our company throughout the division. A major portion is allocated for the new telephones, cable and related equipment we're going to need to keep pace with the growth we're expecting in the Eastern division next year," Engsborg said.

Engsborg said the $8 million construction expenditures are

Groundbreaking Sunday

Construction Starts on Fire Station, Hall in Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — The combination Town and Village of Stockbridge fire station, meeting and community hall, soon will be a reality.

After two referendums and votes at several public meetings and a number of joint town and village board meetings since last April, groundbreaking for the new facilities took place Sunday afternoon at the Legion-Firemen Community Park.

Despite bitter November weather, town and village officials were on hand to watch the first shovel of ground turned by Fire Chief Clifford Mayer. Assisting him were Town of Stockbridge Supervisor, Ronald Price, who substituted for the hospitalized chairman, Clem Ecker, and Village President, George Hostettler. Building committee members Mark Keuler, Donald Ortlieb, Norbert Gilles, Jr. and Arthur Hoerth were also on hand. Mayer served as building committee chairman.

Contracts for the new 111 by 40 foot block building were awarded last week. Parsons Construction will be the general contractor, with a low bid of $34,979. Paul's Electric received the electricity contract for $3,520, and Karl's Plumbing and Heating was awarded the plumbing, heating and ventilation contract at $11,322, for a total construction cost of $49,821.

April Completion

Architects fees for Surplice Associates, Green Bay, amounted to $2,989.

According to contractor estimates, the facilities should be completed by April, 1971.

The Legion-Firemen Community Park, Inc. donated a 235 x 180 foot parcel of land at the park for the new building, which features a four stall garage for fire fighting equipment, a large meeting room which will also serve as a community hall, two offices for town and village governments, a kitchen, restrooms, storage and furnace room.

The new building will replace the outmoded village hall and fire station, which originally was a cheese factory, and the town hall, which originally was the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) hall. No decisions have been made on what will become of the buildings.

The 30-member fire crew from the town and village perform without pay, and the two communities have agreed to maintain the department on an equalized valuation basis.

The $27,500 cost to the Town of Stockbridge will be raised through an increased mill rate, possibly about two mills. The village has set aside $2,000 a year for a building fund for several years.

50 in State 7 Face Charges After Drug Raid

MADISON (AP)—Three Oshkosh men and four persons from Sheboygan have been arrested in a crackdown against illegal drug trafficking, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's office announced today.

The arrests boosted to 50 the number of persons taken into custody in nine counties during the past week on charges of illegal drug activities, the attorney general said.

Warren identified the three persons arrested in Oshkosh as Stephen D. Young, 22, Thomas E. Jones, 20, and Warren A. Mittelstadt, 23.

The four persons arrested in Sheboygan in connection with an alleged drug operation between Sheboygan and Fond du Lac were not identified.

Warren said three persons were still being sought in Sheboygan County and one in Fond du Lac County.

Warren said Young, at the time of his arrest, was free from jail on bail pending trial on a charge of selling a dangerous drug after being arrested July 21 in a major crackdown on a drug ring operating out of Oshkosh.

Truck-Car Crash Puts 6 in Hospital

Six persons injured in a head-on crash Saturday night north of Appleton are in satisfactory condition at Appleton Memorial Hospital, although further tests are being conducted.

Outagamie County police said that an automobile driven by Larry A. Leitzke, 18, of 318 W. Packard St., Appleton, crossed over the center line while heading north on County Trunk A, striking a pickup truck driven by Elmer R. Johnson, 44, Shiocton, head-on as he traveled in the opposite direction. The accident occurred about 9:15 p.m., about two miles north of Appleton.

The most seriously injured were passengers in both vehicles. Johnson's wife, Audrey J., 45, received multiple cuts to her face and head, right leg and shoulder. Robert P. Braun, 15, of 712 N. Harriman St., who was riding in the Leitzke car, sustained a concussion, broken wrist, and multiple bumps and bruises.

Leitzke suffered a broken left leg, and face cuts. His other passenger, Owen Hawkins, 19, of 617 N. Clark St., had a mild concussion, possible rib fracture, and face cuts.

Officials at the hospital said that further tests, such as x-rays and other observation, have been directed. Police said the truck Johnson was driving was demolished. There was $500 damage to the 1963 auto driven by Leitzke.

They were taken to the hospital by two ambulances from Gold Cross.

Parents' Conferences To be Held Next Week

HILBERT — Parent-teacher conferences at Hilbert Public Elementary School have been scheduled from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 13.

Parents have been asked to indicate the time preferred by them and they will be advised of the time they are expected. There will be no classes for children in kindergarten through sixth grade on that day.

Fence May be Answer

Fears About Waupaca Campground Aired

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA — The "neighbors" on the south shore of Partridge Lake, west of Fremont, had a typical neighborhood "over the fence fight" Friday night at a public rezoning hearing. They exchanged their points of view and the fence, which does not exist, may be the solution to the differences.

Thirty-two residents of the area, along with proponents of the Partridge Park, Inc. campgrounds, appeared before the Waupaca County Zoning Committee.

At the end of a three hour exchange, Zoning Committee Chairman Harold Steenbock, Clintonville, stated that he will call a zoning committee meeting this week to decide whether or not the 40 acre site, with a 20 acre campground development, will be rezoned to permit the park.

Allen Bubolz, Appleton, speaking for the Partridge Park corporation, which wishes to have the campground ready for use by next spring's walleye pike and white bass run on the Wolf River, explained the corporation's plans.

Many Comments

"The land where we are planning the campground is owned entirely by Partridge Park, Inc. and we hope to among the residents of Fremont develop new stockholders among the residents of Fremont and the surrounding area," Bubolz began.

"There have been quite a few comments a out our plans and we tried to explain them fully at the Town of Fremont hearing one week ago. We hope that tonight we can fully answer any questions and again state our plans."

"We want a quality facility which will be a credit to the Fremont community," he said. "The Town of Fremont and the Village attracts hundreds of fishermen from the middle-west in May and June. All of them, as well as area residents, are aware that great numbers of them have no place to stay, to park their boat trailers or to launch their boats."

"Partridge Park, Inc. has developed plans for a campground which will absorb more than 100 of them. It will be regulated and controlled by attendants on duty 24 hours each day, and it will offer additional boat launching and servicing," Bubolz said.

"In addition, this will be a year-around campground, a ttracting hunters, ice fishermen, winter campers and snow-mobilers, as well as a recreational resort to accommodate the transient camper," he concluded. "We want to be good neighbors, enhance the beauty of the open farm land, as well as the economics of the village and town."

Hugh Dega, landscape architect for Dega & Siluka Associates, Madison, showed a sketch of the proposed campground and described its contents.

Bilevel Campground

"The plan calls for a bilevel campground, south of Partridge Lake and north of U. S. 10, with approximately 500 feet frontage on the lake and highway," Dega said.

"There will be little or no change in the contour of the land, and the upper area will contain 79 camp units, while the lower level (near the lake) will contain 26 camp units, a boat lagoon, a marina with full services (boat sales and supplies), and a 30-space car-boat trailer parking area.

"The plan calls for five to seven 12 by 50 foot camping unit spaces per acre, quite different from the 25-unit per acre permitted by a number of states," he pointed out. "Each space will handle the camper and the automobile or truck."

"There will be complete control of campers in the park at all times," Dega emphasized. "Campers will enter the park from U. S. 10, report at the camp headquarters (the red brick farm house presently on the site) be assigned a camp site and informed of camp regulations. There will be sani-

Bonduel Girl Gets DAR Award

BONDUEL — Kristine Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mueller, has been selected by the senior class and the faculty of Bonduel High School as the recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizenship Award.

The award is based on qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

Mueller has been a member of the FTA, GAA and Pep Club all four years. She is currently senior class treasurer, a member of student council, editor of the school paper and varsity cheerleader.

They were taken to the hospital by two ambulances from Gold Cross.

Applications Being Accepted for Dance Class at Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — Applications are being accepted for the Chamber of Commerce dance instructions, to be held in two ten-week sessions, Saturday mornings at St. Mary Church Hall.

Children 4 through 17 years old may participate in the tap, ballet and modern jazz dance classes, according to Mrs. John Karls, coordinator. Applications will be accepted until Nov. 10.

Classes are expected to begin Nov. 21. Mrs. Earl Hoppe and her two daughters, who have worked with the Appleton Recreation program, have been engaged as pianist and instructors.

Information and applications forms may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce, or from Mrs. Karls. The classes are open to all area youngsters.

Forty children have enrolled in the baton twirling classes, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. every Monday at the high school. These instructions are also sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Donna Schwantes, New Holstein, is the instructor.

New this year is flag twirling, being studied by four girls in the program.

Waupaca Senior Gets DAR Award

WAUPACA — Elizabeth Wedge, a Waupaca High School senior, has been chosen to receive the DAR Good Citizen's Award.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wedge, route 2, and her sister Marilyn was the recipient in 1969.

Each year the DAR asks the senior class to choose three girls who best fulfill the requirements of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism which the society lists as priorities for good citizens.

After the choice has been made, teachers vote on the candidates.

Runners-up were Kathy Hart and Sue Johnson.

Gap Expands Twice to Include 5 Generations Of Fremont Family

FREMONT — The generation gap broadened to span five generations twice this summer for Mrs. Frank DeWall. Great-grandmother Anna was formerly of Black Creek and now at the age of 86 lives at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thaxter Kinsman, here.

Her two great-grandchildren are Angela Lankford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lankford, Fremont, who CLINTONVILLE — The Senior Citizens Club will have a potluck lunch at 1 p.m. Nov. 11 at the Masonic Temple. Members are to bring their own dishes and silver.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Buchholz are chairmen of the lunch. The entertainment committee members will be Mrs. E. C. F. Stubenvoll and Mrs. Laura Grosskopf.

At the meeting of the club Wednesday afternoon at the Masonic Temple, more than 60 persons, including 13 visitors and four new members were in attendance.

Reports were given on the recent convention at Madison attended by 160 delegates from all parts of Wisconsin. Problems of the aging, especially income, were discussed at this state meeting. The convention went on record as favoring a minimum of $150 per month Social Security, relief on property and school taxes, and a health plan for the elderly.

Judge Talks on Philosophy of Juvenile Court

CHILTON — The Juvenile Court philosophy from the first law in Cook County, Ill., in 1899 was discussed by Calumet County Judge D. H. Sebor when he spoke to the Rotary Club Thursday noon.

Sebor spoke of the turbulent teens. "We look back upon boyhood through rose-tinted glasses of nostalgia, as a happy, carefree time of life, but we are deluding ourselves."

This is a very trying time for the youngster who must withstand many mental and physical changes, with little background experiences to cope with the problems, he said. These include formal education, social group acceptance, sex problems, personal appearances, handling money, and many more. These are pitfalls for the youths with normal family life—how about those with a very adverse family life? he asked.

Sebor said that we need thousands of foster homes and more volunteers to work with fatherless boys. For the high school dropout and others, we need more vocational schools, instead of pouring millions into "higher education."

Chilton's tax for the District 12 vocational school in Appleton this year is $22,680, he noted. A system of bus transportation will have to be worked out if Chilton and other outlying communities are to benefit by the vocational school, Sebor concluded.

Manawa Phone Co. Honors Earl Vaughan

MANAWA — Earl Vaughan, plant superintendent of the Manawa Telephone Co., was honored at a dinner at the Weyauwega Hotel Thursday for 25 years of service to the firm.

Robert Squires, president, presented Vaughan with a watch. The first job that Vaughan performed as an employee of the company was to set three poles in the country — all of them crooked, the guests were told. Hired by Leslie Lamkins, then president and father of Mrs. Squires, Vaughan noted that he "did just as Lamkins told me" — that is to put the poles back the way they were.

During his tenure, the telephone company converted in 1962 from the manual switchboard to automatic dial. This entailed the addition to a new building to house the dial equipment. Today, an expansion program necessary to keep pace with the rapid growth in the use of local and long distance services by General Telephone's customers. During the first six months of 1970, the company recorded a gain of more than 22 per cent in long distance calling over the same period of 1969. Local calling also showed a similar increase during 1970.

More than 5.5 million long distance calls were handled by General Telephone's long distance personnel and facilities during the first half of 1970. Approximately 1.5 million local calls were placed every day during the same period.

Expanded toll-free calling areas are scheduled for the following Eastern division exchanges during 1971: Seymour, Cedar Grove, Waubesa, Gillett, Suring, Allenton, and Slinger.

Toll-free calling between Seymour and Green Bay is scheduled for March, 1971; between Cedar Grove and Sheboygan in July, 1971; between Waubesa and Port Washington and Waubesa and West Bend in August, 1971; between Gillett and Suring in October, 1971; and between Allenton and Slinger in December, 1971.

General Telephone, which operates in three divisions throughout the state, estimates that 22,000 telephones will be added to its lines during 1971.

The company is a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation, a highly diversified communications and electronics enterprise that had combined sales and revenues of $3.3 billion in 1969. The more than 30 domestic and international telephone operating companies of the General System serve more than 10 million telephones.

gubernatorial level, state legislative leaders quietly studied the uncertainty of the state's 1971 legislative picture.

Seventeen of the Senate's 33 seats are up for reelection and 11 are represented by Republicans.

That makes the GOP vulnerable. Rissler said that with a major Lucey victory, "we could gain control of the Senate for the first time since 1892."

Republican Keppeler said "a tight race for governor could determine the outcomes of several Senate races. As the governor's race goes, so probably goes many legislative races."

Robert H. Finch, a White House adviser, is one of several administration members which Nixon sent to Wisconsin to bolster GOP chances.

Finch told a Beloit audience that the Olson-Lucey contest will determine to a large extent whether Republican John Erickson can overcome the re-election bid of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Most incumbents in Wisconsin's House delegation are expected to survive challenge is Democrat Leslie Aspin is making a strong bid to unseat the 1st Congressional District's representative, Republican Henry C. Schadeberg, and that could be the state's closest congressional race.

In the state Assembly, the GOP opened the 1969 session with a 52-48 advantage. But a Republican representative became an independent, and other shifts in the Assembly makeup could produce an unprecedented 50-50 tie Tuesday.

Again, the ballot strength of the Olson-Lucey contest could influence the Assembly image.

And while both Olson and Lucey predict victory, the voters from the sidelines are going along with Olson's earlier observation that the contest is going to be a "cliffhanger."

The cliffhanger victory margins of 1962 and 1964, prior to the Knowles era, were 20,000 votes or less. Polls open at various times

Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. All close by 8 p.m.

Lucey and his running mate, State Sen. Martin J. Schreiber Jr. of Milwaukee, are counting on heavy support from predominantly Democratic Milwaukee to overcome Republican rural strength.

But Milwaukee County voter registration is at a 16-year low. Registration is approximately 454,000.

Olson's running mate for lieutenant governor is State Rep. David Martin of Neenah.

There are four minor party candidates running for governor. There are four candidates beside Erickson and Proxmire running for the U.S. Senate.

shore are going to wash away land, one-half mile wide, along our banks — and it shouldn't be necessary to talk about the with toilets, laundry and water, noise."

On the upper level there will be an open recreation area at the southeast corner and additional parking space for the peak seasons. Here, too, there is a sanitary station to clean out trailer units and waste disposal. The toilets will be sealed vaults, pumped and hauled away. All natural vegetation in the area will be preserved and an extensive tree planting program has already been started."

The Town of Fremont retained Atty. Curtis M. Kirkhuff, Madison, to represent its interests. He asked Dega, "Does the proposed boat lagoon come within the shoreland zoning ordinance? How far from the lakeshore are toilet facilities stand the overload... this has and what, if any percolation been proven in the past... We tests have been made and what do they show?"

Meets Tests

Dega answered that "so far as we have been able to determine we are in compliance with the shoreland zoning ordinance. While the toilets are located as prescribed 75 feet from the lagoon, they are sealed vaults with no danger of pollution. Percolation tests have been made and proved to be above state requirements. The soil scientists have deemed, however, that the soil has some quality limitations and we have taken these into consideration."

"We will adhere to county and state regulations in every respect, I can assure you," Dega stated.

Eleven residents of the area spoke in opposition to the proposed campgrounds. Werner Berger, a cottage owner on the channel said, "Who wants to have a small city of one hundred or more move into their backyard, when they thought they were buying property for retirement, with peace and quiet?"

"I certainly do not object to children and dogs, or people having fun, but I bought my land for peace and quiet and this campground certainly doesn't promise me that. The lagoons to the east of the campground where many of us have cottages and plan to build retirement homes will not handle any kind of boat traffic. Boats moving along the lake Partridge Park, Inc. has not asked the Department of Natural Resources for permission to dredge the lagoon," Bubolz answered. "This permission will be sought and we expect there will be no problems. We do not have plans for the half mile to the west."

"The last thing we want is unhappy neighbors," he said again. "We think this can be a good high quality project, an asset to the community and that it will not be the Pandora's Box depicted by some here tonight."

The project was endorsed by Mel Maierhafer, president of the Fremont Chamber of Commerce, Arthur Sebstadt, route 1, Fremont, a member of the C of C board, and Mrs. John Peters. Kirkhuff asked if more of a buffer zone between the campground and the residential area would remove most of the objections. Most agreed that it would.

The zoning committee may recommend that a fence be erected at the eastern border of the park and that the private road be moved to the extreme eastern edge.

Fears Told

The major concerns, it developed, are the noise, the threat of trespassing, the concern for the private residents. The private road which is owned and maintained by the residents and will be within the campgrounds, and the loss of "open space" enjoyment and privacy for retirement.

Gerald Lebakken, Milwaukee, who has owned a cottage near the proposed campgrounds site for six years, agreed about the "nuisance threats," but expressed concern about the legal effect of dredging the lagoon and traffic along the shore to the lagoon. He also wanted to know what further plans Partridge Park had for enlarging the campgrounds. Bubolz owns a 200-800 foot strip of

Year-Around Shipping on the Lakes

Transportation Secretary John Volpe has announced a far-reaching study on the feasibility of lengthening the navigation season on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway, hopefully to year-around use. As a starter, the study will look for means to extend the 250-day navigation season by at least one month.

Lengthening the shipping season on the Great Lakes and on the St. Lawrence Seaway connection to the oceans has been a frequent proposal, but more often than not one clouded in generalities and one dragged out for the seasons of political campaigning. But Volpe has indicated that his department means business. The study will start at once in order to study conditions in the winter months just ahead.

In addition to its own staff, the Transportation Department will call on the facilities and staff of the Commerce Department, the Army Corps of Engineers, the Coast Guard, and private industry.

The Transportation Department's outline for the study does not place year-around Great Lakes and seaway navigation as remote as it always has seemed. For one thing, the study will draw on Coast Guard experience in escorting the supertanker Manhattan through the Northwest Passage to Alaska next year. The Coast Guard will make ice forecasts and broadcast summaries of ice conditions.

Long-range aircraft equipped with "side looking" radar will analyze ice conditions. Helicopter crews and the Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinac take ice samples and measurements.

The Coast Guard this winter also will test an electronic navigation system known as Loran-C, which could allow ships on the Great Lakes to determine their exact positions in severe weather without the aid of either buoys or lighthouses.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. at the same time will be carrying out a number of tests. These involve the heating of locks and lock gates, the installation of buoys which will pop up through ice after being pushed below the surface, and the anchorage of shore ice to prevent it from breaking loose after channels have been cut through ice offshore.

In addition to these new challenges of old man winter, data from the studies will go into Coast Guard standards for new ship designs with navigation through ice in mind. And the seaway corporation will send Dr. E. W. Marshall, a glaciologist, to visit Russia and eight Baltic countries, where navigation through ice has been going on for the past 16 years.

President Nixon recently signed a bill to forgive past interest on the seaway construction debt, which erased the threat of an increase in seaway tolls, and to grant Great Lakes ship lines and shipyards the same subsidies as go to ocean shipyards and ship lines. The bill sped through Congress once the Transportation Department had changed from a posture of opposition. Volpe's detailed plan for finding ways to extend the shipping season is a further indication of an increasing, if overdue, realization in Washington of the importance of America's fourth seacoast.

The Lame Duck Congress

Sen. Hugh Scott, the Senate Republican leader, has described lame duck sessions such as the one Congress has scheduled to start Nov. 16 because it could not get its work finished before the election as "almost entirely non-productive and what they produce is disastrous."

This is not a very hopeful preface for a session which has much important work that it should do. But unfortunately, Scott's description may prove to be accurate. It will be the first lame duck session of Congress in 19 years. Depending upon the outcome of the election, one party may be gearing up for the new session of Congress in January and the other may have little interest in what once was priority business.

Among the items which were set aside when Congress went home for the election campaign were seven appropriation bills, Social Security revisions, a farm subsidy bill with a provision to establish a ceiling for individual farm operations, the Nixon administration welfare reform, and the constitutional amendment to replace the electoral college with either direct election of the president or a proportional division of electoral votes based on the popular vote in each state. Congress also has before it two bills vetoed by the President, including one to establish spending ceilings for political use of television.

There is some fear that Congress will produce a series of "Christmas tree" bills, so named not for the season but for legislation which will be tacked on major bills. Before the recess, for example, the Senate Finance Committee tacked on a trial of the Nixon welfare reform and a House-passed trade bill to the Social Security bill in maneuvering which could be explained only by the rush to get back home for the campaign.

The Senate can make something of a case for itself in the backlog of work because of its lengthy debate of Vietnam war resolutions and of the two rejected Supreme Court nominations of President Nixon. But the explanation won't go very far. As a timely report by the Committee of Economic Development points out, the people have a right to expect that Congress can figure out ways to better budget its time, set deadlines for action, and reorganize its work procedures.

Given the political overtones and lack of interest which will go into the lame duck session, perhaps the best that can be hoped for is some sort of agreed upon priority list. Certainly, the President's welfare reform should be one of these items. Another should be an electoral college reform to get the constitutional amendment to state legislatures without waiting for the new Congress to go over the same ground.

The Air War in Cambodia

When President Nixon announced his decision to send American ground troops into Cambodia last spring, the outrage and concern in the nation erupted, particularly on college and university campuses. Subsequently the President told a press conference that all American ground troops would be withdrawn by the end of June and that their sole purpose in Cambodia was to hasten the eventual withdrawal of all American military personnel from Indo-China.

The President carried out his pledge that our ground troops would be withdrawn even though we may suspect that the reaction in the United States may have been more instrumental in his decision than the actual military situation in Vietnam and Cambodia.

But what of the air war we continue to wage in Cambodia?

In September investigators for the Senate subcommittee on refugees visited Indochina. They found out that the American air sorties of 45 or 50 a day activated last May and June had doubled to at least 100 a day by September. Officials in Washington have hastened to point out that any air support we give to the Lon Nol government is to protect American military personnel and not to support the current Cambodian regime. The same sort of argument could be used if we bombed Moscow which supplies equipment to North Vietnam or Peking or Albania or Poland or any other Communist state which supplies the North Vietnamese and their allies in Laos and Cambodia.

Last June President Nixon, retract-

ing a statement he had earlier made about our not having any military activities in Cambodia after the end of June, said that we might continue "air missions to interdict the movement of enemy troops and material where I find that it is necessary to protect the lives and security of our men in South Vietnam." But nothing was said about the considerable increase in air support. Obviously the continued bombing raids do not bear out at least the spirit of the announced American withdrawal. There must be some surprise about this in the light of Mr. Nixon's announced intentions of removing American combat troops from Vietnam. What are combat troops?

Last week Cambodia's military commander, Cheng Heng, agreed that a cease-fire in all of Indochina, as proposed by Mr. Nixon, would be a fine thing. But he wanted all foreign troops out of Cambodia before his country agreed to such a standstill. There are a number of South Vietnamese in Cambodia. The Prime Minister did not mention the presence in the air of American bombers.

But it is being rumored at least that there is a deal going on in which the Communist North Vietnamese may exert their influence and control over Communist cadres in Laos and Cambodia—the Pathet Lao and the Khmer Rouge—in exchange for acceptance at least for a time of the current regime in Saigon so as to enable the Americans to withdraw, rinse off their hands and save face.

Interesting.

Kraft Writes

What Is Effect of Nixon's Furious Final Campaigning?

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — The President's furious campaigning reaffirms the old lesson that historical comparisons are wrong but instructive. For where Woodrow Wilson in 1918 and Franklin Roosevelt in 1938 tried to manufacture majorities favorable to causes of supreme importance, Mr. Nixon is trying to manufacture causes favorable to candidates of little consequence.

The danger, accordingly, is not that he will divide the country as his predecessors did. It is that he will, as they did not, lessen the Presidency. In the case of Wilson, he was fighting to build Congressional support for an American commitment to collective security through the League of Nations. He failed and his failure had something to do with the collapse of the peace of Versailles and the onset of World War II.

In the case of Roosevelt, he was fighting to build Congressional support for continuation of the New Deal. He failed too. And the result was a political deadlock that postponed the achievement of economic and social reform until the presidency of Lyndon Johnson.

Tough Laws Passed

But what is the high stake in the campaign of 1970? The Spock issue—permissiveness towards crime and violence—looks like a big deal. But, in fact, large-scale trouble is on the wane. Democrats have been passing very tough laws. Such vulnerable figures as Hubert Humphrey and Adlai Stevenson III have had no trouble in fudging the issue. Even a figure so little given to stickling for exactitude as Vice President Agnew has had to charge that the Democrats are late converts, not unbelievers.

By judicious timing of troop withdrawals and peace offers, Mr. Nixon has blunted the push to wind up the Vietnam war in a hurry. With the President backing out, however slowly, his opponents cannot seriously accuse their opponents of letting down the boys. The charges of "war lover" and "bug out" fall equally flat.

The economic issue is supposed to gain new saliency. No doubt the specter of depression still haunts the old centers of industry along the Great Lakes. But except for Michigan, unemployment tends to be below the national averages in those areas. Most of the big unemployment centers—Seattle, Cape Kennedy, San Diego, Los Angeles—have been cushioned against the pain by very rapid growth in past years.

Inflation, of course, is a far more sharply felt economic trouble. But with prices still rising, Republicans are in poor position to press the issue. And since the Democrats are known as the party of big spending and deficits, they have never been in good condition to turn inflation to advantage.

Thoughts About UW Presidency and Man Picked for Position

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — It is perhaps unfortunate but inevitable that President-Designate John C. Weaver of the University of Wisconsin will seem to many of his new constituents as somehow less formidable and prestigious a man than they tended to expect on the basis of their own cultivated estimate of the quality, importance and national distinction of their principal higher education institution. The reserve that will greet him, perhaps, will be the more visible because of the circumstances of his selection, and notably the encouraged retirement of his immediate predecessor, Fred Harvey Harrington.

The new president's academic specialty is geography as related to agriculture. His doctoral dissertation was on the growing of malt barley which has a nice provincial sound to Wisconsin. He has had a variety of positions, but none of them at an institution ranking in size or national recognition with the University of Wisconsin, and none of them of sensitively responsible rank until he was chosen president of the University of Missouri a few years ago.

Won't Challenge Comparison

Even such Missouri alumni hereabouts as may read these lines are not likely to challenge the idea that Missouri is in another league, academically and otherwise.

It is not difficult to imagine that when Dr. Weaver confronts his Wisconsin faculty for the first time, he will probably find curiosity and doubt, as politely concealed as possible.

These lines may convey an impression that is not intended.

The university regents were confronted with a real dilemma. No one who knows the university situation is likely to speculate that there were many of the top-ranking educational captains in the country clamoring to be considered for the administrative hotbed that the UW top job has become. If only on the basis of the long delay and the false starts on the presidential selection announcement, it can be surmised that the UW regents sought some men whom they could not lure to Madison.

Wiped Slate Clean

A majority of the board wanted to wipe the slate clean with the installation of a new face and a new personality, hired with the understanding that the regents' obvious commitment to order and firm control would be translated into performance.

The most telling reports from Columbia about the new UW president is that he believes in direct administrative responsibility and action by the president. This will strike many persons as a refreshing, if not urgent, change from the extreme decentralization of operations and responsibility that developed in the Harrington regime.

As in many other affairs, Wisconsin opinion has tended to reflect the university's own skillfully promoted image of itself — which was not contrived out of any false sense of modesty. However great it is by objective test, there is little in its modern history to suggest that the identities of its presidents had much cause and effect relationship.

This reporter's own recollection reaches back to the Glenn Frank regime.

He came to Wisconsin through obviously political means from a nonacademic background and with no administrative record in the strict sense. He fell a casualty to the forces that created him after a little more than a decade.

Former City Manager

His successor was the former city manager of Cincinnati. Presidents E. B. Fred and Conrad Elvehjem were retiring, dedicated men of science, harnessed against their real wishes. Fred Harrington aggressively sought the job, but the qualities that elevated him, later downed him.

President Weaver's acceptance under the circumstances prevailing show that he is confident, or ambitious, or both. The qualities will be needed to succeed even moderately in the most challenging public office in this state.

Resents LaFave Charge Against Gordon Bubolz

Editor, The Post-Crescent: Recently I read of a statement in which Mr. Gordon Bubolz of Appleton endorsed Patrick J. Lucey for governor because of Mr. Lucey's stand on the environmental issue. The story was carried in the Oshkosh Daily Northwestern and in Appleton radio station, WB-BY.

Wednesday, the Post-Crescent carried a story by State Senator Reuben LaFave, Republican from Oconto, accusing Mr. Bubolz of making a deal with Lucey as his reason for endorsement. Senator LaFave further stated that Mr. Bubolz doesn't have the support of conservation and sportsmen in the area.

I think Senator LaFave's comments are unfounded, and personally, I would like to see him prove his accusations, which I doubt he could do. Mr. Bubolz's record of positive involvement in conservation and environmental protection is a distinguished matter of public record. His endorsement of Mr. Lucey was probably based on fear of a conflict of interests regarding Republican candidates and businessmen with pollution interests to protect. After reading the Thursday's Milwaukee Sentinel in which Lucey exposed appointments made by Governor Knowles of those who have pollution interests, I believe Mr. Bubolz's concern was justified.

It's a sad state of affairs in this country when a private citizen with a qualified background can't take a stand on a vital issue without being accused by a state senator, entrusted with public office, of an ulterior motive. I think Senator LaFave has tarnished his record.

Israel Will Have to Withdraw From Occupied Areas; No Missile Pullback

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite strong and growing pressures from Israel on the United States to accept present cease-fire lines in the Middle East more or less indefinitely, President Nixon is now plotting a precisely opposite diplomatic course, designed to force Israeli withdrawal from most of the occupied Arab land.

But the new Nixon plan has one dramatic difference from last summer's peace proposal, which was shattered beyond recall by Egyptian and Soviet missile violations along the Suez Canal.

That earlier plan, devised by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, was strictly a U. S. operation in response to a specific Egyptian request from the late President Nasser. The new plan, the President has decreed, must be a joint Washington-Moscow operation, worked out every step of the way with the Soviet Union and — when the time is ripe — pushed jointly by the Americans and the Russians.

The transcendent reason for this presidential decision goes back to the dangerous events of mid-September at the height of the civil war in Jordan when, in the words of one presidential intimate, "war or peace hung by the thinnest of threads."

Terrifying Days

Although Mr. Nixon's diplomatic experts have been publicly reticent about the terrifying days of Sept. 20 to Sept. 23, they now reconstruct the potential disaster of that period as follows:

With Syrian tanks pouring across the Jordanian border, Israel was poised to carry out a self-defensive air strike against the tanks.

The precise timing of that Israeli air action depended on the progress of the Syrian tank force. With or without U.S. consent, however, Israel was primed to attack at any cost to prevent Syrian intervention from toppling Jordan's King Hussein.

But even more perilous, U. S. officials are convinced that Israel would have launched at precisely the same time an air attack against the Soviet anti-aircraft missiles emplaced along the west bank of the Suez Canal during the cease-fire.

That would probably have brought direct Soviet air intervention against the Israelis — an unacceptable intervention that could well have sucked the U. S. into a new Middle Eastern war with explosive potential.

As it happened, the Syrian tanks did withdraw on Sept. 23 — but only hours before the flash-point of Israeli intervention.

That grim sequence, more than any event since the 1967 six-day war, convinced President Nixon of the necessity of joint U. S.-Soviet action in the Middle East — to guard against an Israeli-Arab clash suddenly erupting into a direct, big-power conflict.

Must Convince Israel

Before any joint peace plan can be undertaken, the fruitless debate now going on in the UN General Assembly must run its course. No matter what anti-Israeli resolution is finally passed by the General Assembly, over U. S. protests, the Nixon administration will regard it as a pro-Arab political expedient counting for nothing.

Far more important is the task of convincing Israel that balance along the Suez Canal the vast new armaments now being made available from the U. S., including F-4 Phantoms and late-model tanks, have in effect restored the military Lead-Free Amoco.[®] is just what the President ordered.

On October 26, President Nixon ordered all U.S. Government cars to use lead-free or low-lead gasolines wherever possible.

His order is intended to reduce air pollution from automobiles. (Up to 60% of all air pollution in some metropolitan areas is caused by automobiles).

If your car uses a regular grade gasoline, chances are you can follow the President's directive, too.

And when it comes to a choice between low-lead and lead-free gasolines, remember this: A low-lead gasoline still adds lead pollutants to the air.

We strongly believe that a lead-free gasoline makes the most sense. That's why we make Lead-Free AMOCO with absolutely no lead. None.

Instead we use extra refining and blend in ingredients normally reserved for super-premium gasolines. So Lead-Free AMOCO delivers power and performance without adding lead.

It's too late for halfway measures.

SALT Reopens With Hopes for Curtailing Arms

HELSINKI (AP) — U.S. and Soviet envoys resumed the year-old Strategic Arms Limitation Talks today with expressions of hope for progress.

"With hard work and a mutual recognition of the legitimate security interests of each side," said Gerard C. Smith of the United States, "we should be able to make a start in the limitation of arms and a reduction in more constructive ends of some of the resources and energies of our societies."

Smith cited President Nixon's statement to the U.N. General Assembly on Oct. 23 that there is no greater contribution which the United States and the Soviet Union together could make than to limit the world's capacity for self-destruction.

The head of the Soviet delegation, Vladimir S. Semenov, replied that his government hopes "these talks will eventually produce positive results" and that "a constructive business-like approach is necessary."

He said the Soviet government in the past has come out for "lessening of tensions and reducing of armaments, and it is from these positions that we will conduct the present negotiations."

Substantive Negotiations
Smith and Semenov held preliminary negotiations for a month in Helsinki last November and December and agreed to get down to substantive negotiations in talks to be held alternately in Vienna and the Finnish capital. They met in Vienna from April 16 to Aug. 14.

Following the public opening ceremony today, the negotiators will resume secret talks Tuesday. They are expected to meet twice a week, alternating between the U.S. and Soviet embassies. The two men have agreed to keep their talks secret.

Arkansas Prison Inmates Revolt
PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — About 17 to 20 inmates, some of them armed, seized two paid prison employees and two inmate trustees at Cummins State Prison today and threatened to kill them unless their escape demands were met.

State Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver said the employees were being held in an isolation unit, which presently is housing about 30 inmates.

Sarver said some inmates were armed and were demanding a car, a tank of gasoline and clearance to leave the prison.

Inmates have been demanding for sometime that prison conditions be improved.

Kidnaped Ecuadorian Air Commander Walks to Safety

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Ecuador's air force commander flew close to his hideout, pale and unshaven, Gen. Celso Velasco, 40, stepped down from a helicopter on Sunday after a four-day search. He had been kidnaped five days earlier.

Defense Minister Jorge Acosta Velasco and his uncle, President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, talked with the general at the base before Rohn Sandoval went into seclusion in his apartment.

Defense officials released only sketchy details of Rohn Sandoval's story but said more information would be divulged "when circumstances permit."

Into Jungle
They said three men took the general into mountainous jungles northwest of the capital on Tuesday, and the helicopter scared the abductors away the next day.

The general hiked for four days, the officials reported, and finally reached a highway early Sunday. He flagged a truck, and the driver took him to a bus stop.

The ministry said the general's face was masked successfully by paint, and they did not disclose a motive for his action.

Ecuador, an Andean nation of 6 million inhabitants, has been under martial law since the abduction, although a nighttime curfew was lifted on Saturday. Fourteen thousand soldiers and national police under the defense ministry participated in the search.

Celebration Canceled
The air force canceled its 50th anniversary celebration, scheduled a few hours after Rohn Sandoval was seized, and heavy security measures were taken to protect visiting dignitaries.

Rohn Sandoval's limousine, a bullet hole in its windshield, was found late Tuesday. Inside were the general's cap, a blood-soaked handkerchief, a machine gun and a pistol. His drugged chauffeur was found later.

Newspapers received messages from three apparently different groups claiming responsibility for the kidnapping, but government officials discounted their validity. One group demanded a return to constitutional government as the price of Rohn Sandoval's return.

Velasco assumed dictatorial powers with the backing of the armed forces on June 22 to cope with an economic crisis and student agitation against the government.

Responsibility for Rent-a-Plane Flights Being Put on Users by FAA

WASHINGTON, AP — In the Wichita State was the operator of the plane and that the crew responsibility for the plane crash. FAA levied a $4,000 civil penalty against Air International, Inc., of Louisville, Ky.

The FAA also has acted against four firms indirectly linked to principals in the Wichita crash continue, along with action in two other cases.

The proposed rules put no responsibility on the firm leasing out the plane.

In a current case in Wisconsin, however, the government took one step toward putting some responsibility on the lessor.

The case in U.S. District charged that three firms—Business Aircraft Inc., Green Bay; G. C. Landry, doing business as Beachcraft Sales and Charter, East Troy, and Basler Flight Service, Inc., Oshkosh, operated from one source and hires a large aircraft for compensation crew from another is the operator of the plane—and would be required to have an FAA certificate.

At the heart of the Wichita case is the question of who was operating the plane. The Martin firm in an airplane owned by 494 was owned by Jack Richards Aviation Inc. of Oklahoma City.

The FAA says Golden Eagle was the operator of the plane, once owned by Jack Richards FAA Administrator John Shaf-fer said the separate crew and plane arrangements were merely a facade to evade FAA regulations for commercial air operations. Golden Eagle, as a firm, was not certified to fly a plane as large as the Martin 404.

Golden Eagle contends that the proposed rules put no responsibility on the firm leasing out the plane.

$2,031,619 Budget Approved by Board

CHILTON - The Calumet one area nursing home. High County board approved a ways and other transportation $2,031,619 budget for 1971 after a costs were set at $403,791 an public hearing on the budget increase of $39,953. Friday.

The budget will require a tax levy of $1,046,400, instead of the $1,096,400. The levy will require a tax rate of $4.89 per $1000 equalized valuation. This is an increase of 31 cents over last year's rate of $4.06.

Increases in charities, corrections, and highways and transportation costs made up a large share of the budget hike. Charities and corrections, including the county social services department and charges to the county for Calumet residents living in state institutions, amounts to $854,172, compared to $572,484 in 1970. A major increase in this category was for Old Age Assistance, which jumped from $29,320 to $151,910 this year due to removal of medicare certification of

Grand Chute Fire Destroys Storage Shed

Masonry Materials, Auto, Garden Tools Burned Saturday

Fire destroyed a wooden storage shed and its contents Saturday on the property of an elderly Grand Chute man.

Between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of masonry materials, an automobile and various pieces of garden equipment were lost in a blaze discovered about 11 a.m. on the property of Martin Van Den Bosch, 86, 4219 W. Spencer St.

Town of Grand Chute Fire Chief Vincent Baum, who said the building was engulfed in flames when his men arrived with three units, was unable to give the cause of the fire.

Van Den Bosch rented about half the space in the 24 by 50 foot shed to Freimuth Masonry Inc., of Appleton. Part-owner of the firm, James Freimuth, 33 Crestview Court, estimates damage to lumber, scaffolding and other equipment stored there at between $3,000 and $4,000.

Baum said that a 50-gallon drum of fuel oil also stored by the firm fed the blaze. His department went to the area on a report of smoke from a neighbor.

Van Den Bosch had been putting away garden equipment for the winter less than an hour before the blaze. His 1966 Rambler was also lost in the fire.

He could give no damage estimate, although the car, a riding lawn mower and new picnic table were some of the more expensive items destroyed.

'Doing Something' Industry Takes Steps to Help Its Alcoholics

BY FERN SMITH Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH - Alcoholism — a dirty word?

"Time was — and in many cases still is — the thing to do with a drunkard was to toss him in the "tank," let him sober up and turn him loose on society again, only to have him show up a little later and in the same condition.

But, times are changing. Society is beginning to recognize that alcoholism is an illness and, as such, it can be treated.

Industry in many parts of the nation has for years recognized the social and economic problems of alcoholism and a 100 or more large industries have done something about it.

Bergstrom Paper Co. believes that something can be done about alcoholism and this year it acted.

"We decided to do something about alcoholism, believing that one ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," a company official said. "We believe this, just as we believe that waste paper need not be discarded, that it can be regenerated, made useful again."

Bergstrom is the first company in the area to have a policy on alcoholism for its employees and a program that works.

First, the firm called in Pat Kelly, executive director of Alcoholism Services of Neenah-Menasha (ASONM). He conducted three sessions with the supervisory staff and union employees at Bergstrom's.

Simultaneously, a policy on alcoholism was drawn up by the company, designed for coordination through its personnel department.

The objective of the corporate policy is "to retain in the employment of this company those valued employees who have developed or are developing a drinking problem by helping them treat and arrest the illness alcoholism."

It was made very clear that the firm was not "witch-hunting."

Employees at Bergstrom are given this assurance:

—The firm believes that alcoholism, or problem drinking, is an illness and should be treated as such.

—The firm's concern for individual drinking practices begins ONLY when they result in unsatisfactory job performance, or adversely affects the operation or reputation of the company.

— That the firm feels it has a

Knowles Hits Lucey for Policy Claims

RACINE (AP)—Gov. Warren P. Knowles Thursday criticized Democratic gubernatorial candidate Patrick Lucey for laying claim to Republican policies designed to keep public universities open and protect the environment.

At a news conference during a campaign visit to the Racine area, the GOP governor said Lucey's "campus position papers advocate as new approaches the same programs that have kept our universities open during past disorders."

"I guess he couldn't find a better approach," Knowles said, adding that the same was true in the environmental area.

Knowles was campaigning with First District Republican Congressman Henry Schadeberg.

The governor urged voters to reject Schadeberg because he would support programs advanced by President Nixon.

failed to act on much of what he described as Nixon's "far-seeing reform program designed to make government more effective."

Instead, he charged, they have "insisted on their tired old remedy — more and more spending — for every government problem, a remedy that has already failed."

Democrats Blasted

"They have been unable to conduct the nation's business. Crucial matters have been delayed and postponed and must now be handled by a lame-duck session. They are a badly split party with a radical-liberal wing growing in power and threatening to take over control of the Democrat congressional leadership."

Byrnes said the basic issue in the campaign is whether voters will "give control to the Democrats who mismanaged the 91st Congress so badly, or will they give the President a Republican Congress which will work with him instead of against him."

He spoke during stops of a caravan of Republican candidates in Brown and Kewaunee counties Friday.

Byrnes said Democrats have

THE ENVIRONMENT: Jack Olson has spent a lifetime in conservation; served as vice-chairman of the ORAP 200 Task Force that secured $144 million to help localities fight water pollution; was named this year by President Nixon to the national Air Quality Advisory Board; received the 1970 Wisconsin Wildlife Federation's award for promoting recreation, conservation and water quality.

LAW ENFORCEMENT: As Acting Governor, Jack Olson obtained approval of new programs this year for campus security. While others talked, he acted with responsibility. He's for an end to violence and disruption, supports working for change within the system.

DRUG CONTROL: Jack Olson says we must "sweep the streets clean" of the pusher and the seller of drugs. He worked with the 1969 legislature in obtaining passage of new legislation to help control drug abuse.

TAX RELIEF: Jack Olson has proposed extending homestead property tax relief to low income residents, further extending it to senior citizens. He worked in the 1969 legislature for measures that returned more dollars to local government in tax relief and shared taxes than has ever been returned before.

JOB OPPORTUNITY: Over 200,000 new jobs have been created during the Knowles-Olson administration of state government. Jack Olson wants to keep the Wisconsin economy producing jobs by state action that helps develop tourism, agribusiness and industry.

STATE UNITY: Jack Olson says "the things that tie us together are much more important than the things that drive us apart." and his experience will help bring together the representatives of the city, the small town, the suburb and the rural area.

er Democratic candidates to crime and violence.

When the campaign opened months ago, it appeared Republicans were within striking distance of gaining control of the Senate for the first time since 1954—mainly because 25 of the seats up for grabs are held by Democrats, some elected or re-elected from usually Republican areas in the 1964 Goldwater debacle.

But most polls now indicate a GOP gain of one to three seats—short of the net gain of seven needed for Senate control but still better than the traditional off-year election loss of four

Elden J. Broehm
City Clerk

Conservative Party candidate Hubert H. Humphrey of James L. Buckley led Democrat Minnesota—are expected to win their Senate races easily.

The House of Representatives is expected to stay in Democratic hands. Traditionally, the party holding the White House loses an average of 37 House seats in mid-term elections, but Republicans hope to blunt that pattern.

Three Way Race

Another three-way race is in Connecticut. There, incumbent Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, who filed as an independent rather than risk losing in the Democratic primary, is running against the Rev. Joseph Duffey, a liberal Democrat, and Republican Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr.

Tennessee Democratic incumbent Albert Gore has been a top Republican target because of his liberal record. His Senate race with Republican Rep. William E. Brock III is rated a toss-up.

So is the battle in Ohio pitting Robert Taft Jr., son of a Republican senator and grandson of a Republican president, against Democrat Howard Metzenbaum, a Cleveland industrialist.

Three Democrats often mentioned as 1972 presidential contenders—Muskie of Maine, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, and former Vice Presi-

The GOP is currently leading for Democratic governorships in Connecticut and Tennessee, and are fighting to displace Democrats in Kansas, Maine and South Carolina.

In California, Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is virtually assured of re-election.

In New York, the final Daily News straw poll showed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller leading Democrat Arthur J. Goldberg by 15 percentage points in his bid for an unprecedented fourth term.

Snowmobile Show to Open

The first annual Fox Cities area Snowmobile show will be held on the enclosed mall at Valley Fair shopping center this week Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 5, 6, and 7.

Show hours will be from 10 to 9 Thursday and Friday and from 10 to 5 on Saturday. Admission is free and visitors will have an opportunity to inspect approximately 100 snowmobiles, all terrain vehicles and related units which are being shown by 18 area dealers. Free literature describing the features of the machines will be available from exhibitors.

Valley Fair Merchants Association, show sponsors, will award a variety of merchandise prizes donated by the stores. To participate, a coupon, found in the show ads, are to be filled out and dropped in the container on the mall or mailed to Valley Fair Shopping Center, Appleton. Most of the exhibitors will be moving in their units Wednesday night and early Thursday to assigned locations on the mall.

Miss Wisconsin is scheduled to make an appearance at the show as well as Dick Bosman of the Washington Senators.

Nose Drops, Sprays Not Really So Simple

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can nose spray be habit-forming? I use it every year because it is the only thing that relieves my stuffed-up nose in the hay fever season. But after several years it has become a habit with me. What can I do to break it? — J.D.

Dear Doctor: Can nosedrops be harmful to a child? The doctor has told me not to let my daughter have them, but she gets so stuffed up with a cold that she can't breathe, and gets panicky. I've tried not giving them to her, but she cries and that makes it worse. — W.J.

I'm not about to condemn nosedrops and nose sprays out of hand, but they aren't as simple as most people think.

You can get in trouble with them unless you understand something about them.

Technically, these are "decongestants." They give temporary relief but they do not cure. The effect is temporary. Indeed, once the effect has worn taken by mouth, toward the end of the season, may help break the congestive cycle.

I don't say not to use these products, but I do say to use them in limited fashion.

Yes, they can, but that is not the same as saying that they necessarily will.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have ugly spider veins on my legs and would like to use a cosmetic cream or liquid to cover them, but am afraid some of these products may not be safe. Is all right to use? — S.S.

That's probably the best way of handling spider veins, unless you just ignore them. To the best of my knowledge, all of the standard brand creams are safe. There are several, and I don't like to play favorites among them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson. Could

Church Women Set Plans for Annual Bazaar

NEW LONDON — The women of Emanuel Lutheran Church are preparing for their annual Christmas bazaar.

Chairman this year is Mrs. Elroy Stern. She announced that Thursday, Nov. 12, is the date for the event.

A schedule for the day shows a light lunch being served starting at 11:30 a.m., with the bazaar opening at noon.

At 4:30 p.m. until 7 p.m. a beef and pork supper will be served. During the sale there will be a coffee shop.

The luncheon and supper will be served in the basement of the Emanuel Lutheran Church, the coffee shop and bazaar will be held in the Emanuel Lutheran school gym.

Most of the items on sale are made by the women of the church. Included are a wide variety of items that will serve as Christmas gifts or decorations.

Witches' Brew, Republican Style

BY ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It was Halloween and all the polls were standing around the large iron kettle, waiting for it to boil. Spiro, the chef, was adding some spices.

"A dash of nattering nabob, a cup of radiolib, and three tablespoonfuls of law and order."

of rhetoric and poured the entire contents in.

Someone threw some wood on the fire and the brew started to bubble.

The Chief Taster Dick took his wooden spoon and everyone held his breath. Dick made a face, "It's flat. It needs more Democrats."

More Democrats

Everyone joined hands and danced around the kettle chanting, "It needs more Democrats! It needs more Democrats!"

Spiro the chef finally said, "We've thrown in all the Democrats. We have none left."

They all cried in despair: "We have no Democrats left. We have no Democrats left."

"Oh, what should we do? Oh, what should we do?"

The Chief Taster Dick stared at the pot, "Start throwing in Republicans."

There was a gasp from the witches, "Republicans?"

"That's what I said," the Chief Taster Dick said.

Spiro the chef and three of the witches grabbed Charlie Goodell and threw him in the pot.

Goodell screamed and thrashed around as everyone clapped their hands and sang: "Charlie Goodell is stewing in the pot. Charlie Goodell is stewing in the pot. Poor old

He passed the wooden spoon around to his advisers. They all agreed, and sang together: "It's missing something. It's missing something. Oh what, oh what is it missing?"

"I know," someone cried. "It's missing chopped rhetoric. No recipe is complete without chopped rhetoric."

"Of course," Spiro the chef said. And he took a large box of chopped rhetoric and poured the entire contents in.

Someone threw some wood on the fire and the brew started to bubble.

The Chief Taster Dick took his wooden spoon and everyone held his breath. Dick made a face, "It's flat. It needs more Democrats."

Spiro the chef stirred and stirred and then he gave the spoon to the Chief Taster Dick.

"That's better," he said, smacking his lips. "But it still needs another Republican."

"Another Republican?" everyone gasped.

Throw in Lindsay

"Throw in Lindsay," cried a goblin named Martha.

"Lindsay, Lindsay," everyone yelled. "The stew needs some Lindsay."

They heaved in Lindsay and added water to the pot.

Spiro stirred and seasoned it with a bowl of pornography, a pan of marijuana, a handful of media and a gravy of student unrest.

"Has there ever been a political brew like this?" cried one of the elves.

The Chief Taster Dick went back to the pot and stuck his spoon in. Everyone watched.

"It's almost perfect. All it needs is a little more extract of fear."

Spiro added several gallons of fear and then the Chief Taster Dick smacked his lips and said one word: "Perfect."

They all clapped and cried, "Let us taste it! Let us taste it!"

But Spiro the chef slapped their hands with the spoon and said angrily, "Nobody gets to eat unless they pay $250 a plate."

TO END CAMPUS VIOLENCE

Violence has become a way of life on our campuses. Classes are disrupted. Buildings destroyed. Many injured and now a life lost. And our present state leaders cut $322,000 from University police protection. Pat Lucey and Martin Schreiber believe in stronger police protection on our campuses. A curfew law to clear the streets during riots. Bans on explosives and guns on campus. Leadership for the majority that respects the law.

INNER CITY — policies o tions, an

SCHOOL AIDS — During thi session, Republicans of welfare costs by ating those programs rning people to the BUDGET — The 1967-69 state budget appropriated $1.166 billion and the 1969-71 budget appropriated $1.582 billion. Thus, Republicans increased the budget by $416 million, although they cut departmental budget requests by $238 million.

ENVIRONMENT — The 1969-71 conservation budget calls for a commitment of $48,600,000 to the vital area of environmental concern.

PROPER — Democrats would have the voter believe that Republicans are responsible for all the burdens of the local property taxpayer. So what's new?

Democrat charges that Republicans cut the budget are misleading; cutting requests and cutting budgets are not the same thing. On the defensive for refusing to vote for the budget bill, Democrats are now implying, through such criticism, that they would have given the departments everything they requested.

This may make good copy in the Democrat campaign literature, but it would have been the equivalent of a $55 tax increase for every man, woman and child in the state!

A review of Democrat spending proposals in this past session reveals that they introduced legislation to the tune of $821,877,813 over and above the Republican passed budget bill. These unfunded promises of something for everyone that the other guy pays would have meant a tax increase of $191.00 for every man, woman and child in Wisconsin.

If Democrats are willing to promise an additional $191.00 tax increase for every man, woman and child in the state when they can't deliver on their promise, what would happen to Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer if they were in a position to keep their word?

Democrats have been selling the idea of giving people more and letting the other guy pay for it a long, long time. You want to see what "the other guy" looks like? Look in a mirror.

Republicans believe that costs can best be held down at the local level if local units of government manage their own affairs. Democrats believe costs can best be held down at the local level if the state bears the cost. This is nothing more than the "let the other guy pay" philosophy that we've been fighting since the Republican Party was founded in 1854.

There's only one "soup-pot" for all, and Republicans prefer to draw out what's needed with a sieve, not a ladle!

Furthermore, Republicans appropriated $153.7 million in personal property tax relief. This is an increase of $30.6 million.

Republicans also appropriated $772.5 million for state aids to local units of government, an increase of $251.7 million.

In addition, Republicans allocated $521.4 million for shared taxes, an increase of $80 million dollars.

State government serves as a tax collector for local units of government; it is not a popular role to play. How much property tax relief is enough? As long as Democrats believe "the other guy" pays for it, there will never be enough.
